Detective, Felon Die in Gun Fight

POLICE BULLETS KILL HOODLUM IN STREET DUEL

Detective Morris Friedman, 46, of 3825 Fulton st., a member of the police robbery detail for the last 17 years, and Lyman Stanton Heiman, 37, of Detroit, an ex-convict whose army discharge papers indicated heroic service in the North African and Sicilian campaigns, were shot and killed late yesterday in a gun duel at Clark and Hubbard sts.

Friedman, with Detective Rudolph Friedl and Sgt. Frank Pape, encountered Heiman's automobile in Clark st. just south of Illinois st. a few minutes before the shooting. In Heiman's car were a woman and another man. His car was traveling south, the squad car north.

Car Speeds Away

Appearance of the trio aroused suspicion of the detectives, and they motioned the car to halt. Instead it turned around the corner and sped west on Hubbard st. The squad car proceeded north to Illinois st., turned west to La Salle st., and south to Hubbard st.

The detective car, driven by Friedl, was timed perfectly for the cut-off. It arrived at the intersection simultaneously with the fugitive car, which it curbed.

The instant Heiman's car came to a halt, he leaped out. He ran east on Hubbard st. Friedl and Friedman ran after him. Pape, who had handed Friedl one of his revolvers, kept the couple in the car covered with another one.

Pulls Out Two Guns

As Heiman approached Clark st. he saw that the detectives were gaining on him. He pulled two guns from his pockets, a .32 caliber automatic and a .38 caliber revolver, and started firing at his pursuers. One of the slugs struck Friedman in the abdomen. The detective stumbled and fell.

Friedl returned Heiman's fire. Heiman dodged behind a Cadillac sedan parked on the north side of Hubbard st. about 30 feet west of Clark st. The gun duel began, with the sedan serving as cover for the duelists.

Both kept circling the car and shooting. Five bullet holes were punched thru the windows of the car as one or the other caught sight of his adversary.

Suddenly Friedl got a glimpse of Heiman around a rear fender of the car, and shot the bandit thru the head. Not sure that Heiman was dead, Friedl stepped up and sent three more slugs into his body.

Friedman, who resided with his wife, Rose, was the father of two sons by a former marriage, Jack, 24, a chief petty officer in the navy,

Union Orders to End Truck Strike Defied

The executive board of the independent Chicago Truck Drivers' union, most of whose 6,000 members have been on strike for 10 days, quit the strike last night.

The board issued a statement urging the men to return to work and admitting inability to gain anything by continuing the strike.

75 Stewards Defy Board

Seventy-five union stewards from the larger barns, however, defied the executive board. They assembled in the union's headquarters at 809 Madison st., took over the telephones, and advised all union members who called the headquarters that the back to work order was premature.

At their insistence, the union officers scheduled a membership meeting for tonight in a hall at 4715 Madison st. The stewards took the position that the board lacked the authority to end a strike it did not call.

The statement of the executive board pointed out that many employers have expressed willingness to grant the union's demands if permitted to do so by the war labor board, and that by returning to work the men would be sure of an increase of $4.08 a week, retroactive to Jan. 1, which was granted by the WLB on May 1.

'Wait Until War Is Won'

"Let us not give an opportunity for our enemies to break this organization which for almost 40 years has fought for the rights of its members," the statement concluded. "Let us wait until the war is won and over with."

Ellis T. Longenecker, named by the office of defense transportation to operate the struck truck lines with military aid, who earlier had said he "would not be surprised" if a break in the strike came today, disclosed that truck operation yesterday was more nearly normal than any day since the strike began. He said the backlog of essential war materials has been taken care of and that inroads were being made on accumulated civilian goods.

He said that 50 out of 250 civilian ODT employes brought here to help out in the emergency have been returned to their home offices.

WOMAN KILLED BY FIRE IN NEAR NORTH SIDE FLAT

Mrs. Doris Kehm, about 30, wife of Horace S. Kehm, was found suffocated early today in a fire in their duplex apartment on the sixth and seventh floor of the building at 900 N. Michigan av.

A squad led by Policeman Philip W. O'Neill saw smoke issuing from a sixth floor window and broke open the door.

Mrs. Kehm's body, clad only in silk stockings, was found lying near a telephone in the living room. Her body was slightly burned. The fire blackened the room and destroyed most of the furnishings. Firemen said they believed the fire was started by a cigaret left in a chair.

EXPECT U.S., BRITISH TROOPS TO ENTER BERLIN WITHIN WEEK

21ST ARMY GROUP HDQ., June 25 (AP)—American, British, and Canadian troops and armor are expected to march to Berlin before July 1 and it is believed that the Big Three conference of Prime Minister Churchill, Premier Stalin, and President Truman will begin in the German capital about 10 days later.

Units of the British 7th armored [Desert Rats] division have been alerted to be ready on 12 hours notice for a parade to their occupation zone allotted in the western part of the city by the allied control commission.

A big dress rehearsal has been scheduled for tomorrow on the autobahn [super-highway] at Brunswick, the station from which the British and Canadian units will begin their march to Berlin, some 120 miles distant.

Danes Ship 9,000,000 Eggs to London for U. S. Army

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LOINDON, June 25—The Danish steamer Bergenhus arrived today with more than 9,000,000 eggs for the United States army. This was the biggest consignment imported since Denmark was overrun by the Germans in 1940. The Bergenhus sailed thru mine fields under escort, it was reported.

Yanks Cross 'Quiet' Stream; One Finds Journey Eternal

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH U. S. 37TH DIVISION, LUZON, June 22 [Delayed]—The 37th crossed a stream today. No one seems to know its name, but it could well be named after a dusty haired private first class who drove an armored car. He died here a few minutes ago.

The stream, now in the Cagayan valley's dry season, is only 50 or 60 feet wide and knee deep. Its waters run crystal clear from the Sierra Madre mountains. During the wet season it becomes a mighty river 300 feet wide and eight or 10 feet deep.

The Filipino highway commission was building a bridge when the war began. Its steel girders lie in a rusty pile on the bank.

Doughboys Rest in Grass

We reached the stream a little after noon. The doughboys, who had hiked nine miles this morning chasing fresh tank tracks all the way, dropped in the grass under the trees in an effort to get away from the 100-plus heat, while our tank crews sprayed the opposite shore.

"Twelve or 15 Nips were wading across the river when we came up," said the dusty haired private, whose armored car was close behind the two lead tanks.

The soldier squatted beside his car and threw stones toward the stream and said the halftrack that was following him sure made a racket when it cut loose with its four 50 caliber machine guns. A signal corps movie man squatting alongside said it looked like everything was going to be quiet, so he started back.

Relay Order to Cross

An order came, relayed down the line, to start across. The private climbed into his car. The lead tank ground into the stream, the infantrymen wading on each side and the engineer captain sloshing around hunting the best ford for the vehicles.

The first tank crossed. The second was just nosing into the water. The private and his car hadn't gone 50 feet.

There was a mighty blast. A shell landed just behind the second tank. The dirt rose like a flower pot. The infantry scattered. The tank stopped. Across the stream the lead tank stopped and the doughboys ran into a cut where the road came down the bank to the ford.

The private kept his car rolling to bring its guns to bear.

Jap Gunners Score

Another shell burst in the sand. Then a third hit the private's car. It killed him. It blew the crews of two other cars into the road. Their clothes torn, their faces and bodies pitted and blackened, they scrambled up the road.

In another minute or so the Jap gunners, well camouflaged both up and down stream, scored again. This time it was the halftrack with the four 50's which the private car driver had said made such a lot of noise. Three men jumped out, one of them with his clothes afire. With magnificent clear-headedness he ran to the river and dived in.

U. S. Guns Go Into Action

By that time our artillery was in action. The Japs in turn took to cover. For a half hour we did not hear a word out of them.

The troops started to cross again. Maj. Gen. Robert Beightler, the division commander, always to be found where the going gets rough, stood atop the bank to watch. Maybe the Japs saw his stars because they cut loose with machine guns, and the general, along with every one else, made for the bridge girders.

But the infantry and tanks already were across and fanning thru the woods. They did quite a bit of firing and then all was quiet, except for the snapping and cracking from the private's burning car.

Gunplay by Woman Held in Slaying

New Canaan, Conn., June 25 [Special]—The gun with which Imogene Stevens, 24, society beauty, shot and killed a 19 year old submarine sailor in the home of a neighbor Saturday night was disclosed today to have been fired by the vivacious Mrs. Stevens in her own home several hours before the fatal shooting.

Fresh bullet scars in the masonry of the Stevens' fireplace provoked a police inquiry which led to an admission by Mrs. Stevens that she had fired two shots into the fireplace "to see if the gun was in working order." The gun is a .25 caliber automatic which Mrs. Stevens said her husband—an army major—gave her for her protection when he went overseas.

Bullet Holes in Home

Impromptu target practice by Mrs. Stevens in her home has for some time been a source of apprehension to neighbors. Reporters found one of her living room panes partly smashed and the outside screen perforated eight times with holes the size of a .25 caliber bullet.

Mrs. Stevens was locked in the county jail today, charged with manslaughter. She will attend an inquest at Bridgeport tomorrow into the death of the sailor, Albert Kovacs of Norwalk.

She shot Kovacs in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton at 11:30 p. m. Saturday when she went to the Milton home and found the Miltons absent and Kovacs and his brother, James, 25, in the living room. She has told police she thought they were burglars and that they grappled with her when she ordered them to leave.

Tussle Is Denied

James Kovacs has denied that either he or his brother tussled with Mrs. Stevens. He said they called at the Milton home to visit Faith Coombs, 18, nurse to the Milton children, with whom Albert had a date. Miss Coombs was out and they were awaiting her, he explained.

Police records show that Mrs. Stevens summoned police to her home at 1:40 a. m. April 2 and asked them to arrest two men who had brought her home from a party. She said a dispute had arisen and she had been struck. She later refused to press charges against the men.

George Rasley Stevens Jr., wealthy father-in-law of Mrs. Stevens, visited her in jail today, accompanied by an attorney. She was described as "greatly upset" and taking frequent sedatives.

250,000 AT FRISCO ACCLAIM TRUMAN; SECURITY PACT TO BE SIGNED TODAY

President Speaks Tonight to End Conference

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 25—Elated over a tremendous demonstration from 250,000 cheering San Franciscans, President Truman tonight finished work on an address which will close the international security conference tomorrow with a clearcut indorsement of the world peace charter.

Arriving by plane from Portland, Ore., at 4:29 p. m. Chicago time, Mr. Truman was extended a welcome that admittedly made him tingle. Great crowds lined the streets of the city to give him a roaring acclaim on his first formal appearance in public since he took office less than three months ago. He responded by happy waves of his pearl-gray hat, his eyes sparkling behind his horn rimmed glasses.

"It's the office and what it stands for that they are cheering—not me," he told friends, beaming his pleasure.

Approves of Charter

He left no doubt that he is here to render full approval of the charter designed to prevent future wars.

His first words, as he stepped from the plane, were addressed to State Secretary Stettinius:

"You've done a good job, Ed." The state department head flushed with pleasure like a schoolboy.

More formally, a few minutes later, to Foreign Minister Evatt of Australia, third in the line of delegates who assembled at Hamilton field, army air base, to greet him, Mr. Truman declared:

"You have been working hard here and we are all highly pleased with the final results."

Again Voices Satisfaction

At a reception this evening attended by the delegates of 50 nations and again at a dinner for 26 persons given by Stettinius and other members of the American delegation, the President again expressed his satisfaction with the outcome of the parley.

Foreign emissaries watched curiously as Soviet Ambassador Gromyko came up to greet the President at the reception. The verbal exchange was scarcely historic. "Nice to see you," said Mr. Truman. "It is a great day—for San Francisco," responded Gromyko.

Champagne punch and lady fingers were served at the reception and a coast guard band repeatedly played "Missouri waltz," a tune undoubtedly destined to agonize the Presidential ears on innumerable occasions in the months to come.

After the dinner, at which Gen. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces, and other high ranking officers of the army and navy were guests in addition to members of the American delegation, Mr. Truman retired to his suite and worked on his speech.

B-29S IN RECORD RAID BOMB JAP WAR INDUSTRIES

GUAM, June 26 [Tuesday] (AP)—Between 450 and 500 B-29s struck 10 Japanese aircraft ammunition and ordnance factories in daylight about noon today in the largest demolition, pin-point mission ever flown against Japanese war industry targets.

Five of the factories were in the Nagoya area, two in the Osaka sector, two in the Gifu area near Nagoya, and one was at Akashi, 10 miles west of Kobe.

The Super Forts were escorted by Iwo based Mustangs of the 7th army fighter command. The strike was from medium altitude. Good weather permitted visual bombing of several targets, but cloud cover required precision instrument bombing of others.

Heaviest Blow of Campaign

The Super Forts dropped more than 3,000 tons of high explosive bombs in the most powerful strike of the 21st bomber command's new phase in Super Fort operations—complete blasting destruction of Japan's war industry, already seriously crippled by the fire bombing campaign which burned out 112 square miles of Nippon's industrial areas.

All plants bombed today had been damaged previously. Six were engaged directly in aircraft production and four produced guns and ammunition. One of the five Nagoya plants hit was the Chigusa factory, which produces ammunition components for the Japanese army. Thirty-five per cent of the plant's 1,240,000 square feet of roof area previously was knocked out in a demolition raid April 7 and a fire raid May 19.

Blast Duralumin Mill.

Other Nagoya area targets were the Atsuta factory of Nagoya arsenal, the Nippon Vehicle company, the Sumitoma Duralumin mill, and the Aichi Aircraft Works' Eitoku plant.

Targets near Gifu were the Mitsubishi Aircraft company's Kagamigahara plant and the Kawasaki Aircraft company's Kagamigahara plant, both hit in the last Super Fort mission Friday. At Osaka, the Super Forts struck the Osaka plant of the Sumitomo Light Metal Industry company and the Osaka army arsenal. As Akashi, the target was the Kawasaki Aircraft company's plant.

His Body Plugs a Hole in Ship; Trousers Lost

Kansas City, Mo., June 25 (AP)—Lt. Comdr. Wayne A. Parker, Oklahoma City, told here today of his experiences as a human plug. Parker, engineer officer of the U. S. S. Ringgold, backed into a gaping hole two and one-half feet below the water line when fire from Jap shore batteries at Tarawa ripped the vessel. "That jagged hole was mighty uncomfortable," he admitted, adding, "it cost me five minutes of anxiety and a new pair of trousers." He was awarded the navy cross.

Glider Rescue Test Again Fails

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WAKDE ISLAND, New Guinea, June 23 [Delayed]—Preparation for removing three plane crash survivors from Hidden valley in the interior of New Guinea received another setback today when the winching gear again failed on the pickup plane. Two crewmen were slightly injured.

One successful glider snatch had already been completed. As the tiny island garrison, including two Chicagoans, Corp. Ernest Roehrborn, 237 E. Delaware st., and Corp. Walter Lormer, 7575 Yale av., of the 64th army air force weather station watched, the glider, piloted by Capt. George R. Allen of Salem, Ore., left the runway smoothly and later made a fast landing. Then in simulation of the pickup planned later for Hidden valley, eight passengers were loaded aboard for further test. I was one of them.

Makes Necks Snap

We braced ourselves in the model CG-4A glider. The tow plane, piloted by Maj. William Samuels of Oakland, Cal., roared overhead and our necks snapped back at the shock which, however, was not as severe as expected. The glider left the ground immediately.

Then the forward momentum slowed and the glider hit the runway again. A half-inch steel cable had snapped at the winch inside the plane. "The winch just blew up," said the co-pilot, Capt. William G. McKenzie of La Crosse, Wis., after the landing. Flying pieces tore out the wall of the navigator's compartment, showered into the cockpit, and injured two enlisted men of the crew.

Get Another Plane

Col. Ray T. Elsmore of Menlo Park, Cal., who is in charge of the technical end of the rescue operations, flew immediately to Biak to arrange for another tow plane. He said the glider snatch plan might be abandoned if further difficulties are encountered.

The survivors of the original crash—Lt. Joseph McCollum of Trenton, Mo., WAC Corp. Margaret Hastings of Owego, N. Y., and Tech. Sgt. Kenneth Decker of Kelso, Wash., will have been in the valley six weeks tomorrow.

Action Unanimous on 10,000 Word Document

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 25—The world security conference late tonight completed the structure of the new league of nations to enforce peace.

Five hundred delegates representing the 50 nations allied against the axis powers assembled in the civic opera house in the penultimate plenary session of the conference, with British Ambassador Halifax presiding, unanimously approved the 10,000 word charter of the league, the statute of the new world court and the interim preparatory commission that will start the league operating. The interim commission will organize here on Wednesday and adjourn to its headquarters in London.

Asks Rising Vote

After the steering committee's report outlining the functions and powers of the preparatory commission had been approved, Chairman Halifax at 10:45 p. m. [12:45 a. m. Tuesday, Chicago time] announced: "It is my duty, honor, and privilege to call for a vote on the charter, the court, and the interim arrangements.

"I feel, in view of the world importance of this vote, that it would be appropriate for each delegation leader to rise in his place and signify his stand on a vote as important as we are ever likely to take in our lifetime."

The leaders of the 50 delegations arose as one man when Halifax called for votes in favor of the charter, the world court, and the preparatory commission.

Vote Is Unanimous

Secretary General Hiss counted them and whispered the result to Halifax. Halifax then called out: "Any against?" No one arose and the chairman announced, at 10:49 p. m., that the charter had been approved unanimously.

Ambassador Gromyko of Russia raised the one note of objection heard at the meeting. He stalked to the rostrum after Francisco A. Delgado of the Philippine commonwealth, reporter secretary of commission 1, had read his report on the section of the charter concerned with general provisions.

The Russian government, Gromkyo said, deemed it necessary to make a dissenting observation to a commentary by the commission on the right of a member to withdraw from the organization. The commission stated it is not the purpose of the organization to compel any member to remain in the organization if it feels constrained to withdraw "and leave the burden of maintaining international peace and security on the other members."

Calls It "Defective"

"The Soviet government feels that this expression is defective and in no way can the delegation agree to it," Gromyko said.

"It is wrong to condemn a state when it finds necessary grounds for withdrawal," he said. "Such a right is an expression of state sovereignty. The constitution of the union of Soviet Socialist republics gives every republic the right freely to secede from the union, and this common right is a striking demonstration of the democracy on which the union is founded.

"It is not justifiable to condemn the reasons for withdrawing from the organization. Such condemnation would be a violation of the principles of democracy and sovereignty."

Asks Objection Be Noted

Gromyko requested that his statement be attached to the record of the session and he did not object a few minutes later when the commission report was unanimously adopted.

Delegations mixed freely on the floor of the opera house for half an hour before Halifax called the meeting to order, exchanging pleasantries and autographs. Many were in tails for the first time.

Just prior to the final vote, State Secretary Stettinius was called to the rostrum to accept a big scroll, tied with a broad red silk ribbon, which attested to the steering committee's appreciation of his services as its chairman. Responding to loud applause, Stettinius declared:

"All I can say is that any success I have had is due to the support of 50 delegations. I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Russia Not Mentioned

Dr. Belt also lauded Ambassador Halifax, Wellington Koo of China, and Alger Hiss, the secretary general of the conference. The name of each was loudly clapped. There was no reference to Ambassador Gromyko and soviet Russia was thus the only sponsoring power left unmentioned in the final round of tributes.

The proceedings moved swiftly, with a minimum of oratory and without bothersome translations until the business was completed. Hugues Le Gallais of Luxemburg, reporter secretary of the credentials committee, was the first conference officer called upon by Halifax. He reported that all of the 50 nations had empowered one or more members of their delegations to sign the charter for their governments.

Dr. Octavio Mendez Pereira of Panama presented the provisions of the charter for the general assembly, Ambassador Celso R. Velaquez of Paraguay the security council, and Foreign Minister Caracciolo Parra-Perez of Venezuela, the judicial organization.

3 Hours for Signing

The signing of the official copy of the charter in five languages—English, French, Spanish, Russian, and Chinese—is to begin early tomorrow morning on the 26th anniversary almost to a day of the signing of the covenant of the first league of nations in Paris June 28, 1919. The delegates will attach their signatures in high hopes that the new league will be more successful than the first in preventing the recurrence of war.

It will take the 200 delegates possessing signing powers about eight hours to attach their signatures to the charter, with time allowed for each one to say a few words for the news reels for home consumption. Argentina will sign first, Yugoslavia last.

Weighs 6 Pounds

The charter is printed on treaty paper, 10 by 13¼ inches, bound in blue morocco, lined in white, with 14 carat gold tooling on the cover bearing the conference seal. There are 145 pages of charter text, 25 for signatures. The book weighs about 6 pounds.

The conference will end in a plenary session late tomorrow afternoon on its 63d day with an address by President Truman. In a half hour speech, broadcast to every part of the globe, from 7 to 7:30 Chicago time, the President formally will dedicate the new world undertaking to abolish war.

Immediately after the final plenary session the President will fly to Independence, Mo., for a homecoming celebration while Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, accompanied by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], will take off for Washington bearing the official copy of the charter.

Due in Senate Next Week

Mr. Truman is to transmit the charter to the senate the first of next week with a special message asking its immediate ratification for which a two-thirds majority will be necessary. In the meantime, however, Senators Connally and Vandenberg will report to the senate on the results of the San Francisco conference. Connally is to address the senate next Thursday, Vandenberg on Friday.

The President would like to apprise Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at the Big Three meeting in Berlin the middle of next month of the ratification of the charter by the senate, as an earnest of the participation of the United States in the new peace league in contrast wtih its failure to join the old league. But Sen. Connally thinks ratification is unlikely before the middle of September. Ambassador Halifax predicts British ratification in the fall.

Expects Ratification

Sen. Connally has no doubt of senate ratification by well over the requisite two-thirds, tho there may be a few reservations to preserve American sovereignty, rights and interests from infringement by the international pact. It was Woodrow Wilson's rejection of such reservations to the covenant that kept America out of the first league. President Truman, however, is not likely to reject any senate reservations. When in the senate he voted for the reservations that kept the United States out of the world court.

The biggest fight is expected on the proposed statute prescribing the powers of the American delegate in the peace league's security council. This battle will revolve around the question of the authority of the American delegate to vote to order the America quota of the international police force into action against a nation accused of breach of the peace without getting the express consent of congress, constitutionally the sole war making power.

Reservation Likely

A reservation is likely to be offered to the resolution of ratification depriving the American delegate of such power to act independently of congress. The sponsors of the charter, however, will endeavor to keep this whole question out of the ratification debate in the senate and shunt it to later action on legislation instructing the delegate, which could be enacted by a simple majority of each house.

The nationalists contend it would be unconstitutional for the American delegate to send American forces into war without express authorization by congress. The internationalists hold that the President, acting thru the American delegate, could deploy American forces as he frequently does in emergency to defend American rights, without recourse to congress. Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] has said that for ordinary policing the sanction of congress would not be necessary but for a regular war a declaration of war by congress would be required for the use of American forces by the league.

Vandenberg will support the charter, he stated today.

Will Urge Adoption

"I shall sign the San Francisco charter and I shall make every effort to secure its ratification with reasonable speed," Sen. Vandenberg said. "I shall present my complete reasons to the senate later in the week. I consider collective security essential to peace with justice in a world of free men; and the San Francisco charter is the world's only chance in this vital direction. Despite its infirmities, the San Francisco charter is a sound basis for seeking organized peace. In my opinion our intelligent American self-interest indispensably requires our loyal coöperation in this great adventure to stop World War III before it starts. I am confident that congress and the country will agree."

President Roosevelt appointed Vandenberg to the American delegation in the expectation that the senator after collaboration on the production of the charter would espouse it and wield his influence in the senate to procure its approval. The late President always ascribed the failure of the senate to ratify the covenant to Mr. Wilson's failure to take any senators with him to Paris in the American delegation.

Induced Modifications

Mr. Roosevelt became convinced of Vandenberg's willingness to collaborate by a speech the senator made on Jan. 10 last. And so vital did Mr. Roosevelt consider Vandenberg's support that when the senator denounced the secret deal of three votes for Russian and three for the United States and threatened to withdraw from the delegation the President backed down sufficiently to appease the senator.

Vandenberg left the impress of his views on the charter and, tho accepting numerous compromises, succeeded in modifying in many respects the plans and specifications for the peace league brought to San Francisco by the more extreme internationalists inside and outside of the American delegation. The internationalists drew a breath of relief when they became convinced that Vandenberg would support the charter in the senate, for they were equally convinced that the Michigan senator could beat the charter if he should oppose it.

Sen. Connally's Cousin Killed in Raid on Japs

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—Col. James T. Connally of Waco, Tex., army pilot and a cousin of Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], was killed May 29 during an air raid on Yokahama. News of his death was conveyed by the war department today to Connally's office.

Quiet Entry

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower, tired by a week of spectacular receptions, slipped into Washington with a minimum of fanfare today. Only a handful of greeters met his train. With Eisenhower were Mrs. Eisenhower and their son, Lt. John Eisenhower. The Eisenhowers drove straight home from the station for a rest before the general's first engagement of the day, a reception at the home of War Secretary Stimson late this afternoon.

Tells Stettinius He Did 'Good Job'

came to attention as the President's plane, a big C-54 transport known as the "Flying White House" touched its wheels to the air field.

Meets U. S. Delegation

Stettinius, who had been nervously instructing the delegates before the plane's arrival, herding them here and there, was the first to greet the President, whose opening remark was about the "good job" done. Then Mr. Truman shook hands with the other members of the American delegation: Senators Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and Connally [D., Tex.]; Comdr. Stassen; Representatives Bloom [D., N. Y.] and Eaton [R., N. J.], and Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve. For each, he had a word and a smile.

Guided by Stettinius, he advanced 50 feet to where the chairmen of the 50 delegations were awaiting, most of them garbed in somber black with black Homburg hats. They lined up in alphabetical order and Miguel Angel Carcano, Argentine ambassador to Great Britain, was the first to shake his hand. Stettinius introduced each delegate as he came forward.

Gets 21 Gun Salute

A 21 gun salute was booming, meanwhile, and the President then stood at attention as the national anthem was played. The band next struck up "Missouri Waltz" and Mr. Truman grinned. He walked briskly before the troops at attention, spoke a word of appreciation to the band leader.

When the President saw the great crowds lining the streets of the city after his cavalcade had crossed the Golden Gate bridge, he perched himself high on the rear seat so that he could be visible to all.

TALKS TO VETS

Portland, Ore., June 25 (AP)—President Truman told wounded soldiers here today the veterans of this war "are going to run this country."

Addressing patients of the big veterans hospital on Marquam hill, the President declared "in the next generation the veterans of this war are going to run this country."

"They fought to save it. Now they want to fight to maintain it. This is their duty."

The President spoke after visiting the wards of the institution, following a procession thru the city. After arrival by plane from Olympia, Wash., en route to San Francisco. His hat waving and his face wreathed in smiles, he acknowledged an enthusiastic greeting from thousands lined along downtown Portland streets.

The President promised an improvement in the veterans picture when Gen. Bradley takes over as veterans' administrator, replacing Brig. Gen. Hines.

He said that "those who are crippled, those who are wounded, those who are incapacitated in any other way, must have the training they are entitled to. Nothing is too good for them."

U.S. GLOBAL GUNS FOUND UNFIRED AS BATAAN FELL

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 25—Substantial shipments of weapons to allies in 1942 when the Philippines fell were revealed today by examination of official government records on the first year of lend-lease operations. Some of these weapons have not fired a single shot against the enemy.

Planes, tanks, ships, artillery, small arms, and other combat supplies valued at about 2 billion dollars were shipped from the United States as the heroic American and Filipino defenders of Bataan were pitted against the overwhelming superiority of the enemy.

The exhausted garrison was without planes and other weapons. Only a handful of supplies was sent to the besieged garrison while the lend-lease largesse was being distributed to allies. Sizable shipments went to noncombat areas.

Passed Hat for Bomber

At the time the defenders of the Philippines were passing the hat with typical American humor in the face of death to buy a bomber. Planes were being shipped from America but not to these orphans of the Roosevelt administration's foreign policy.

The heavy shipment of arms came at the time the United States was trying to build its army at home. The flow of military supplies was then heavier than the war production program could replace.

Records show that 2,688 bombing planes valued at almost 392 million dollars were sent out under lend-lease in 1942. While most of these were sent after Bataan fell, a considerable number went before the saddest surrender in American history, as is evidenced by the fact that 43 of the bombers went to the Netherlands East Indies, which fell a short time after the Philippines. Australia got 70 planes; China, 29, and New Zealand, 31.

Big Share to Russia

The bulk of the bombing planes were to areas outside the Pacific. Russia got 1,060, and the United Kingdom, 975. Brazil got 39, and India, 33.

At the same time, 2,843 pursuit planes valued at more than 193 million dollars were shipped under lend-lease. Of these, 221 went to China, 157 to Australia, 18 to the Netherlands East Indies, and 53 to New Zealand. Russia got 1,417, and the United Kingdom, 453.

Among noncombatant areas, Peru got 14 planes; Brazil, 19; Uruguay, 8; Canada, 29; the Gold Coast, 66; Nigeria, 15; British East Africa, 30, and the Union of South Africa, 8.

Lend-lease shipped 83 observation planes, 1,539 training planes, 293 transport planes, 39 land planes, 19 flying boats, 28 seaplanes, and two gliders. The bulk of these went to the British Empire with small numbers going to South and Latin American countries. These were valued at more than 75 million dollars.

Shipment of Engines

In the same year $37,266,561 of airplane engines and $175,000,000 of parts and accessories were shipped to the British Empire, Russia, and American republics.

Lend-lease sent 540 merchant vessels valued at $37,309,412 to allies at a time when the Philippines received only a drop of supplies from torpedo boats and submarines. Of these, 259 went to Iran for supplying the Russian life line thru that country, 31 went to Russia directly, and the rest went to the British Empire.

Records show 654 motorboats valued at more than 44 million dollars were shipped. All but 131 of these, which were sent to Iraq, went to the British Empire.

Official files show that 13,774 scout cars, 272 light armored cars, 500 medium armored cars, 102 heavy armored cars, 451 ordnance vehicles, 3,110 light tanks, and 3,287 medium tanks were shipped in 1942. These were valued at almost 350 million dollars. More than half of these went to Russia and the rest to the British Empire.

There was also shipments of $61,451,140 of tank parts and accessories, and more than $12,000,000 of parts and accessories for other military vehicles and trucks.

CHARTER STILL SAME AS PRINTED IN THE TRIBUNE

Renumbering Job Is Done on Chapters

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 25—The charter of the new world peace organization, printed exclusively in THE TRIBUNE last Friday, 24 hours before most morning newspapers thruout the country were able to get it in type, stands unchanged in substance after four days of tinkering by last minute "fixers" in the conference committees.

However, the "fixers" had to do a thoro renumbering job, an inspection of the original document showed today. This was because of somebody's decision to make separate articles out of a couple of paragraphs and because of the fact that the original drafters wound up with two articles 63, two articles 64, the same number of articles 12, and a few other annoying absurdities.

Two Paragraphs Omitted

This meant, of course, that cross-references to other sections of the charter had to be renumbered. Some language changes were necessary, too, because it appears that the official name of the organization, "the united nations" did not appear often enough in the text to suit some of the diplomats.

Two short paragraphs of THE TRIBUNE'S text are dropped out in the final draft the delegates signed, and obviously this was done because of duplication or lack of significance. One of these was paragraph 3 of article 4, which says that the acts of the general assembly shall be communicated to the government of the United States as depository of the charter and to the governments of the other members.

The other was a two paragraph section carried in THE TRIBUNE text as article 64-A. This was a longer duplication of article 64, carried just above it, and the coördinating committee apparently chose the shorter text.

There was a touch of common sense editing in many of the last minute language changes. Several times the phrase "is authorized to" was dropped for the shorter, more direct "may." One whole line of THE TRIBUNE'S text—"brought into relationship with it"—was dropped out of one paragraph and, lo and behold, the sense wasn't changed a bit.

Chapters Reshuffled

Several whole chapters were shuffled around in position in the charter, altho none of the committeemen could say what difference it made if the trusteeship chapter came 12th as it did in THE TRIBUNE text or 13th as it does in the final draft.

Twice in the charter the five permanent members of the security council are mentioned by name. THE TRIBUNE text carried them in this order—the United States, United Kingdom, Union of Soviet Socialist States, China, and France—putting America first.

The internationalist "fixers" in the last minutes of the conference contrived to put the United States last in both instances by shuffling the names into alphabetical order.

Acts Early

Paralyzed by a stroke two years ago, Mrs. Gisela Hessinger, 66, of 6140 Drexel av., arranged to be carried by stretcher yesterday before Albert O. Hoffman, immigration hearing examiner, to make preliminary application for citizenship papers. She came here in 1940 from Jugoslavia and wished to get her papers as soon as the five year residence period expired. She was accompanied by a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Leffman, 4367 Oakenwald av., and a son, Rudolph Hess, 2753 Glenlake av.

Russians Repatriated by Allies Top 1,200,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 25—More than 1,200,000 displaced Russians and liberated prisoners of war were turned over to the soviet army by Anglo-American armies up to June 13, supreme headquarters announced today. Less than 800,000 Russians now are awaiting repatriation from Germany, France, and Belgium. Nearly 300,000 western European displaced persons were turned over to British and American authorities by the soviets.

WHO FOOTS BILL FOR UNRRA TOLD BY SUPPLY CHIEF

Most of the 44 countries comprising the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration have paid or arranged to pay the full 1 per cent of their annual national income they agreed to give toward the rebuilding of devastated Europe and China, Roy F. Hendrickson, deputy director general of UNRRA, said here yesterday.

Roy F. Hendrickson

Hendrickson is in charge of UNRRA's supply program to which the United States as the largest contributor is giving a billion 350 million dollars.

Hendrickson said only a few countries among the 44 have not yet given UNRRA anything, notably Egypt, Iran, and Iraq. "A few Latin-American countries haven't the means," he said, "but are doing what they can. Thus, Mexico, while behind, has given $15,000,000. Russia, having been occupied and greatly devasted, has given her share to administrative expenses, which in toto are 12 millions."

England, he said, has given her full share, 300 millions: 30 million in cash, 270 in goods.

He said France, Norway, Belgium, and Holland, having means of their own to rebuild, will not come under the UNRRA plan, unless future action affecting them is taken.

TELEVISION AID TO PEACE, NBC EXECUTIVE SAYS

Television will be a great force for peace, John F. Royal, vice president of NBC in charge of television, said last night at a dinner marking the opening of the fourth annual NBC-Northwestern university summer institute in the First Methodist church, Evanston.

"Thru television we will better understand the thinking of other people, thereby enhancing international peace," Royal said. "Radio has played a great part toward bringing this war to a successful conclusion, and television will carry on from there."

YANKS, BRITISH TO MOVE INTO VIENNA SHORTLY

Gen. Clark to Head U. S. Occupation Army

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 25—What is described as the "advance party" of the allied control commission for Austria, consisting of American, British, and French representatives, was reported tonight to have returned to London from Vienna, following discussions with the Russians regarding the joint government of Austria by the four powers.

Dispatches from Rome indicated that allied occupation forces, under the command of Gen. Mark Clark, may move into their allotted sections of Vienna and the rest of Austria within three weeks.

Report Zones Delineated

The Vienna talks are said to have resulted in an agreement in principle regarding the zones of occupation. The United States, it is reported, will control Upper Austria, Salzburg, and northern Tyrol; Britain—Styria, Carinthia, and southern Tyrol; Russia—Lower Austria, Burgenland, and the province of Vienna; and France—Vorralberg.

The city of Vienna will be divided equally among the four powers, it is said.

Two problems still have to be settled, however, before the control commission can begin to function in Vienna, it was stated by diplomatic observers here.

Air Field Problem

The Russian plan to divide the control of Vienna among the four powers would leave all the air fields in the outskirts of the city in soviet hands and deprive the Americans, British, and French of independent air communications.

The three powers are said to have submitted a counterproposal which the Russians are now considering: that the zoning of the capital be based on the area of greater Vienna, which includes the air fields outside the city proper. This larger region, not merely the center of the city, it is suggested, should be divided equally among the four powers.

The Americans and British also are reported to be insisting that they be allowed to use the Danube, which flows thru the Russian zone of occupation, for the transportation of supplies.

Viennese Joyful

VIENNA, Austria, June 23 [Delayed]—(AP)—Vienna, rubbled and hungry but once again a city of music, eagerly anticipates an American and British entry into the city to assume joint occupation with the Russians and French.

The Viennese are awaiting the prospect with outspoken joy. Tonight it was the chief topic of conversation in the foyers of the Austrian capital's theaters, open again in all their splendor. Hundreds of Viennese, spotting American flags on the AP correspondent's jeep, rushed up to ask: "When are you coming?"

The city operates under a provisional government approved by Russian occupation forces, with Social Democrat and Communist party leaders sharing cabinet posts under Chancellor Dr. Karl Renner.

The Viennese are firm in statements that they hate the Nazis, fought them and consider Austria a liberated land. They are digging out of the wreckage left by American air raids, Russian and German shelling, and German vengeance.

Set Fire to Cathedral

Famed St. Stephan's cathedral, in the heart of Vienna, was set afire by the Nazis as they retreated. The outer walls still stand, "but men and women went thru the streets crying openly and without shame as the news spread that St. Stephan's had been destroyed," one Viennese said.

When the Russians entered the city, others said, the Viennese "ran into the streets and threw their arms around the Red army soldiers."

The city is one of startling contrasts. Food is scarce but coarse, dark bread—good but tiresome—is cheap. On the other hand, there is a flourishing black market in Karlsplatz despite daily attempts by Russian and Austrian police to stamp it out.

The restaurants have little food and it costs $80 upward to eat a satisfactory meal in one. One cigaret brings from 70 cents to $1.

In the American colony was Miss Constance Drexel of Philadelphia, who said she had made "cultural" broadcasts for the Germans from Berlin. She said she had made broadcasts of her own free will, but for the last three years permitted them to be directed "only at the British empire."

INDICTED FOR TREASON

Constance Drexel was indicted in the United States in 1943 for treason in connection with axis propaganda activities.

SPAIN'S FAMED ALCAZAR FORT BEING REBUILT

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOLEDO, Spain, June 25—Clearing off rubble and dynamiting the tottering masonry of the mammoth Alcazar, which withstood a 67 day siege in the summer of 1936 before Spanish Republicans [Loyalists] stormed the Falangist [Franco] stronghold, was completed today and rebuilding, which is expected to require six years, starts immediately.

The gigantic stone edifice, dominating a vast arid plain 50 miles south of Madrid and surrounded on three sides by the Tejo river, was constructed as a fort by the Romans in the first century, then reconstructed as a tremendous strategic strongpoint by the Moors in the 11th century, and since enlarged by successive Spanish kings.

About 75 per cent of the historic structure was shattered by artillery and there was some damage by bombs, but the stone blocks are preserved and will be rebuilt into the new edifice.

Victim's Names on Plaque

I visited the ancient Arab fortress across the river, from where Republican batteries shelled the strongpoint and inspected the deep underground galleries where the garrison and populace of Toledo were sheltered.

I attended mass in the ancient massive cathedral where perfect acoustics did not require loudspeakers and amplifiers to make the priests' intonations audible thruout the vast building.

Most of the church treasure was intact, including the golden symbols and vessels weighing more than a ton of precious metal and worth millions of dollars as bullion.

The El Greco masterpieces were intact and the Goya canvasses undisturbed, but a priceless clerical robe, embroidered with 80,000 pearls, which I saw in 1930, was missing, allegedly stolen by the Republicans.

Claim Finest Steel

The archbishop of Toledo's emerald and ruby encrusted crown was back on its pedestal.

The Arabs brought their secrets of tempering steel to Toledo from Damascus, and in the days when business men carried swords instead of fountain pens the city did a tremendous business in sabres, rapiers, and daggers. The process enabled the blades to bend without snapping.

Nowadays when swords are rare as banners and flags in armies, Toledo smiths make paper cutters, scissors, and cigaret cases. Their steel still is the world's finest, according to Tomas Rodriguez Bolonia, chamber of commerce president.

"I believe the blade of the sword which King George of England gave to Stalin commemorating the Stalingrad victory came from a Toledo smithy," said Civil Gov. Blas Tello Fernandez Caballero.

Calle Toledo Ohio, a street named after the American city, is the steepest, narrowest thorofare in the town, running right up to Alcazar.

Lend-Lease for Russia Now Goes to Siberia, Crowley Says

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 25—American lend-lease supplies are being shipped to Russian Siberia, it was disclosed today in testimony by Lend-Lease Administrator Crowley before the house appropriations committee. Crowley said lend-lease shipments to western Russia were stopped soon after Germany's capitulation.

"There is, however," said Crowley, "a program that is sponsored by our military under which we are supplying aid to Russia that is going to Siberia. My understanding with the chief of staff is that this aid will be continued until such time as the President and his highest military advisers advise us they think it should be discontinued. All of the things that are being included in this are items that our military feel are necessary to the plan."

Plan Called Advantageous

Crowley's statement, made earlier this month but not released until today, said the Siberian aid program is regarded by highest military authorities as advantageous to the United States, even tho the soviet union has not declared war against Japan.

"The possibility of Russia's entry into the war against Japan," Crowley said, "acts to pin down in northern Manchuria large numbers of Japanese troops which might otherwise be diverted against the American, British, Chinese, and other allied forces in the Asiatic theater." The witness pledged that soviet military requirements in the far east will be continually reviewed by our military and lend-lease officials to limit lend-lease shipments to actual needs. Members of congress speculated that the continued shipments to Russia since V-E day might be part of the administration's effort to obtain soviet acceptance of the San Francisco world peace charter.

Calls for 4 Billions More

Crowley told the house group that the 1946 budget for lend-lease, which has so far entailed an outlay of about 40 billion dollars, totals 4 billion 375 million dollars. This includes 2.4 billions in available prior appropriations, and new funds of 1 billion 975 millions.

He said lend-lease aid to European nations was greatly reduced after Germany's defeat, and that it may end completely by Dec. 31 for France, Holland, and Belgium. Shipments to Great Britain, as well as Russia, have been sharply cut, he added.

In cases where lend-lease shipments were stopped with the victory in Europe, he explained, Russia and other nations were given a chance to pay cash for supplies to finish uncompleted plants and similar items.

Italy Slated for Aid

Crowley also disclosed that an unspecified part of the 1946 lend-lease budget is allocated for supplies to Italy, altho that nation is a co-belligerent and not an ally. He explained that the army deems this policy necessary to combat hunger and disease while United States troops are stationed in Italy.

With victory over Japan, the witness said, lend-lease should be promptly discontinued. He predicted the program could be stopped within 30 days after the Pacific war ends.

REVEAL FRANCO BALKED SPAIN'S ENTRY INTO WAR

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, June 25 (AP)—A German diplomatic report which has been found by the allies indicates that Generalissimo Franco of Spain and Mussolini discussed the question of Spain's entry into the war on the axis side in 1941 but the Spanish leader insisted his country was too near starvation and militarily unprepared.

The document also indicated, however, that the possibility of Spain's getting Gibraltar and French Morocco also was discussed. The information contained in the report has been turned over to the highest authorities.

The report, dated Feb. 12, 1941, bore the signature of Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, then state secretary in the German foreign ministry and later German minister to the Vatican, and was addressed to Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop.

It relayed a report from an Italian representative named Cosmelli [apparently Giuseppe Cosmelli, counselor of the Italian embassy in Berlin] who had just attended a meeting between Mussolini and Franco.

TWO DEATHS HELD ACCIDENT

FRANCE TO HAVE FREE PRESS—BUT CENSORED CABLE

PARIS, June 25 (AP)—Information Minister Jacques Soustelle said today that, apart from censorship based only on military security, France is going to have a completely free press. In his first conference since he assumed his post, Soustelle said the government would make every effort to keep news correspondents informed on official matters.

"When I am unable to answer questions I will say so frankly," he said. "The ministry is going to operate on the theory that correspondents are worthy of its confidence."

French censorship of newsmatter for foreign outlets will be installed after SHAEF leaves Paris.

GERMAN REDS OPPOSE SOVIET SETUP IN REICH

Favor Coalition Rule, Private Enterprise

MOSCOW, June 25 (AP)—The German Communist party, in a manifesto issued in Berlin, today rejected a soviet system for present day Germany and instead asked for a coalition parliamentary government and the development of private enterprise and the profit system.

The appeal, signed by the central committee of the Communist party and reported by the Russian Tass news agency, was addressed to all German people everywhere.

Calling for equal rights before the law and free elections, the manifesto demanded the confiscation of the big estates of the Nazis, Junkers and "imperialists" and their division among landless peasants.

It made clear that all Germans, except the Nazis and rich collaborators, should retain their property and that large scale landowners should keep their lands if they had not tied up with the Nazis.

Blame German People

The Communist party not only blamed the German people for their plight, but also blamed the German Communists themselves for being unable to weld together democratic groups in defiance of the Nazis.

The communist appeal also admitted that Germany should repay the allies for the damage and harm done during the war.

The German Communist party, in the election of March, 1933, which swept Hitler into power, tallied nearly 5,000,000 votes and elected 81 delegates to the reichstag. Only two parties were stronger—the Nazis and the Social Democrats.

Leading signer of the document was a former reichstag deputy, 67 year old Wilhelm Pieck, associate of Rosa Luxemburg [German Red leader who was assassinated in 1919.] Two women, Irene Gertner and Marta Arendzee, likewise signed the manifesto.

Demand Purge of Nazis

Saying that the "fascist plague" was victorious in Germany only because "in 1918 the instigators of the war and war criminals remained unpunished," the manifesto demanded the "complete liquidation of the remnants of the Hitlerite regime and the Nazi party."

The manifesto said that the reconstruction tasks facing Germany, which it described as overwhelmed by an "incredible catastrophe," included punishment by German courts of Hitler's accomplices not scheduled for trial by the allied nations. Also demanded was an anti-Nazi purge of schools and the introduction of a "genuine, democratic, freedom-loving, progressive spirit" into schools and all educational institutions, together with instruction pointing out the "catastrophic consequences of Hitlerite politics for the German people."

Baby Falls Five Floors on Clothes Line; Scratched

New York, June 25 (AP)—Ordinary clothes lines today save the life of 19 month old William Likely when he fell five floors to a concrete areaway. The clothes lines, strung from apartment house windows, broke his fall after he toppled from his tricycle thru an unscreened window. Reconstruction hospital authorities said he received only lacerations and abrasions.

HITLER SAFE BEYOND ENEMY'S REACH, SAYS MYSTERY BROADCAST

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—The Daily Sketch reported today that its radio listening post had picked up a mysterious German language broadcast last night saying that Adolf Hitler is alive and safe. The broadcast was not heard by any other listening center.

The Sketch said the unidentified radio went dead immediately after reporting: "The fuehrer is alive and safe. He is living with some of his most faithful followers far beyond the reach of the enemy. Do not despair, Germans! The light will come again from the darkness.

"The despicable machinations of his false friends with whom he surrounded himself have misfired. Those who aimed high and for greater power are now either dead or are languishing in enemy prison cages. The power for which they strove and for which they were willing to sacrifice the fuehrer was of short duration only."

CANADA PLANS PUMP-PRIMING JOB PROGRAM

QUEBEC, June 25 (AP)—Canada's post-war employment program calls for pump-priming government expenditures to provide 1,000,000 more jobs than were available in 1939, Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of labor, told the governing body of the international labor organization today.

Aiming at a total employment goal, "somewhat below the abnormally high war time level," MacNamara said the Canadian government plans to see that jobs are promoted by these expenditures: export trade, private investment in plants, equipment, and other capital goods, in consumer expenditures, and in government expenditures.

"We intend to follow the policy—for which there is as yet no working model in any country—of varying expenditure so as to compensate for fluctuations in private spending," MacNamara said. "To this end the dominion will seek provincial and municipal coöperation in accumulating a 'shelf' of employment."

Report Puppet Slovakian President Held by Czechs

BRITISH LEADERS JAILED DURING WAR IDENTIFIED

Reported Held Without Charges or Trial

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 25—Many prominent Britons, some with distinguished service records, were among 1,847 persons interned as political prisoners under defense regulations 18-b.

The home office refuses to make public the identities of the internees, who, during the war in Europe, were held for varying periods without formal charge or trial. However, the identities of a number of them have become known.

They include Adm. Barry Domville, a British knight, who held a number of high naval posts; Capt. A. H. M. Ramsay, member of parliament who served with the Coldstream guards 1914-'18, and Capt. George Pitt-Rivers, a descendant of Prime Minister Pitt. Capt. Pitt-Rivers was interned 18 months.

Held on Suspicion

Another descendant of a prime minister who was detained is Capt. Robert Gordon-Canning, one of whose forebears was Prime Minister George Canning, who is buried in Westminster abbey. Gordon-Canning won the military cross as an officer in the king's guards regiment in World War I.

These men were held without the right of habeas corpus, almost wholly on suspicion. The home office explained they were accused of no crime, but that the government had felt it was uncertain what they might do if the country were invaded by the Germans.

Domville was released in July, 1943, after being locked up three years. His wife and 22 year old son, Compton, served shorter terms. In 1937 Domville founded the Link, an Anglo-German friendship group, which presumably put him under suspicion.

Ramsay was picked up at the time of the Dunkerque retreat in May, 1940, and was released in September, 1944. Nothing has been revealed as to the reasons for his internment, altho he has been accused of being anti-Semitic.

Served Three Years

Gordon-Canning, who served three years, is said to have been a member of the Link.

Pitt-Rivers, known internationally as an expert of populations, eugenics, and anthropology, was one of two members of the respectable Athenaeum club, London, to be jailed. The other is Harry St. John Bridger Philby, known as Philby of Arabia due to his widespread experience in the middle east and India.

It is believed that Pitt-Rivers never has learned of the charges against him. In the 1935 parliamentary campaign, in which he ran as an independent, he invited Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Union of Fascists, to speak on the platform with him, but he also invited leaders of all the other parties.

John Beckett, ex-member of parliament, was interned in May, 1940, and released in October, 1943.

Beckett tried to gain his freedom by a writ of habeas corpus, but his application was denied. He is believed to have been interned for advocating a negotiated peace early in the war.

Others Who Were Held

Others interned included Squadron Leader George Surtees, member of the royal flying corps in World War I.; Joe Beckett, British ex-heavyweight boxing champion, who was held 18 months, and his wife and 6 week old baby, and Roland Ruffer, proprietor of the last private banking house in London, founded in the 16th century.

Ruffer was a World War I. veteran who required continuous medical attention. He was detained in June, 1940, and died soon after his release early in 1941.

Dr. Christobel Nicholson, wife of Adm. W. S. Nicholson of Bath, was mentioned in the Tyler Kent case but was cleared of all charges in the trial.

However, as she was leaving the Old Bailey court she was seized under 18-b, and held at Holloway prison, London, for three years.

[Tyler Kent, former American embassy clerk, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment in 1940 on charges of revealing embassy secrets. After Kent had pleaded for an opportunity to present his case in an American court, the United States Supreme court denied a writ of mandamus seeking his return to this country.]

Adm. Nicholas Wilkov was released at the age of 72 after three years internment. He died shortly after.

9TH AIR FORCE BEING SPLIT UP FOR NEW DUTIES

Part Stays in Europe as Occupation Unit

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 25 (AP)—The United States 9th air force, largest tactical air force in the world, is being broken up and some of its units will be sent to the Pacific to fight Japan. Other parts of the 9th will remain in Europe as the nucleus of an occupational air force which will be maintained as long as United States ground forces remain in Germany.

Ninth air force headquarters announced the dissolution and disclosed that three fighter-bomber groups, two bomber groups, six reconnaissance squadrons and several auxiliary units will leave for the United States on July 1.

These units have more than 13,000 flying and ground personnel. The men are being processed thru the air division of the assembly area command at Reims. Other units will follow, the announcement said.

French Units Returned

The 1st tactical air force—the combined American and French air force which was activated provisionally after the landings in southern France to support the 6th army group—has been dissolved. The American section was returned to the United States 9th air force. The French section reverted to French command.

It is not known definitely how many of the 9th air force's 20 fighter bomber and 11 bomber groups will remain in Europe, or how many will be sent to the Pacific via the United States. Some units sent to the United States probably will be held there as strategic reserve. Nor was it announced whether 9th air force headquarters would become headquarters of the occupational air force.

The fact that the 9th is being broken up suggested a new assignment for Lt. Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, 9th air force commander, altho this was not confirmed here.

Head For Another Theater

The announcement of the departure of the first units said the outfits were named for "redeployment thru the United States," indicating they were continuing on to an active theater.

The first combat units to leave will be the 50th, 373d and 358th fighter groups; the 400th and 410th light bombardment groups; the 39th and 31st squadrons of the 363d reconnaissance group; the 162d and 15th squadrons of the 10th reconnaissance group; the 10th and 22d squadrons; and the headquarters of the 67th tactical reconnaissance group.

Combat crews of the bombardment groups will fly their A36 Invaders across the Atlantic. The fighters and reconnaissance personnel will return to the United States by ship, as will various auxiliary outfits named for transfer. All three fighter units and the 10th and 67th reconnaissance groups won Presidential citations.

Drive on Air Base

CHUNGKING China, June 25 (AP)—Chinese troops have clashed with strong Japanese forces 15 miles northwest of Kwellin in a renewed drive to recapture that Kwangsi province capital, once the biggest American air base in south-central China, the Chinese command said tonight.

The new outbreak of fighting before Kwellin—where until seven months ago the United States 14th air force had three air fields—occurred in 3,000 foot hills six miles north of the highway center of Ining, 12 miles northwest of Kwellin, it said.

More than 100 Japanese were killed or wounded in the clash, which carried the Chinese within 11 miles of the escape railroad to Hengyang for Japanese garrisons in both Kwellin and Liuchow. Strong Japanese rearguards were reported fighting stubbornly for Liuchow, 90 miles southwest of Kwellin.

HIROHITO TELLS JAPS TO KILL SELVES IF TAKEN

San Francisco, Cal., June 25 (AP)—Members of the Japanese people's volunteer corps were ordered today to commit suicide rather than be taken prisoner as they prepared to go under personal command of Emperor Hirohito. The volunteers were warned in a new handbook that if the home islands are invaded they will be called out to take part in the actual fighting, the Domei news agency reported.

Domei frankly admitted the loss of Okinawa rendered defense of the home islands more difficult. However, the high command made a fantastic claim of 80,800 American casualties on the island and 600 war craft or transports sunk or damaged.

Home Minister Genki Abe made a detailed report to Hirohito on air raid damage in Tokyo. The radio said allied forces had attempted a landing at Balikpapan in southeast Borneo which had been "completely checked." Tokyo radio also admitted that American air raids on Formosa had "reduced to cinders" most of the cities on the fortress island. Another broadcast quoted Aiichiro Fujiyama, industrialist, as declaring "Japan's big business is not interested in anything short of a total Japanese victory."

REDS IN BELGIUM ATTACK KING'S REPUTED CHOICE

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 25—Communists, fighting the return of King Leopold III., today leveled a smear barrage at Lt. Gen. Ganshof van der Meersch, the king's reported choice to head a new cabinet.

Lt. Gen. van der Meersch

Red leaders and left wingers of the Socialist and Liberal parties were meeting with organized labor tonight, discussing plans for a general strike. A majority opposed any demonstration before Leopold names a cabinet that would permit him to replace the present regency of his brother, Prince Charles.

The communist newspaper, Red Banner, charged that a government under Van der Meersch would be dictatorship and that his appointment would be the signal for a general strike thruout Belgium. Van der Meersch has been with the king near Salzburg, Austria, since last Friday.

Arrested Reds in 1940

The newspaper recalled that Van der Meersch, now directing the prosecution of Belgian quislings, in 1939 and in early 1940 was arresting Communists.

Albert Marteaux, a communist member of the present cabinet which is opposed to the return of Leopold, told correspondents that Reds in Belgium as in the United States, had opposed aid to Great Britain and France against Hitler in the "imperialists' war."

He reminded correspondents that Belgium had a nonaggression pact with Germany — similar to that of Russia with the reich—which was in effect until the German invasion of Belgium on May 10, 1940.

Asked whether Van der Meersch ordered the arrest of Communists for opposing war preparations, Marteaux said: "He arrested those who disagreed with him politically and I was one of them."

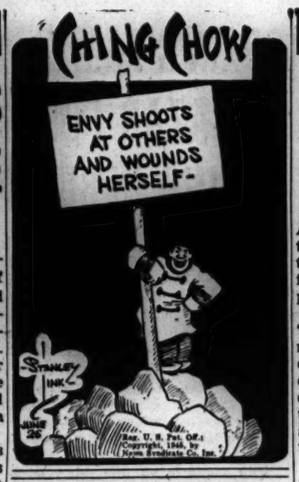
Capital Remains Calm

Brussels, at least on the surface, remained calm in the face of last night's reading to parliamentary and party leaders of a message from King Leopold in which he announced that he was proceeding with the formation of a new government, indicating that he had no intention to renounce the throne.

The monarch this week plans to interview Belgians shuttled to and from Brussels in planes furnished by supreme headquarters. More than a score have been invited to see him in the next few days.

TWO STOLEN CARS ABANDONED

Jack Schutte, manager of the Hebert-Morgan Motor Sales company, 738 E. 61st st., reported to police yesterday that thieves stole two old cars, 21 tires, 13 batteries, and miscellaneous articles. Their loot was valued at $2,300. The cars were found later.



ALLIES PREPARE TO TAKE OVER IN TRIESTE STRIKE

TRIESTE, June 25 (AP)—Allied military government officers prepared to maintain essential services and distribute food as a general strike today halted all dock work, stopped transportation, and closed shops.

The strike was called in protest against disbandment of the "Guard of the People," an unofficial police force formed during the Yugoslav occupation.

Members of the police force turned in their arms peacefully Sunday at allied request. Later, one allied officer said, the strike was ordered by "phone calls from various anonymous persons." The sponsors were not determined immediately.

BROOKLYN BIRTH IS DEFENSE OF LORD HAW HAW

LONDON, June 25 (AP)—Claiming American citizenship, William Joyce today challenged Britain's right to try him on charges of high treason for serving as a nazi radio mouthpiece for about $60 a week.

Joyce, whom the British dubbed "Lord Haw Haw," entered a formal plea of innocent after the government outlined the prosecution case in ancient Bow street police court. The hearing was adjourned until Thursday. The magistrate said Joyce would be committed then for a high court trial.

Joyce, smiling occasionally and shifting uneasily in his chair in the prisoner's cage at other times, argued thru his counsel that he was born April 24, 1906, in Brooklyn, N. Y. He said he was the son of an Irish father and an English mother and that he lived in the United States until he was about 3.

Joyce contended that his father had taken out naturalization papers at the time but that he lost his citizenship later because of "failure to re-register."

Cite Passport Claims

The indictment listed Joyce as a British subject. The prosecution said he claimed British citizenship in applying for a passport in 1933 and on two later occasions, the last only 10 days before the outbreak of the war when he fled to Germany to work for Hitler.

Joyce was caught near the Danish border after the surrender of Germany.

The broadcasts sneered at the British in an Oxford accent when Hitler's hordes were overrunning Europe and offered alibis for the Nazis when Germany was suffering defeats.

Joyce's views as he reputedly gave them to military authorities in a statement were read to the court by the prosecution. They included an assertion that he was "actuated not by a desire for personal gain . . . but solely by political conviction."

U. S. Plans No Action

Washington, D. C., June 25 [Special]—The United States government disassociated itself from the case of William Joyce, sardonic broadcaster of the nazi radio, now held in Britain upon treason charges.

"Lord Haw Haw," whose radio talks thruout the war directed sneers at the United States and everything American as well as British, is now reported to be claiming American citizenship. The state department today refused official comment on the claim. The government, however, it is understood, has found no evidence to support that claim.

Justice department officials, on the other hand, stated that they have no plans for bringing charges against Joyce in connection with his war time propaganda activities.

Leak Hunters

You've probably learned about some unusual jobs like the tea taster, coffee smeller, etc., and no doubt you've chuckled while you learned. Well, here is, perhaps, a new one—to you. Did you ever hear of a leak hunter? No, we don't mean a plumber. We're going to tell you about him, because a fine story about leak hunters recently appeared in the Schenley employees' magazine.

First of all a leak hunter's job is one of the most important in the distillery. He makes a daily tour of the warehouses where whiskey in fifty-gallon oak casks is quietly aging and mellowing, for years. He inspects the seams, the hoods and the staves of these casks, searching for leaks and for imperfections which might lead to leaks. Now let's see how important his job is.

A barrel has a capacity of fifty gallons of whiskey. These days, when Internal Revenue Tax is $9.00 per gallon, you can easily figure the loss incurred if the content of a barrel of whiskey is lost by leakage. Not only is the whiskey a dead loss, there is a loss also of $9.00 tax on each of the fifty gallons—minus some deduction. (The government allows a normal deduction of 22% of the tax for evaporation and shrinkage over a four year period.)

The leak hunter has an arduous task. He must not only find the leak but he must repair it with materisl which he carries. He is compelled to use a hammer in tight places where tiers of barrels are six high. There's just enough space between the barrels and between the tiers to permit proper circulation of air, and as he crawls along those barrels he wears a head lamp, like a coal miner—with the batteries on his back for safety sake. It takes time for a man to become adept at this type of work.

The leak hunter saves the distillery many thousands of dollars annually. So while you might get a mile out of this most unusual work, seriously speaking, leak hunting is no joke.

2 U. S. COLUMNS SQUEEZE 20,000 JAPS ON LUZON

Paratroopers March to Aid of Guerrillas

MANILA, June 26 [Tuesday] (AP)—A gain of six miles northward by the 37th infantry division and a thrust southward by the 11th air borne division troops and guerrillas tightened a vise on an estimated 20,000 Japanese now "thoroly trapped" in the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

Between them, and now only four miles north of the hastening 37th division, were American led guerrilla forces in the Cagayan province capital of Tuguegarao. These guerrillas seized the town last week and since have fought off constant enemy counter-attacks.

Take Aparri Air Field

Status of Tuguegarao was in doubt today as the Japanese continued their counter-attacks. The 37th, driving down highway No. 5 alongside the Cagayan river, destroyed an undisclosed number of Japanese heavy 150 caliber artillery pieces and killed 175 enemy soldiers and captured 20.

The 11th air borne division and 6th army elements thrusting south captured Aparri air field, the first the enemy erected in the Philippines after invading at Aparri on Dec. 10, 1941. More than 30 enemy planes were captured in dispersal areas near the field.

Gain on Mindanao

As the Cagayan valley campaign thus sped towards its climax, MacArthur also disclosed that the Japanese had lost their major supply base in Luzon's mountains west of the Cagayan.

The 130th regiment of the 33d division alone accounted for more than 400 Japanese killed in its 11 day advance into the Balud valley.

On Mindanao, where another cleanup campaign is in progress, Maj. Gen. Roscow B. Woodruff's 24th infantry division crossed the Tomogan river Saturday, outflanking a Japanese wedge between Talomo and the Davao river.

Report June 10 Landing

Elements of the United States 25th infantry division in a 40 mile water hop landed unopposed June 10 on the shores of Baler bay on the east coast of central Luzon, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

The town of Baler was occupied quickly by the Americans, as was the airstrip seven miles distant.

During the Spanish-American war Baler gained fame as the site where a Spanish garrison held out for one year against Filipino forces.

RIVAL LEADERS AT INDIA PARLEY, BUT NOT GANDHI

Wavell Asks Factions to End Enmities

SIMLA, India, June 25 (AP)—Twenty-one of India's top political leaders met today with British Viceroy Wavell and began discussing his proposals to give more posts in the Indian government to Indians.

The conferees accepted Wavell's outline of things to be considered and at the end of the day's discussions it was said that the "conference is proceeding satisfactorily."

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual head of the All-India Congress party, remained in Simla but did not attend the meeting. He said he was not a delegate. The Congress party was represented by its president, Maulana Abul Kalanazad. The Moslem league, rival of Gandhi's party, also was represented by its president, Mahomed Ali Jinnah.

The conference program reportedly includes discussions of a proposed general election, reorganization of the provisional government with a coalition cabinet, and selection of a council of the central government on a parity basis.

Demonstration Outside Gates

Wavell asked that all factions "rise above the levels of old prejudices and enmities of party and sectional advantage." He reiterated that no final constitutional settlement of the Indian problem was sought here, but that the conference might pave the way for such a result.

He proposed establishment of an interim government in which he would keep the war ministry but turn over all the other cabinet posts to Indians.

There was a demonstration outside the viceregal gates during the conference. The demonstrators paraded with banners, shouting their slogans. Among them were members of the Mahasabha, extreme orthodox Hindus who oppose the Wavell plan.

Himalayan Setting

The conferees met on the lawn of the viceroy's lodge in a Himalayan mountain setting, with Scottish soldiers in kilts standing guard and scarlet liveried servants running errands.

Gandhi's decision to remain in Simla, while not attending the meetings, was seen as a move to avoid any blame in case the negotiations between Wavell and the Indian leaders are broken off. Three years ago negotiations between Indians and Stafford Cripps over a proposed governmental reorganization stopped after Gandhi left Delhi.

129TH REGIMENT ADVANCES

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 129TH REGIMENT IN LUZON, June 25—After a 24 mile advance in two days under a broiling sun, the 129th regiment, a former Illinois national guard outfit, tonight were only four miles from the last Japanese held air field on Luzon at Tuguegarao.

Since breaking into Cagayan valley two weeks ago following the scrap in Balete pass foothills, in which more than 4,000 Japs were counted dead, the 37th had advanced 164 miles.

Find Two Big Guns

The infantry's advance was virtually without opposition yesterday. Before they dug their nightly foxholes they made 18 miles. They killed only one Jap all day. However, they counted 173 bodies of Japs. The regiment also found two big guns which had fired across a stream three days ago, knocking out two of our armored vehicles. Near the guns were five machine guns and several artillery caissons, all abandoned by the Japs.

The advance was slowed as the infantry neared Tuguegarao, the doughboys fanning out across the valley. On previous days the forward speed was limited only by the ability of the foot soldiers to hike thru the heat and of trucks to keep them supplied. At present the 37th supply line stretches 200 miles across twisting Balete pass to the Luzon plain.

With one group of eight Japs who surrendered yesterday was one Formosan. The Japs shouted angrily at the Formosan every time he started to speak. They made him kneel behind them. They made him walk last. When Sgt. John McLeod, a former Chicago City News bureau reporter and now correspondent for Yank army magazine, gave the Formosan a package of cigarets, the Japs took them from him to replace their own, hand rolled from pages of an American Bible.

LIFT CENSORSHIP OF POLITICAL NEWS IN MEDITERRANEAN

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, June 25—All press censorship restrictions in the Mediterranean theater have been lifted with the exception of those imposed to prevent any data of military value reaching the Japanese. Many of the "stops" on copy ended on June 18 but this policy was not officially announced until today by Brig. Gen. Arthur McChrystal, censorship chief at allied headquarters.

Among important restrictions removed are those limiting political articles and recital of incidents which were considered as "liable to create dissension among the allies."

The continuing censorship directives in connection with the conduct of our war against Japan ban release of stories referring to movements of troops from this theater directly to the Pacific, methods employed by allied prisoners of war in escaping from the Germans during the European conflict, and secret military equipment and tactics.

The body of a woman killed by a taxicab in Jackson blvd., near Rockwell st. early yesterday was identified last night as that of Mrs. Catherine Byron, 58, of 3930 Congress st. The driver was Michael Laurie, 34, of 3442 Lexington st. He said he did not see the woman, but stopped after he felt a jolt.

Freeman Walker, 50, Negro, of 1416 Kimble av., North Chicago, died yesterday in St. Therese hospital, Waukegan, from injuries suffered Saturday when he was struck by an automobile in Lewis av., near North Chicago.

CHICAGOAN AIDS THOUSANDS OF GIs GOING HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 25—Sgt. Bob Tyndall of Chicago, a veteran with 40 months overseas service, has helped the American army's 7th port outfit load and unload more American soldiers coming from and going to the United States than any other in the transportation corps, Stars and Stripes, army newspaper, reported in a dispatch from Gourock, Scotland.

Tyndall left America in 1942 with the Iceland bound 5th division and hasn't been home since. But in the last 12 months he has checked in thousands of GIs going home.

OKINAWA'S JAP PRISONER TOTAL REACHES 8,696

GUAM, June 26 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Four small Japanese aerial assaults, the first against Okinawa ground installations since that island was secured Thursday, caused minor damage to American air field installations Sunday. Two of the raiders were shot down.

Mopping up operations yesterday netted another 794 Japanese prisoners of war for a total of 8,696. Of the total, 2,854 are reported to be labor troops. Yesterday, Nimitz reported 101,853 Japanese had been killed.

Blast Jap Shipping

American flyers have sunk 122,645 tons of Japanese shipping since beginning operations over enemy waters, and damaged another 128,890 tons, Adm. Nimitz announced.

His bulletin described combined army, navy, and marine aerial blows at the whole length of Japan's island empire from the southern Ryukyus to the northern Kuriles Sunday and Monday.

A small enemy ship and several small craft were damaged in the Sakishima group. Marine flyers damaged a cargo ship and a transport in the Silkoku area. Another small cargo ship probably was sunk and two others damaged by Liberators off Paramushiro in the Kuriles.

Seek Missing Yanks

American patrols searched Okinawa today for bodies of comrades, hoping to solve the mystery of what happened to United States soldiers and marines captured by the Japanese.

No trace of the missing Americans or their bodies has been found, Correspondent Robert Geiger reported from Okinawa.

The missing probably do not exceed 300, on the basis of official figures.

Col. J. M. Finn, 32d regiment commander, told Geiger many bodies had been examined in caves of hill 89 on the southern tip of Okinawa, the last Japanese command post. None was identified as American.

Tokyo radio, in belatedly acknowledging the loss of Okinawa, identified the commander as Lt. Gen. Mitsuru Ushijima. The broadcast said his last message to the high command was received June 19, the day before "he and the entire forces under his command made the final charge into the enemy."

1,128 MORE JAPS SLAIN ON THREE AUSSIE FRONTS

MANILA, June 26 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Australian ground forces cleaning out by-passed Japanese garrisons on New Guinea, Bougainville, and New Britain have counted an additional 1,128 dead and captured 33, raising enemy casualties in those areas since Jan. 1 to 9,725 counted dead and 226 prisoners, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

The Australians, supported by New Zealand and Australian planes, have made their biggest haul on Bougainville, where 4,810 Japanese dead have been counted since the first of the year, plus 80 captured. The New Guinea toll was almost as great: 4,743 killed and 144 captured.

Japs Report Allied Landing.

San Francisco, Cal., June 25 (AP)—The Japanese Domei agency reported tonight that allied forces had landed on Ternate, an island 10 miles west of Halmahera. Halmahera lies between New Guinea and Celebes.

Chris Makes His Trolley Safe for Men Who Drink

St. Louis, Mo., June 25 (AP)—Chris Liebe, operator of a Manchester street car, had trouble keeping on schedule today, but he wasn't to blame. Liebe had to make three unscheduled stops—each time to kill a snake found in the car. He killed a fourth snake after the car had been emptied of passengers at the end of his run.

Mrs. Eve Johnson, 26, of 1209 N. 20th av., Melrose Park, yesterday was granted a divorce by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court from her husband, Perry, 32, superintendent of an electrical concern. Mrs. Johnson testified, in response to questioning by Joseph H. and Norman Becker, her attorneys, that her husband deserted her May 5, 1944. When he left, she said, he announced that there was "another woman, who came first." Mrs. Johnson's twin sister, Mrs. Melvina Zimmerman, 5955 Walton st., corroborated her testimony. The wife was granted custody of the couple's two children, Patricia, 5, and Louise, 3, and $80 a month for their support.

TROPICAL STORM SKIRTS COAST OF CAROLINAS

Wilmington, N. C., June 25 (AP)—A tropical storm which is lashing its way up the Atlantic coast, and late tonight was in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras, appeared headed for the little town of Manteo, N. C., on Roanoke Island, which was severely damaged in last October's tropic hurricane.

At 11:40 p. m. [Chicago time] the United States marine air station weather bureau at Cherry Point said the storm was about half way between the marine base and Atlantic field, the latter being 95 miles northeast of Wilmington. The marine station said the present course of the storm would take it west of Cape Hatteras, and that Manteo appeared to be directly in its path.

After swirling across Florida without doing serious damage the storm center passed 40 miles off Charleston. Heavy rains, amounting to more than eight inches were the principal result.

BORNEO POUNDED BY BOMBS; FOUR JAP SHIPS SUNK

MANILA, June 26 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Action on Australian-invaded Borneo was limited to patrol operations, Gen. MacArthur reported today, with no indication how near the Australians had reached to the Miri oil fields on the north coast.

Off Borneo, allied planes destroyed four coastal vessels and damaged others being built in the Pontianak area on Borneo's west coast.

The often-bombed east coast port of Balikpapan was hit again and the Tabanio air field was cratered while fuel dumps were set afire along the north coast. Formosa was bombed again, the Kobi alcohol refinery being set aflame.

REFUGEES OPEN FIGHT TO RETAIN SHELTER IN U. S.

Seek to Break Pledge to Return to Europe

BY CHARLES GOTTHART
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Oswego, N. Y., June 25—Refugees from nazi tyranny in Europe, who for nearly 10 months have been sheltered by the United States at Fort Ontario here, appeared before a congressional sub-committee today as part of a drive for modification of American immigration laws in their favor.

The principal congressional proponent of the change in law, Rep. Dickstein [D., N. Y.], chairman of the house immigration committee, conducted the first of a series of hearings and recorded the pleas of most that they be allowed to remain in this country.

Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.], whose opposition to the lifting the immigrant ban, disclosed a sharp division in Washington opinion over the refugee problem, was not included in the congressional hearing group.

Seek to Break Pledge

The principal aim of the refugees was to overcome the effect of an agreement all signed when they were brought to this country by the late President Roosevelt. They agreed to return to their native countries at the end of the war.

All except one of the many who appeared today told the committee they had no desire to return—that their greatest wish was to become American citizens. The exception was a Yugoslav boy who expressed a desire to live in Palestine.

Officials of the group, operated by the war relocation authority under the direction of the department of interior, measured sentiment in advance and told the congressional group that 861 of the 969 men, women, and children "guests" wanted to remain in this country. Only 66 desired to go back to Europe.

874 Jews Listed

A record of the refugees' religious background showed 874 Jews, seven protestants, 73 Roman Catholics, and 28 members of the Greek and Russian Orthodox church.

Rep. Dickstein, who was born in Russia and brought to this country as a baby, suggested that the department of justice, which administers immigration laws, might grant the refugees temporary permits for residence in this country with relatives or sponsors.

In any event, Dickstein asserted none should be forced to return until an inter-allied committee works out a broad plan for the handling of millions of displaced persons who seek residence in various countries.

"These people ought to be removed from bondage," Dickstein said.

Petition Sent to Truman

A committee of Oswego citizens, supported by a large number of welfare agencies, have petitioned President Truman to pave the way for citizenship for those eligible, but the President has not yet acted on the plea.

Many of the group have sons, brothers, and others in American military service, the committee was told.

Rep. Lesinski [D., Mich.], in an obvious reference to Russia's expanding sphere of communistic influence, declared that the Poles and Yugoslavs "don't want to go back to their home countries because their new governments are not free." District Atty. William O'Dwyer, Democratic nominee for mayor of New York, said they did not wish to return "because of the political setup."

Rep. Fisher [D., Tex.] urged caution on the refugee problem. "We are all sympathetic. But we can't change our immigration laws without careful consideration," he said. "The attorney general doesn't think these people should be retained."

Two Killed in Street Battle

Diagram and chronology of the police chase and gun fight in which a Chicago detective and a Detroit gunman were killed yesterday.

and George, 18. He had been awarded six extra compensations during his years on the force, and 10 creditable mentions. He was described by Chief of Detectives Walter Storms as a courageous and able policeman.

The Cadillac was owned by H. E. Gould, owner of the Printcraft corporation.

Gives Eyewitness Account

A vivid eyewitness account of the shooting was given by Albert Sparber of 1229 Miller st., a sheet metal worker, who was standing in the doorway at 112 W. Hubbard st.

"I heard the sound of running feet," Sparber said. "I looked up and saw three men. The man in the lead [Heiman] took a shot at one of the others, who was sidling along the wall of a building. The man fell to the sidewalk. He [Heiman] ducked behind the car, shooting and circling. The other policeman did the same thing. Finally the policeman got on the street side, got a bead on the other fellow, and dropped him."

Another eyewitness was Charles Corr, a bartender in the tavern at 421 N. Clark st.

"When the three men came running down the street there were a few pedestrians in the vicinity," he said, "but after the first couple of shots the street was deserted. Then there was nobody in sight but the two police and the guy they were chasing."

Discharge Papers Found

Friedman, mortally wounded with a bullet thru his liver, was taken to Henrotin hospital, where he died almost immediately after admission to the emergency ward.

At the hospital Mrs. Friedman wept beside the body of her husband. "We had been married 13 years," she said tearfully, "and had been so happy together."

Heiman's body was taken to the county morgue, where a search of his pockets disclosed discharge papers which purported to show that he had been honorably discharged from the army Oct. 24, 1944.

According to citations on the discharge, Heiman had been in the army since April, 1942, and had served 16 months in the North African and Sicilian campaigns. The citations also stated that he had been awarded the Purple Heart, the silver cross, bronze cross, and was entitled to wear a good conduct medal. His character was listed as excellent.

Heiman's pockets also yielded a paper thin pair of kid gloves, of the type police said are used by robbers to avoid leaving finger prints.

The two other occupants of the bandit car were identified as Edward Erwin, alias Aloysious Rosinski and Al Ross, of Pontiac, Mich., and Mrs. Doris Gregorson, 25, alias Lois Ross, the mother of four children.

Detectives showed the pair a wire from police at Indianapolis, Ind., saying that the trio was wanted in that city for the robbery of two groceries.

Woman Admits Holdups

Mrs. Gregorson admitted that the three had held up the stores. She said the holdups had netted them $3,200. There had been a battle with police in Indianapolis, the brunet told her questioners, in which Erwin had been wounded in the shoulder. Examination disclosed the presence of the wound.

The Indianapolis bulletin had warned that "extreme caution" should be used if police encountered the three. It stated that the woman had been posing as Erwin's wife.

Both Heiman and Erwin, police records disclosed, were ex-convicts. Heiman was sentenced to a 10 to 20 year term in the Ionia [Mich.] reformatory for armed robbery Aug. 14, 1942, from Alpena, Mich. Erwin was sentenced to a prison term for robbery in Kansas City, Mo. Police in Pontiac, Mich., said it was their understanding that Erwin was now out on parole.

Heiman's address, police said, was the Wolverine hotel in Detroit.

They later learned that Heiman had registered in Hotel Sherman at 3:27 p. m. Sunday as Bernard Spaulding of 3810 N. Pine, St. Louis, Mo.

MATTOON CAFES SHUT; HUNDREDS GO SUPPERLESS

Shortage Laid to OPA Action

Mattoon, Ill., June 25 [Special]—Hundreds of working men went supperless and hungry here tonight as city commissioners at a special council meeting failed in an appeal to the city's restaurant owners to reopen their eating houses.

Peter J. Sutter, proprietor of the Victory restaurant and spokesman for the restaurant owners, said they will keep their places closed until they get some food to sell. They are out of meat, out of potatoes, and short on ration points, he said.

Chicken for Steel Men

Eight of 10 major eating places were closed today.

The Association of Commerce commandeered an old tavern on the edge of town, bought chickens from a farmer, and fed chicken dinners to 60 transient steel workers employed on a factory building being erected for the Gar Wood Industries.

Alva Sanders, known as Sandy the Sandwich Man who has built up a sandwich business at the New York Central railroad terminal here, volunteered to provide sandwiches for steel workers tomorrow.

OPA Stops Slaughter

Mayor George W. Smith said that from 500 to 700 persons in this city of 15,000 are entirely dependent on restaurants for their food.

"The OPA has put all the slaughterhouses out of business on which Mattoon restaurant men depended for their meat," Sutter told the city commissioners. "We formerly got our meat from the Harrisburg Packing company, the Stewardson Packing company, or Russell Zellers. Now the first two are closed down and Zellers has been out of meat for a month and has even had to close his own retail butcher shop."

ARMY RELEASES 30,000 TRUCKS TO AID FARM CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 25—The war department is releasing approximately 20,000 medium and 10,000 light trucks because of urgent agricultural needs, War Food Administrator Jones said today. Jones recently asked for the release of as many such trucks as possible.

The 30,000 trucks, which are surplus, or do not meet present military standards, will be turned over to the department of commerce for sale to dealers by Aug. 1.

Under surplus property regulations, Jones said, it is possible, when impairment of farm production is threatened, to earmark surplus trucks for areas where needs are most urgent. Dealers can sell only to persons holding certificates from county AAA committees.

HINTS ELEVATOR DEATH VICTIM'S BODY WAS MOVED

Rockford, Ill., June 25 [Special]—Detective Sgt. Roy Johnson testified today in the inquest into the elevator death a week ago of Mrs. Ruth Blanche Campbell, 38, that in his opinion the body of Mrs. Campbell had been moved after her death and before police were called to see it on the floor of a self-service elevator.

This testimony came after Cecil Robbel, 45, manager of the Universal Electric company, where Mrs. Campbell was employed, told the coroner's jury that neither he nor his divorced wife, Naomi Gohlke, 23, moved the body after they discovered it crumpled on the elevator floor.

Served Her Whisky

The elevator in which Mrs. Campbell died is in a four story building occupied by the electric company and serves a bachelor apartment maintained by Robbel on the fourth floor. Robbel had been serving whisky to Mrs. Campbell and Miss Gohlke a short time before the tragedy.

After listening to lengthy testimony by Robbel, Miss Gohlke and police officers the jury retired for 20 minutes and brought in a verdict asserting that some of the witnesses were not telling all the truth and that discrepancies in their stories should be further investigated.

The jury recommended that the police and state's attorney continue their investigations of the death and commended the announced plan of State's Atty. Max Weston to reconvene the grand jury early next month to inquire into the matter. Three years ago Mary Burton, 26, a nurse, was killed in the same elevator after a visit to Robbel's apartment.

Detective Sgt. Johnson said he believed Mrs. Campbell was crushed between the floor of the elevator and the top of the casing at the third floor of the building.

Body Apparently Moved

He said her body must have been face down when crushed and when asked whether she could have fallen in such a position or had been placed there said he did not know. He insisted, however, that the body, as he found it in the elevator, was in a position indicating it had been moved after death.

Robbel asked permission of Coroner David Klontz to tell his version of the tragedy "in my own way," and delivered a long narrative account. He said that when he and Mrs. Campbell were closing the electric appliance shop on the first floor she asked him, "How about buying me a sociable drink?"

He said he told her that could be arranged and took her to his apartment where he offered her a choice of beer or whisky. She took whisky, he said. They went to the apartment about 6:15 p. m. and about 10 p. m. were joined by Miss Gohlke. He said Mrs. Campbell had about four drinks during the evening.

Slept on Davenport

Robbel said he got sleepy and took a nap on a davenport, leaving the two women in the kitchen. When he awoke, he said, Miss Gohlke told him Mrs. Cambell had just left and that she was ready to go. He then walked with Miss Gohlke to the elevator and pressed the bell for it. The elevator responded to the summons, he said, and came from the first to the fourth floor but promptly started down again and stopped at the third floor.

When the elevator refused to budge from the third floor, he said he and Miss Gohlke walked to that floor and discovered Mrs. Campbell's body.

Miss Gohlke corroborated Robbel's story. She said that after she and Robbel found the body she returned to the apartment for her purse before leaving the building. Several questions were put to her on this point by members of the jury, who wanted to know why she did not have her purse with her if she was on her way home when the tragedy was discovered.

"I must have forgotten it," she said. "I was confused."

CADET BRUTALLY BEATEN IN CAMP, CONGRESS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—Charges of brutality to an army air cadet for allegedly minor infractions were unfolded in the house today by Rep. Gavin [R., Pa.], who demanded an investigation of mistreatment of soldiers in army camps.

Rep. Gavin

Gavin told the house a youth from his district, stationed as an air cadet at the Lincoln, Neb., army air base, was court martialed last year for twice having his hands in his pockets during morning formations in "sub zero weather."

Sent to Rock Pile

The court martial resulted in a three months' sentence in the guard house. There the boy was reported for not working fast enough on a task of flattening tin cans, Gavin related.

"He was again court martialed," the congressman said, in telling the boy's story, "and sentenced to 24 hours on the rock pile, to break rocks with a short-handled sledge hammer at a cadence of 120 blows per minute.

"After four or five minutes the guard told him to work faster. And he could not work any faster, as 120 blows a minute would be two blows a second, and no human could possibly carry on at that speed."

Gavin said a private then dismissed the guard and ordered the boy to stand at attention.

Dragged to Guard House

"He was then smashed across the jaw with an M. P.'s club, which raised a welt on the left side of his face as big as a fist, and knocked the fillings out of his teeth," Gavin said. "He was knocked down and upon arising was again knocked down and smashed into unconsciousness and beaten around the shoulders, arms, and legs.

"He was then dragged off to a guard house and placed in solitary confinement, his clothes taken from him, and he had no outside communication except a slot in the door to pass in food."

The boy was sent to a hospital only after a witness to the beating reported the case to the officer of the day, the congressman continued. He stayed in the hospital 16 days, Gavin added.

The congressman said "every camp in the United States should have an investigation to ascertain whether or not similar conditions exist elsewhere."

PARTY LEADERS ASK SHOWDOWN ON BUTLER BILLS

Urge Speaker to Wield Firmer Hand

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 25—Gavel rule was instituted in the house today in the hope of saving hundreds of bills threatened by a semi-filibuster aimed against the Butler bills for uniform tax assessments on a basis of full valuation. The 64th general assembly will end Saturday night.

Speaker Hugh Green's philosophy of never making any one angry broke under the strain of events. At a governor's mansion conference last night, Republican and Democratic legislative leaders told him he would have to wield a firmer hand to keep the final week of the session from chaos.

Another part of the plan is to push the Butler bills thru to a final show down as fast as possible. Win or lose, when they are out of the way it is expected that the assembly can proceed to wind up most of the other pending business.

Moves to Suspend Rules

Majority Leader H. B. Harris [R., Lincoln] started today's show by moving for suspension of the rules to get down to work at once on the Butler bills on second reading. Rep. Searle R., Rock Island] leading the opposition, tried to table the motion but lost 78 to 35.

Searle demanded that senate bill 229, one of the 114 bills of the Butler batch, be read in full and it was done. Next he made a motion to strike the enacting clause to kill the bill and announced he would speak for the limit of 30 minutes on his motion.

As Searle launched his oration the house roared its protest. He had been speaking for only two minutes when Speaker Green recognized a motion to table Searle's motion and ordered an immediate roll call. This maneuver came from Rep. Cutler [R., Lewistown], who is handling the bills in the house.

Hard Sledding Ahead

The bills were saved by a vote of 71 to 48. Since 77 votes are required to pass the bill, the roll call indicated that there is hard sledding ahead.

Searle brandished the first of a series of proposed amendments, but Speaker Green disregarded him in favor of Cutler's motion to advance the bill to passage stage.

Rep. Powell [D., Vienna] criticised the house for its ignorance of the tax bill series. He expressed doubt whether 10 per cent of the members have read the report of the commission appointed by Gov. Green and headed by Sen. Butler [R., Chicago] to formulate an improved assessment plan.

File Written Protests

Two written protests were filed tonight by opponents of the Butler bills against the house tactics. Under the constitution these must be printed in the house journal, providing a basis for possible legal action against the bills should they be enacted.

To improve the bills' chances, the administration introduced measures to prevent a runaway of Chicago taxes should the Butler bills pass. One bill authorizes an 11 million dollar park district pegged levy for 1946 compared with 10½ million for 1945. Two others would cut in half the tax rates of the county board and the board of education.

Caught in the final week log jam are the administration's 101 million dollar post-war budget bill; Kelly-Green bills for 10 million dollars for public housing; a bill for $4,850,000 to aid local governments in blueprinting post-war projects, and a bill to appropriate $100,000 to help the new Chicago transit authority start operations.

GROUP IN HOUSE VOTES 14-8 TO SEAT DIMOND

Springfield, Ill., June 25 (AP)—The house elections committee recommended today that Vincent J. Dimond be declared winner over Edward G. Hayne, both of La Salle, as Democratic state representative from the 39th district.

By a vote of 14 to 8, the full committee upheld a finding by its subcommittee that a recount of ballots showed Dimond defeated Hayne by ten and one-half votes in last year's Nov. 7 election.

The final decision will be made later by the entire house. A majority of representatives voting will be required to unseat Hayne, who began his sixth two year term last January.

Dimond contested the official canvass which declared Hayne won by one vote.

The subcommittee, however, prorated 315 of 602 ballots cast in precinct No. 12 of Ottawa township, holding they had been issued to voters who had not signed written applications. Under that change, Dimond's total was increased to 31,648, or ten and one-half votes more than Hayne received.

Attorneys for Hayne told the committee today there were 45 ballots in precinct 10 of La Salle that were improperly initialed and therefore were illegal. They contended that Hayne would have been declared winner by the subcommittee if it also had apportioned those 45 ballots.

SENATE VOTES $500 RAISE TO LEGISLATORS

Claims Big Spending Earns Higher Pay

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 25—The senate tonight completed passage of a bill raising the salary of legislators to $3,000 a year, an increase of $500. The bill went to Gov. Green for expected approval on a 27 to 19 roll call.

The assembly's achievement of voting appropriation bills totaling three quarters of a billion dollars should give the legislators the salary status of corporation executives, argued Sen. Libonati [D., Chicago].

Mileage money received by legislators for their weekly trips to Springfield would be doubled, from 5 to 10 cents a mile, under another bill passed by the senate, 30 to 12, and sent back to the house for concurrence in an amendment. Chicago legislators now collect $20 mileage for every round trip.

Increase Judges' Salaries

The senate, on a 34 to 1 roll call, sent to the governor a bill increasing the pay of Supreme court judges from $15,000 to $18,000 a year. Bills passed earlier had provided bigger salaries for most of the elective and appointive officials in state and local governments, and for all of the payrollers working in the state house.

Gov. Green has not yet acted on a bill which would pension members of the legislature who have been around at least 12 years. Some senators have petitioned him for a veto.

"Unfortunately it costs money to be elected to public office and to stay in public office," Libonati said. "We now are paid at a rate of $205 a month. This is an important job and we get little applause, but much criticism for our work."

Helps Law Practice

Sen. Barr [R., Joliet] voted against the increase on the ground that attorney members acquire a better law practice after experience in Springfield. Several said the increase to $3,000 a year is reasonable.

Legislators are now paid $5,000 a biennium. None can draw the increase pay until they have been re-elected.

No Cook county senators voted against the bill.

Federal Auto Stamps Due Sunday, Collector Warns

New federal auto tax stamps must be displayed by Sunday, Nigel D. Campbell, collector of internal revenue, said yesterday. Deputy collectors have been assigned to warn delinquent motorists in the first 10 days of July. After that period violators will be reported to the United States attorney's office for prosecution, Campbell said. The stamps cost $5 and are on sale at all internal revenue offices and post-offices.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

June 25, 1945

MANY marks of summer already are visible on the farms.

The farmers' pet dogs, fox terriers and shepherds alike, have found shaded spots in which to relax on hot afternoons. Each day they curl up for a midday rest.

Old fashioned bush roses and climbing roses provide masses of bright red, pink, and white flowers in almost every farm yard. Lighter pink wild roses along the roadside fences are partially hidden by weeds made tall and lush by the numerous spring rains.

Four pairs of barn swallows have mud nests among the rafters of the cattle barn, and their steel blue back feathers and rusty red breasts provide distinctive color for the otherwise drab surroundings.

Tractor Umbrellas

Some of the younger farm workers have started their summer habit of discarding their shirts while they ride tractors up and down the long fields of corn. They already have a Florida tan. Older and more conservative farmers retain their shirts. Some have dragged umbrellas from the barns and attached them behind their tractor seats. In one field we saw a new red tractor equipped with a bright yellow umbrella—one farmer's idea of a rural sport model field transport.

In the fields and in the tangled growth alongside dusty farm roads, wildflowers are producing purple, yellow, and white blossoms. The common purple flower now in bloom is the spiderwort, sometimes called Job's Tears because of the drop of clear liquid noticeable on the stamens. The yellow gold wildflowers along the roadside are the moth mulleins and toadflax, both of which have bright petals on 20 to 30 inch spikes. Background white is provided by yarrow, bladder campion, daisy fleabane, and oxeye daisies, all growing in full sunlight in the fields and along unshaded roadways.

Greenhouse Wrens

All the farm residents seem satisfied with the weather of summer's first week. Two house wrens are in an odd spot. Most of the farm yards contain when houses which this pair of birds neglected to investigate in searching for a nesting site.

Instead of using the hand made houses, they invaded the farm greenhouse and built a nest in a small opening in the wall over a three-inch water pipe. With ventilating windows open in the roof of the greenhouse, the wrens can go as they choose. In addition, they have protection from rain and wind, and beautiful surroundings.

There are roses, snapdragons, and other flowers in their private indoor garden.

★The GARDEN★

ALL members of the vine family, particularly cucumbers and squash, require constant access to water. They become easy prey to bacterial wilt when the roots are left in dry soil. For this reason, many gardeners install simple irrigation systems in cucumber and squash hills.

Five inch or 7 inch flowers pots, for example, may be sunk into the ground in the center of a hill or alongside the seedlings after they are well established. Each time the garden is visited, especially during dry summer weather, the pots can be filled with water which will seep thru the drainage hole in the bottom of the pots.

Vine crops require heavy amounts of fertilizer, which also can be diluted in the pots when watering.

STATE ACTION ON CONGRESS ST. ASKED BY MAYOR

Mayor Kelly yesterday asked the state highway department and the county board of commissioners to give early consideration to an agreement for joint financing of the proposed 45 million dollar Congress st. super-highway.

In communications sent to Walter A. Rosenfield, director of the state department of public works, and to the county board, the mayor pointed out that the city already has acquired a substantial amount of the necessary right of way, but that uncertainty remains as to the extent of financial aid to be furnished by the state.

At its June 13 meeting, the city council approved a suggestion that the city, county, and state assume equal shares of the highway's cost, less an expected 15 million dollar federal grant.

LAKE DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

John L. Johnson, 47, of 6122 Marshfield av., a clerk, who fell overboard while attempting to lower the sails of a boat in the lake off Northerly island Sunday, died of a heart attack brought on by the shock of falling into the water, a coroner's physician reported at the inquest yesterday. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

ASK GREEN AID ON SUBSIDY FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. E. A. Piszczek, director of the Cook county health unit and secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Public Health association, yesterday made public a copy of a telegram sent to Gov. Green urging the governor's support of the $4,000,000 tuberculosis subsidy bill, which, Dr. Piszczek charged, has been shelved by the Illinois senate appropriations committee.

The measure, known as house bill 325, Dr. Piszczek asserted, would take Illinois out of the list of backward states in providing adequate care for tuberculosis victims. The current biennial state appropriation for tuberculosis control in Illinois is only $11,000, he said.

By contrast, he pointed out, Michigan in 1942 earmarked $2,721,886 to fight the disease and Wisconsin voted $958,400 for the same purpose. The pending bill, he explained, contemplates placing under state supervision publicly maintained sanatoria which would receive a per capita reimbursement of $1.50 for each tuberculosis patient.

LIBEL 'LICENSING' AMENDMENT OF CIO REJECTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 25—By a vote of 78 to 32, the house today turned down the CIO's so-called "libel licensing" amendment to the radio libel bill, which will be up for final passage this week. The senate last week passed the bill without a dissenting vote.

The amendment had been before the senate judiciary committee during three months' consideration of the bill. It was finally abandoned there after a milder amendment was worked out by Frank Schreiber, manager of W-G-N, and Leslie Johnson, spokesman for 16 downstate stations.

Rep. Teigland [D., Rock Island], president of the Tri-City CIO council, offered the amendment anew today. It would have exempted from libel penalties any defamatory utterances "by any candidate for, or person holding any public office, or by any person for or on behalf of or against such candidate or persona, or by any representative of labor, management, or the public, or any speaker on labor questions or on public or controversial or political issues."

Opponents said that this would not only nullify the intent of the bill, but would grant an absolute legal license to commit libel under any conceivable circumstances where libel might be used as a weapon.

CHICAGO ACE WEDS OAK PARK GIRL SATURDAY

Capt. William J. Cullerton, 22, of 1719 New England av., who shot down 20 German planes, yesterday obtained a license to wed Miss Elaine Stephen, 21, of 732 S. Wesley av., Oak Park. They plan to be married Saturday morning in Ascension church, East av. and Van Buren st., Oak Park. A reception will follow at the Greymere hotel.

Capt. Cullerton, who has been in the army nearly four years, is home on 60 day leave. Altho he holds 179 discharge points, he does not know whether he will be discharged. He reports to Miami, Fla., for reassignment at the conclusion of his leave.

He holds the distinguished service cross and other decorations.

PASS BILL ALLOWING SCHOOL ABSENCES FOR RELIGION STUDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 25 — The house tonight passed, 85 to 2, a bill permitting elementary and high school pupils to be excused from classes one hour a week to attend religious instruction classes. It was sponsored by Rep. Clabaugh [R., Champaign] who said that without it parents might be prosecuted under the truancy act when they consent to the excusing of children for religious teaching.

"This bill, by implication, would permit religion to be taught in the public schools," said Rep. Preihs [D., Pana], who voted against it. He said the bill was drafted because of a controversy in Champaign, where the school board permits religious classes and where an injunction suit had been filed to stop them.

Rep. Sundquist [R., Chicago] said the bill would disrupt school administration, particularly in Chicago where many sects could start their own classes.

CHURCHILL GETS CHEERS, BOOS ON TOUR FOR VOTES

Asks Big Majority for Tory Party

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 25—Prime Minister Churchill was accorded a tumultuous welcome—along with some boos and heckling—today in the first 120 miles of a four day, 1,000 mile election tour of the Midlands, northern England, and Scotland. He spoke in six towns.

Churchill's main themes were that he could not continue to run the country unless the Conservatives win a big majority over all other parties and that Britain must play its part in defeating the Japanese. "I don't call them Japs," he said, "because that sounds too familiar for such a dirty people."

On several occasions highways were blocked by crowds showering him with confetti and bouquets. Several women mounted his car and tried to kiss him. At Coventry he was booed, heckled, and greeted with the singing of "The Red Flag." At Rugby there were shouts of "Where's your boss, Beaverbrook?"—press lord who, according to the Laborites, is running the Conservatives' campaign.

Late at Birmingham

Churchill also made impromptu speeches en route, wrecking carefully worked out timetables. He was an hour and a half late reaching Birmingham and one reporter wrote: "We got cat calls from an apparently endless crowd which was firmly under the impression that we all [the 40 in the press party] were Conservative officials."

It was reported Churchill will be barred from speaking in George sq., Glasgow, by Mrs. Jean Roberts, Labor member of the Glasgow corporation. She feared the crowd might damage the flowers bordering the square. She suggested nearby Blythswood sq., where there are no flowers.

Britain's first election battle since 1935 will be fought by 1,672 candidates, including 88 women, seeking 637 seats in the house of commons. Two Laborites and a Conservative already have won the three other seats in the house since they had no opposition when filing day closed.

601 Laborite Candidates

The Laborites have 601 candidates and the Conservatives 547, but also supporting Churchill are 52 Liberal Nationals and a few independents. The Liberals nominated 305 candidates, Commonwealth Labor, 22, the Communists 20, and the remainder is made up of various brands of independents and nationalists.

Each candidate had to turn in his nomination paper with the signatures of 10 voters and hand over $600 cash. If a candidate fails to poll one-eighth of the votes cast in his constituency, he forfeits his $600 to the treasury.

Churchill will be opposed in the Woodford, Essex, constituency which he has represented for more than 20 years, by a 47 year old farmer. Two others previously had announced their decision to challenge Churchill, but failed to do so.

Before today's noon deadline the farmer, Alexander Hancock, burst into the filing place saying, "I'm going to stand for the common people against organized oppression." Hancock had arrived in Woodford two days ago. He stopped the first person he met and got his signature. He completed his list of 10 signatures shortly before the deadline.

Variety Club Makes Gift of $52,000 to La Rabida

La Rabida sanitarium in Jackson park, which treats juvenile heart patients, yesterday received $52,000 to carry on its work. The gift was from the Variety Club of Chicago, an organization of vaudeville artists. Jack Kirsch, "chief barker," presented the check to Max C. Greigg, treasurer of the sanitarium.

4 FROM OKINAWA ARRIVE HERE TO SPUR WAR WORK

Four combat soldiers and marines who know the desperate need for supplies in the Pacific received an assignment yesterday to make an incentive tour of war plants in the Chicago area.

Fresh from foxholes on Okinawa, the two marines and two soldiers conferred with Col. Chester L. Fordney of the marine procurement division and Lt. Melvin F. Lanphar, naval officer of the district industrial incentive office. They were among 10 marines and 30 army men to be flown home to make nationwide tours.

They are: Marine Capt. James R. Stockman, 30, of Malta Bend, Mo.; Marine Pvt. Charles D. Cowan, 19, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Staff Sgt. Nathan Johnson, 26, of Detroit Lakes, Minn., and Corp. Walter Benson, 30, of 3037 N. Racine av.

"The chief difference between us and the Japs," said Corp. Benson, "is that we fight to live. They fight to die." He said that fighting on Okinawa was the fiercest he had encountered.

A PRIZE BULL HAS OWN CAR ON DE LUXE TRAIN

A special passenger in a private car leaves today on the Seminole limited of the Illinois Central railroad bound for Paducah, Ky. The passenger is a prize Shorthorn bull.

The bull was purchased recently by the railroad from the Edellyn farms of Thomas E. Wilson, meat packer. The animal is being rushed to Kentucky to be lent to the West Kentucky Livestock Improvement association. It will be used to improve beef cattle strains.

The Illinois Central has made a practice of buying top quality breeding animals and placing them in agricultural territories the road serves. No charge is made for the services of the animals. The first purebred sires were purchased in 1916 and loaned to farmers along the railroad's lines.

Defeat Move to Wipe Out State Registration Law

PROCLAIM WAR BOND CAMPAIGN CLEANUP WEEK

With Chicago and Cook county bond purchases by individuals standing at $286,796,000, or 87.6 per cent of the area's 7th war loan quota, Mayor Kelly yesterday proclaimed this week as war bond cleanup week. He urged all citizens who have not already supported the current drive to get behind it now.

"Chicago has consistently led the nation in the purchase of bonds in all previous campaigns," the mayor said. "Its people have subscribed more per capita than any other community in the nation in the first six loan drives. Let's tell the world again that the people of Chicago are solidly behind their fighting men."

Programs Announced

The State st. council, coöperating with the treasury department and the army 6th service command in operation of the bond center at State and Madison sts., yesterday announced several programs for the final week of the 7th war loan, which closes Saturday.

Today veterans of the 86th [Blackhawk] division, who won the battle for Regensburg, Germany, and now are at home in Chicago on furloughs, are expected to participate in the noon show at the center.

Repeat Horse Program

Captured Japanese airplane motors will be presented to some of the city's technical high schools in ceremonies at the center Friday. The "Horse for Halsey" program, given last Friday, is scheduled to be repeated that day, too.

A white horse, resembling one ridden by Emperor Hirohito of Japan, and admired by Adm. Halsey, will be at the center, and mounted by a dummy facsimile of the leader of the Jap forces. Bond buyers will get a chance to knock Hirihito off his horse.

The noon program on Saturday will be taken over by the Chicago service men's centers. The coöperating organizations hope that there will be an "over the top" windup that day.

MAYOR INDORSES JULY 4TH FETE SET BY LEGION

A proclamation was issued yesterday by Mayor Kelly indorsing the Fourth of July celebration at 7:30 p. m. in Soldiers' field by the Cook county council of the American Legion comprised of 50,000 Legionnaires and 270 posts.

"On July 4," the proclamation said, "millions of our men and women will be struggling to preserve that independence for which the day stands." It urged citizens to attend the 11th annual Legion show, not only to observe the 169th year of American independence but also to pay homage to the men and women on the fighting fronts.

More than 500 veterans of this war will be inducted as members of the Legion at the show. Fireworks with an "On to Tokyo" theme will be displayed and circus acts will be offered. Wounded veterans will be special guests.

Charge Ex-Aid Embezzled $5,600 from Union Funds

Charles Cook, 44, of 4114 Washington blvd., former financial secretary of local 11 of the Composition Roofers, Damp, and Waterproof Workers' International union, was arrested yesterday on a warrant obtained by Lawrence Belles, president of the local, charging embezzlement of $5,600 in union funds. Cook was held in the Austin police station in default of $10,000 bond. The warrant was issued by Judge John J. Griffin in Felony court, before whom Cook will be arraigned today.

...a treat of GARDEN goodness

My little fellow likes to play games. On one of those infrequent drives to town, a few Sundays ago, he decided to count the Victory Gardeners at work. He clocked off 167 vacant lot farmers.

As he passed 100, it occurred to me. One of these fine days, I would call your attention to Stineway Salads — the crisp summer lunch that's satisfying, wholesome, good tasting — and a respecter of the lithe lean form. If so many folks want fine vegetables enough to plant them, nurse them and worry over them, they would be glad to breeze into Stineway's for a ready made treat of cool colorful garden goodness.

One of these days, when I forget that the idea was really prompted by my little boy, and believe it to be, entirely, a product of my own originality, I'll write that ad.

WHERE MR. FRANKFURTER TAKES THE PRESS

Mr. Justice Frankfurter concurred thru a separate opinion in the 5 to 3 Supreme court decision that the Associated Press by-laws are in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. Narrowly confined, the majority decision related only to the question of admitting new members to the Associated Press and to the supposed "unreasonable restraint" upon the dissemination of news embodied in the by-law limiting to themselves the interchange of news collected by members.

The majority decision, as Mr. Justice Roberts pointed out in his notable dissent, will have the effect of requiring the Associated Press to "operate under the tutelage" of the federal District court in New York. Barring intervention and clarification by congress, the Associated Press will be compelled to produce changes in its by-laws for the inspection and approval of the New York court. The court thereupon will possess a continuing jurisdiction over the question of whether the revised by-laws are applied to its satisfaction.

Here we have a judicial fiat that a considerable number of the newspapers of the country—more than 1,200 in all—are to be under permanent regulation. They will be instructed by the court on the regulations governing their operation, their exchange of news, and the company they must keep.

Mr. Justice Roberts traced the possible consequences of this doctrine in stating, "The decree may well result not in freer competition, but in a monopoly in AP or United Press, or in some resulting agency, and thus force full and complete regulation of all news service to the people of the nation. The decree here approved may well be, and I think threatens to be, but a first step in the shackling of the press, which will subvert the constitutional freedom to print or to withhold, to print as and how one's reason or one's interest dictates. When that time comes, the state will be supreme and freedom of the state will have superseded freedom of the individual to print, being responsible before the law for abuse of the high privilege."

It is upon these terminal results that Mr. Justice Frankfurter's opinion reflects its strongest illumination. Having described the interchange of news as "commerce," and expressed a carefree lack of interest in whether his views tended to convert the Associated Press into a public utility, Mr. Frankfurter got around to expressing his personal predilections as to the nature of news. His desire to advance his doctrine, in fact, seems to have been the occasion for his producing a separate opinion.

"A free press," said he, "is indispensable to the workings of our democratic society. The business of the press, and, therefore, the business of the Associated Press, is the promotion of truth regarding public matters by furnishing an understanding of them. Truth and understanding are not wares like peanuts or potatoes."

Despite a disclaimer in the form of a quotation from the opinion of Judge Learned Hand of the New York court that his views were not to be accepted as favoring "authoritative selection" in the kind of news best designed to further truth and understanding, Mr. Frankfurter's logic seems to have led him into the assertion of that very view. Having subscribed to the view that news is a commodity, altho not a commodity "like peanuts or potatoes," Mr. Frankfurter stops short of a description of the tangible characteristics by which news, as a commodity, can be identified and distinguished from, say, the peanuts and potatoes he mentions.

The right of formulating this definition of the character of news, like the right of saying what organizational rules of the Associated Press are acceptable, is reserved to the court. If the court may regulate at the source who gets the news, it may also regulate at the source what the news is, or, more accurately, what it thinks the news should be. If the court may say that the omission of a particular outlet in distributing the news is illegal, it may also say that the omission of a particular category of news or even of a particular news story is also illegal.

If, by Mr. Frankfurter's lights, the function of the press is to arrive at a public understanding of truth, some one must say what the truth is. If, in his wisdom, Mr. Frankfurter is capable of establishing this standard, and has the power of the courts and the government to force it upon the press and the public, it must follow that only a particular kind of news will serve to promote the understanding of truth, and, since the highest authority by Mr. Frankfurter's standard is the courts and the government, they will come to say what the news is.

Thus the fears of Justice Roberts are confirmed. It is true that Mr. Frankfurter's opinion so far has not been adopted by his colleagues in the majority on the Supreme court, and that only time will tell whether the District court in New York will accept them. But Mr. Frankfurter may feel that he has performed a useful service to the cause of the authoritarian state by advancing his doctrine. If his doctrine should prevail, a government propaganda bureau would prepare all the news that the Associated Press may distribute, the newspapers of America print, and the people read. The attorney general would be the proxy editor on every paper in the country, and G-men would do the proofreading.

OF BOYS' PANTS

Mr. Trohan, writing in the book section a week or so ago, spoke of the period in which "America grew from knee pants to long trousers." We knew what he meant, of course, because we grew up as he did in an era when male children until they were 13 or 14 years old wore them short; but to any one born since 1930 the phrase surely cannot suggest the passage from childhood to adolescence.

Many boys in the glorious era in which we now live progress directly from diapers to long pants. Probably most boys wear short pants for a few brief years. The moment of transition may come in the summer between kindergarten and first grade. In families of conservative tradition the change may be postponed for a year or two, but hardly longer. The third grader in short pants is a rarity; the fourth grader is a museum piece and so regards himself and so is regarded by his contemporaries.

Parents who resent this change from the customs of their own childhood have only themselves or, rather, the race of parents to blame. About midway between Mr. Trohan's boyhood and the present hour some one noticed that well bred little boys rolling hoops along the Champs Elysees didn't wear stockings. The idiot thought it would be cute if American youngsters went similarly bare legged. The consequences were written in blood.

The new style took no account of differences in climate and, more especially, of difference in manners. American boys play rough. Long pants are the small boy's greaves and he needed them, as an examination of the scars on many a 25 year old leg would prove. No Purple Hearts were awarded in those days, an omission that is difficult to explain. Perhaps the parents didn't realize there was a war on.

OUR TROOPS IN GERMANY

The American army has been given a rather small area of Germany to occupy and govern, a zone far smaller than the proportions of our contribution to the victory would justify. That's all right with the American people. They will be glad to see our zone become steadily smaller until it is extinguished. The sooner that happens, the better.

Americans have never been oppressors of other peoples. An army of ocupation is all too likely to become an army of oppression, for the purpose of occupation is to prevent a population from governing itself. Americans are ill-suited to such a task, a fact which is greatly to their credit. As we do not want to brutalize our boys, we ought to bring them home as rapidly as possible.

To most of our men service in Germany will be a disagreeable duty likely to become increasingly disagreeable as time passes. They will be denied their homes, their friends, a normal life, and civilian opportunities important for their future. It is not out of probability that the war with Japan will be brought to an end while many American soldiers face continued service in Europe. The service will not be one of military necessity but of international politics.

British, French, and Russian troops on occupation duty can be easily replaced or sent home on leave. Even the Russians will not be far from home. The British and French will be virtually on their own door steps. After the other war American troops remained in occupation of the Coblenz area from Dec. 9, 1918, until 1922. There was great protest at home. Finally it had to be respected.

If the purpose of continued occupation is to keep Germany from ever becoming a warlike nation again, our three allies have a more immediate interest. They are Germany's neighbors and will not need the help of an American army. They know how to destroy the war potentials of the country. Some of the territory to be occupied by the Russians and nearly all of the regions which fall to the French and the British were taken by the American armies. The post of honor was accorded American troops altho their country was engaged in another full sized war at the time. That other war has still to be fought. Help is promised. It has yet to arrive near the home of the enemy, excepting a British naval task force. Another reason for not keeping an army in Europe.

The view that American troops should not be used in the reconstruction of Europe probably will not prevail. It will encounter the desire for close encounter with Europe's problems and physical possession of some of them, for a full hand in remodeling little Nazis and for a full time go at German characteristics. Some of our people would condemn withdrawal of the troops as a symptom of weakness in the support of a new global order. These are pretenses. Our commitments will be determined by other decisions in other quarters.

The United States will have neither a less nor a greater voice in world affairs whether it withdraws or retains its troops. Withdrawal might offend somebody's sense of importance. The men will be pretty mad when they have wasted years in maintaining some slacker's prestige.

NO CEILING ON ENTERPRISE
New York World-Telegram]

Altho seldom quite sure that we understand what Secretary Wallace is talking about, we venture to comment on a statement he has just made to the house committee on small business. It will be "unfortunate," he said, if returning veterans try to start more than 500,000, or at most 700,000, new business enterprises.

If Mr. Wallace means that the risks of starting new businesses are great, that is true. If he means that many enterprising veterans are likely to meet failure and disappointment, that is true. If he means that service men should be urged to look carefully before they leap into business, and given all possible help in weighing the hazards and sizing up the chances for success, that is true. And when he says that the same precautions should be observed in making business loans to veterans as to civilians, that is sound.

But if he means that this must be a land of limited opportunity — that when 700,000 veterans' businesses have started the doors should be closed, lest the field become too crowded, the competition too keen—we doubt the appeal of that notion to men who have risked their lives to win this war. Nobody knows how many veterans may be ambitious to enter business for themselves; but mighty few, we think, want to find a ceiling on enterprise when they come home—even a ceiling proposed by the secretary of commerce in all his wisdom. It is not that kind of a country they are fighting for.

HOW TO PREAMBLE

This column notes a strong family resemblance between the preamble [first draft] to the charter of the united nations and the similar portion of the Constitution of the United States of America. It also observes that the newborn child is much bigger than its parent. The founders of this nation stated their purpose in a single sentence of 52 words; the assembly at San Francisco, whose good intentions were expanding in all directions, spun out 214 words.

Both documents are strong on infinitives, and there are two examples of duplication. Our Constitution contains six: to form, establish, insure, provide, promote, and secure. The charter offers seven: to save, reaffirm, establish, promote, practice, unite, and employ.

Omission of "whereas," the word that usually starts off the common or lodge meeting variety of preamble, is another point of resemblance in these texts. The "whereas" tradition among preamble writers is mentioned in Webster's dictionary, and we are happy to discover that it can be avoided.

The covenant of the old league of nations preambled in a single sentence of 88 words. There is a crispness of diplomatic realism in its style.

A RIVER CALLS

Something about a river
Calls to me today,
Flowing on forever—
Far and far away.

Heeding not earth's worries,
It just winds and sings;
Never, never hurries—
Sweet meanderings!

Thru a vale of beauty
It goes gladly on,
Knowing naught of duty,
No one's helpless pawn.

Just to wander widely
Over earth's fair breast,
Just to saunter idly,
Never asking rest!

Something about a river
Calls to me today,
Flowing on forever—

The Lonely Individualist

People are peculiar. When I am dashing madly, people cluster in little conventions in the middle of the sidewalk to obstruct my progress. People who have been reading headlines on a newsstand for 10 minutes will break it up at my approach, closing the opening I had carefully picked thru the crowd. The wide woman who has given all her attention to a showcase will decide she has seen everything, and will back up just in time to halt my wild career toward the elevator.

But when I am out for a leisurely stroll, people suddenly develop a terrific urge to go places fast. They walk on my feet. They bash in my ribs. They pass me on both sides and knock off my hat. Then there's the guy who wants to pass me in a crowded street car. So I lean forward precariously, dangling from my strap, to let him by. And he proceeds to park in the spot from which I am leaning.

As I said, people are peculiar. Or could it be I am? Casual

BOY ON THE ROAD

He paused and smiled, in boyish disarray.
I saw no stranger, but my image there—
Another lad, as of another day.
The dusty feet were mine; the tousled hair,
The eager face, and in those eyes—ah, yes,
I saw the zest for life, deep, bottomless.
I stopped and talked with him, as man to man,
And what was in his dreams I somehow knew,
For Youth has been the same since time began,
Eager, and impatient, thru and thru.

I left, and thought: Walk slow, lad, slower still;
Hold tightly to your boyhood, grasp it close,
Rush not to see what lies beyond the hill.
Treasure these fleeting days, for each of those
Will pass too soon, and life is seldom gay—
A boy can clutch it, as one sometimes takes
A dew-hung web, most beautiful of things
And lovely to behold, but touched, it breaks
Into a wisp of disappointing strings.
Be patient, lad—and later on, some day,
Perhaps a dusty boy will cheer your way.

N. M. K. writes: "I have been returned from the European theater of operations for discharge. My wife, an army nurse, is stationed in a Pacific coast hospital. Can she request transfer to Chicago or obtain release from service?"

The medical department of the army has announced that nurses whose husbands have been released from active duty will be discharged upon request. Release of the husband from service must be proved. At the same time the department said no officer whose services are essential will be released and that officers who have children under 18 will be given high priority for discharge.

V. E. asks: "Will an only surviving son who has been removed from hazardous duty overseas be returned to the United States for release from the army?"

If there is only one member of a family in the army after two or more have been lost, or if he is the only remaining son, he will be returned to the United States for permanent assignment but will not be released unless he can qualify under the discharge point system. If after two or more have been lost and there is more than one member of a family in the army they all will be assigned to nonhazardous duty, which may mean in the rear of the active theater, or, at the discretion of the theater commander, to duty in the United States.

THE LIVELY LIVER

THE liver is the largest organ in the body. It has to be because its functions are so numerous and varied. Practically all our nutriment is "conditioned" in this chemical factory before it can be assimilated. In addition, it filters any toxins which may have been absorbed by the alimentary canal, and assists in the storage of vitamins, in the production of blood constituents, and in the destruction of worn out red corpuscles. Liver extract contains a principle which helps to control pernicious anemia. These, in a nutshell, are but a few of its many duties.

The structure is located beneath the diaphragm, under the short ribs. The lower end hangs down and molds itself into the stomach, intestines, and right kidney. The greater portion is situated toward the right, sprawling some distance leftward. It is divided roughly into a small left and a large right lobe; projecting from each is a short canal. These conduits eventually join and become the hepatic duct. At the neck of the gall bladder, situated on the under surface of the right lobe, we find the cystic duct, which unites with the hepatic duct to form the common duct. These passageways are grouped under the name "bile tract."

How is the liver supplied with blood? Its cells are fed thru the hepatic artery; the hepatic veins carry off the used fluid; and the portal vein brings the digested products from the intestine, to be prepared for entrance into the general circulation.

Let us trace the sugar that you had in your last cup of coffee. After absorption thru the wall of the small bowel, it reaches the liver via the portal vein. Some of it will be utilized immediately for current activity. The excess is hoarded, as glycogen, and is liberated when needed. The liver loves sugar and, in most types of impairment of its cells, a high carbohydrate diet is indicated.

The split products of proteins—amino acids—are converted by the liver into urea; it also destroys uric acid. Here, too, fat is modified for its final change into carbonic acid and water. Probably the most important task is to manufacture bile. This material contains salts, pigments, fats, soap, cholesterol, lecithin, and urea. The average person secretes between a pint and a quart daily. It is then sent to the gall bladder for concentration and storage. When food passes from the stomach into the duodenum, the gall sac contracts and fires its ammunition. The chief influence is on fat, which is reduced to a fine emulsion, allowing the pancreatic enzymes to act upon it.

A gland that is such a hive of industry must be safeguarded from irritation and disease. Life cannot continue without it, altho more than three-quarters may be damaged and the remainder will take over. Furthermore, cell regeneration will occur under proper management.

Among the disorders associated with the liver are jaundice, cirrhosis [hardening], abscesses, stones, and malignancy. But there are undoubtedly countless instances of mild dysfunctions. We know that when the organ is functioning imperfectly vague discomfort results. The victim may feel exhausted and exhibit mild indigestion, with coated tongue, a bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite, or a sensation of fullness. The various laboratory tests available will often disclose how well or poorly the gland is doing its job.

Marine Landing

It had to happen somewhere, so it happened at Detroit. An LST with quite a battle record in the Pacific has been touring the Great Lakes to show the home front how an invasion is staged. Aboard her are 70 marines, all veterans of the Pacific, who attack enemy strongholds on our inland lakes whenever they can work up a large audience.

Last week they took Belle Isle at Detroit, called, for purposes of publicity, Bello Jima. They landed with smoke grenades, hand grenades, bayoneted rifles, jungle suits, grease paint smeared over their faces, and the blood curdling marine battle cry, which consists of "Gung-ho!" augmented by a series of vivid unprintables. They gained the beach, they surged inward for 20 yards, they were about to take a dangerous hillock of creeping bent when, suddenly, the disheveled head of an old and amiable drunk, who had apparently been sleeping it off, appeared from under a bush. For a moment the old and amiable one did nothing but stare incredulously at the advancing host. Then he shook his head violently. Finally he lurched to his feet and took off across the imaginary pillboxes.

This should have ended it, but it didn't. A public relations officer [you will find one at every outpost] grabbed two marines, each about 20 years old, each in the pink of condition. "There," he said, "is a story. Go get him and hold him!" The invasion suspended its harrowing operations as the two valiant lads set forth on the chase. Did things not always work out for the best in this best of all possible worlds, we would be happy to tell you how the captive [1] apologized for upsetting the invasion, [2] said he had been hiding out in the bush two years waiting to surrender, [3] began to recite: "And the Assyrians came down like a wolf on the fold . . .", [4] pulled a cap pistol out of his ear and cried, "Bang! Bang!" [5] vowed he would never take another drink. But the two young marines in the pink of condition couldn't get within a mile of him. He vanished into the perspective.

Wishes Are Horses

The day after the Supreme court decision on the Associated Press case, Justice Douglas was passing thru Chicago with his son and daughter on his way home to Oregon. Having a few spare hours between trains, he stopped by the city hall to see Mayor Kelly. While he was there, Barnet Hodes, the city corporation counsel, came in, and in the course of the conversation invited Douglas to the law office, where he took him on a tour of the various offices, opening the door of each only long enough to introduce the distinguished visitor. As Hodes opened one door, one of its occupants boomed to his colleagues, "I don't think much of that AP decision. I'd just like to see the birds who decided that case." Justice Douglas heard it, but smiled cordially when Hodes said, "Fellows, meet Justice Douglas of the United States Supreme court." The fellows, obviously not a bit impressed, chatted politely until Hodes and his guest left. An hour or so later Hodes met one of the lawyers who had been in the group. "Say," demanded the latter, "were you kidding us, or was that really Justice Douglas?"

Customs of the World

Letter from a Chicago boy at Pearl Harbor:

"We went into town and had dinner at a French restaurant—slabs of beef, French fried potatoes, salad, and coffee, $1.25 per guy. Our table was at the edge of a patio. About five feet around the edge of the building, inside the patio, was a large sink. We heard so much water splashing around it that a number of us got up to peek around the corner. There, blithe and unconcerned, sitting in the sink, was a little Javanese waiter taking a complete bath. Soon all the diners came over to look. The little waiter quietly went on washing, stopping only once to ask one patron, 'You want some-zing, yes?' Now, to the strip tease in the theater and the bubble dance in the restaurant, we may add the sink bath in the restaurant, and, as the travelog would say, 'So we say farewell to the beautiful Pearl of the Pacific.'"

TRAVEL WOULD BROADEN JOE

Oak Park, Ill., June 14—When plans for the last meeting of the Big Three were made, Stalin said that because of the crucial state of Russia's war with Germany he could not go far from home. Consequently, Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt journeyed to meet him on Russian territory.

Another meeting of the Big Three has now been arranged for Berlin. Times have changed. Russia today has no war; Britain is fighting half a war; but the United States is furiously fighting a real war. If for no other reason than a gesture of good will and fairness on the part of Stalin, the meeting of Churchill, Stalin, and President Truman should, by all means, have been here in the United States.

Also it would have been a very good thing for the future peace of the world if Stalin had for the first time visited Chicago, Detroit, and other important industrial centers and seen for himself what a real democracy can accomplish in peace or war. S. M. WHISLER

DECLINING LIVING STANDARD

Glen Ellyn, Ill., June 18—Around Christmas time butter was about as rare as the dodo. So finally most of us housewives took to using the margarines. And now there are none! Store after store is as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard because the government cut the allocation of oils to the manufacturers. Instead of giving an advance warning and enabling them to do their own planning and rationing to dealers, it made the cut retroactive, and left everybody's shelves empty.

For a long time now, butter has been leering impudently from store refrigerator units. There's plenty for the picking. But I'll pay no 24 points in the middle of summer for butter. Standards of living are down, in spite of cheerful statements to the contrary by the cheerful planners.

G. I. WIFE

SWEDEN'S SHARE OF RELIEF

Chicago, June 19—In your editorial yesterday, "New Rich Nations," you stress the responsibility of neutral countries, having been spared the ill effects of the war, of taking an active part in relief work for the war stricken nations. Among these neutral countries you mention Sweden.

I think I can safely say that when stressing such responsibility, your views are wholeheartedly indorsed by the Swedish nation. However, what Sweden has actually accomplished in aiding the war-ravaged countries, is perhaps not too well known. Your article gives me an opportunity to throw some light on it. According to figures recently published in Sweden, the sum total of credits and gifts to other countries, delivered or granted for the period beginning with the outbreak of war and ending on July 1, 1945, amounts to 3 billion Swedish crowns. This sum corresponds to over 700 million dollars, or well over 100 million dollars a year, representing more than 3 per cent of Sweden's national income [generally rated at about 3.3 billion dollars]. As a comparison you may note that in the financial plan adopted at Atlantic City, where UNRRA was outlined, each member nation whose territory has not been invaded is recommended to contribute 1 per cent of its national income.

Sweden keeps up war time rationing on a number of commodities, food not the least, with the sole view of being able to ship parts thereof to its less fortunate neighbors. Sweden has not gained economically by the war. For instance, the production index based on 1935, which in 1939 was 126, has been dropping thru the war years, with the result that it is now 83. Foreign trade has also undergone a heavy decline. In 1939 imports and exports combined were over 37 million tons, representing a value of over 1 billion dollars; in 1944 the corresponding figures were 11.6 million tons and 627.75 million dollars.

CONTRACT LIABILITY

Chicago, June 19—Recently I canceled an order for books on which my wife deposited $4. The publisher informs me that the books are not subject to cancellation and a suit will be brought against me if the books are not accepted. Inasmuch as my wife signed the order, but has no income, am I obliged to accept the books and pay for them? B. S.

If your wife has no assets or income we see no way for them to collect a judgment against her. In our opinion the contract liability is not a family expense and hence you are not bound yourself on the present facts. If the books should be received and retained, they would be a family expense, with the result that you would be liable.

TEAR GAS ROUTS PICKETS IN PATH OF WAR WORKERS

2 Injured in Clash at Indiana Plant

Elkhart, Ind., June 25 [Special]—President Ross Martin of the Northern Indiana Brass company had his plant turning out submarine fittings and valves for B-29s again today after police used tear gas to rout a picket line which tried to bar returning nonstrikers this morning.

The plant was closed June 2 by a strike of local 326 of the United Construction Workers, a branch of the United Mine Workers union. Today's reopening followed an order received Friday from the 6th regional war labor board directing the men to return to work and a pledge from Martin that all workers returning would have protection at work, on their way to and from work and in their homes.

Martin Defies Pickets

Martin paved the way for the reopening Saturday by personally leading a group of 35 foremen, supervisors, and office workers in a surge thru a belligerent picket line. Three pickets were arrested on assault and battery charges on this occasion.

Today's altercation took place when 16 pickets attempted to bar 50 returning workers at the plant gate. Pushing, kicking, and fist swinging broke out and police broke up the melee by tossing two tear bombs. Two of the pickets, Roscoe Hartman, 51, and Marvin Wagner, 23, were subsequently treated for bruises at the Elkhart hospital.

Martin said tonight that the plant reached a production rate this afternoon amounting to 65 per cent of the rate on June 1, the day before the strike. He predicted full normal production would be achieved soon.

125 Back on Job

Observers estimated 125 factory workers were on the job today. The plant normally employs about 300.

Saturday three pickets were arrested on assault and battery charges when they tried to prevent 35 foremen, supervisors, and office workers from entering the plant to prepare for today's reopening.

The striking union is asking a working agreement with the company and retroactive back pay to December, 1942. The regional WLB termed the strike after a hearing in Chicago "a gross and flagrant violation of the orderly procedures provided by the government for the settlement of war time labor disputes."

Verne L. Griffith, president of the union local, reassembled the picket line after today's breakthru and announced, "The strike will go on."

ANN SOTHERN AS 'MAISIE' IS GOING ON RADIO

Changes for Summer Shows Announced

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Ann Sothern of the movies is coming to the air as "Maisie." The stories will be adapted from the "Maisie" movie series. The half hour episodes will first be heard at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, July 5, over CBS. Two other movie favorites have been signed for air shows. Little Margaret O'Brien has been engaged for four Radio Theater appearances next fall at $4,000 each. Dennis O'Keefe will be heard as the head man of Hollywood Mystery Time over ABC at 8:15 p. m., starting next Sunday.

Curt Massey, the baritone, Carol Bruce, songstress, and Harry Sosnik's orchestra will appear in "Sunday on the N-K Ranch," a summer replacement for the Andrews Sisters, going in at 3:30 p. m. next Sunday.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra has begun a Saturday night full hour—7:30 to 8:30—concert series over W-G-N and Mutual. The programs, called Twilight Concerts, are directed by Walter Poole.

Andy Russell, who is exciting some teen-agers just about as much as Frank Sinatra was doing a couple years back, has been signed for the new Joan Davis show. . . . Kate Smith's show will be cut from one hour to 25 minutes when she moves back to Friday nights next fall. She found the going opposite Jack Benny too rough on Sunday nights. . . . Dinah Shore, who had been touring army and navy hospitals, is out of Percy Jones hospital and has resumed her tour. She was under treatment for a sore throat for several days and missed her appointments in Chicago last Friday.

STATE GRANTS RADIO CHARTER TO CIO LEADERS

A charter was granted yesterday in Springfield to the Amalgamated Broadcasting association, 333 S. Ashland av., Chicago. Listed as incorporators were Sidney Hillman, Samuel Levin, and Jacob S. Potofsky, who proposed "educational, charitable, and philanthropic activities, enterprises, and institutions."

Hillman is chairman of the CIO's political action committee; Levin is manager of the Chicago joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union, with headquarters at 333 S. Ashland av., and Illinois chairman of the PAC; Potofsky is general secretary-treasurer of the clothing workers' union.

The CIO News a year ago urged unions to take application to the federal communications commission for frequency modulation [FM] licenses which, it said, in time of labor disputes will "insure labor a chance to get its story before the public."

Duke of Gloucester Starts to New Guinea War Area

LOWER DRAFT QUOTA HARD TO FILL: HERSHEY

Maj. Gen. Hershey, national director of selective service, said last night that future draft requirements will call for 100,000 men a month, but that the lowering of the top age qualifications and other factors may make that number more difficult to get than 500,000 men a year ago.

The general spoke before more than 400 persons in the Marquette park pavilion in Gary as the guest of the Gary Chamber of Commerce. Gary draft board members and overseas veterans were among the audience.

Gen. Hershey said he was not campaigning for peace time compulsory military service, but believed such service would raise the general physical standards of the nation's young men.

10,000 POUNDS PAPER SALVAGE CLUB FORMED

Twenty-three pupils in Chicago public elementary schools who have collected 10,000 or more pounds of waste paper since last September will be organized into the Ten Thousand Pounds club at a luncheon tomorrow in the Morrison hotel. The event is sponsored by the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association.

William Hurst, 163 E. Walton pl., who collected 43,304 pounds of paper, will be president of the club, and Doris Nieth, 1830 Cuyler av., who collected 30,430 pounds, will be secretary.

"And I'll never leave that little old farm again. Not even to drive to town on Saturday for a haircut."

HIT COMPULSORY ARBITRATION OF LABOR DISPUTES

Two speakers at the City club's weekly forum in the La Salle hotel, one representing capital and the other labor, declared yesterday that this country is not yet ready for compulsory arbitration to settle employer-employe disputes.

Atty. Stanford Clinton, who has represented many employers, said: "While arbitration is the answer to every labor problem, you can't put large numbers of strikers in jail, and employers resent being compelled to submit disputes to arbitration. Until we have reached a different attitude, our solution is for labor and management to agree by contract to arbitration."

Leonard Levy, international vice president of the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes of America [CIO], said: "Deprive labor of its right to strike and you have totalitarian government such as was in Germany and some other European countries. Strikes serve a virtuous purpose and help resolve problems and release pressures that often present many difficulties. As I see it, the side that is weak, whether it is labor or capital, is the party that desires arbitration."

Levy was one of the organizers of the Montgomery Ward & Co. employes' strike.

Only 76 Tons Cargo Lost Out of 10,000 by Sinkings

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—The army lost only 76 out of every 10,000 tons of cargo bound for the European war in ship sinkings or damage to ships. Maj. Gen. Charles P. Ross, chief of army transportation, said today that a total of 537,656 tons of cargo was lost at sea out of the 69,896,817 tons shipped to Europe, North African, and the Mediterranean or ports in South America. A total of 105 ships went down and 10 were damaged while en route from the United States.

DONNELLEY PACT WITH EX-WIFE IS RULED ALIMONY

Judge William R. Dusher of Rockford filed a decision with the Lake county Circuit court clerk yesterday holding that a contract whereby Lt. Comdr. Thorne Donnelley agreed to pay his former wife, Mrs. Helen Pauling Donnelley, $30,000 a year after their divorce, was tantamount to alimony, and subjected Donnelley to possible contempt action for failure to pay.

The Donnelleys were divorced in 1931. He is a member of the printing house family and presently in charge of a naval science laboratory in Washington, D. C., where he lives with his second wife and son, Thorne, born of the second marriage.

When his first wife divorced him, she waived alimony in the decree. However, a separate agreement had been set up providing her $30,000 a year. A year ago she sued, charging Donnelley was $177,062 in arrears, and asked that he be cited for contempt.

STRIKE AT MILL COSTS 2,500 TONS OF STEEL 1ST DAY

More than 2,500 tons of steel production for war purposes were lost and 164 workers were affected yesterday as a result of the 200th strike since Pearl Harbor at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company in its Chicago district.

The strike started at 3 p. m. Sunday when two motor inspector helpers quit work because, company officials said, they were dissatisfied with a rearrangement of their working schedules. They are members of local 65, United Steel Workers of America [CIO].

Production on the No. 3 open hearth furnace and in the bessemer department was affected. A wage differential involved in a switching of the shifts was a factor in the dispute. Company officials said 2,500 tons of production would be lost every 24 hours the men are off. A number of the affected men were assigned other work in the plant.

Families Share Joys of Yanks' Homecomings

BY JUDITH CASS

FAMILIES which have kept the home fires burning during the months that husbands, sons, and brothers have been absent with the army and navy are starting to share the joys of homecomings in increasing numbers. Staff Sgt. Robert Wood Burrows of the army air forces, who was missing in action for six months and spent 14 months in German prison camps, returned Sunday night to spend a 60 day leave in the Winnetka home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burrows.

Sgt. Burrows was imprisoned in Stalagluft 4 in northern Germany after his Flying Fortress was shot down in flames close to Berlin. Conditions in his camp were fairly comfortable until the prisoners were forced to march 500 miles in January, ending up in Magdeburg. It was there that Sgt. Burrows was liberated by the American forces and flown to Le Havre, where he was reunited with the entire crew of 10 of his Flying Fortress. He already has regained 18 of the 35 pounds he lost on his German diet of watered coffee and cabbage soup. Sgt. Burrows will report Aug. 25 at Miami, Fla.

Another army air force man home from Europe is Capt. John T. Benedict, who piloted his own plane across the Atlantic and arrived at Fort Sheridan Sunday to begin his 30 day leave. He plans to leave immediately for Nashville, Tenn., where his wife and baby son have been living, to bring them back to Lake Forest. They will stay with his mother, Mrs. James E. Baggot Jr., and Mr. Baggot. Capt. Benedict was the pilot of a Flying Fortress and has received the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with four oak leaf clusters.

At home from the Pacific are Capt. Lester Armour Jr. and Sgt. Agar Jaicks. Capt. Armour, who served as squadron bombardier on missions over the Palaus and the Philippines, also served in the Aleutians. This leave gives him his first opportunity to meet his young daughter, Susan, who was born in January. In the two years that Sgt. Jaicks has been serving overseas with the marine corps he has been in action almost continuously, including his latest duty on Okinawa. Also home is his brother, David, who is on leave from his studies with the naval R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Texas.

Sgt. Thomas W. Allan Jr. is spending his furlough in Lake Forest with his wife and 5 months old son, whom he had never seen. He has returned from duty as an aerial gunner with the 15th air force in Italy, and will report to South Dakota for further training.

Here and There

Infant travelers who stop over with their parents in the La Salle st. station soon will be enjoying a red, white, and blue circus nursery, installed thru the coöperation of the Service club and the Travelers Aid society. The Service club has donated $2,500 to Travelers Aid to be used for the nursery's furnishings, in line with its policy to aid women in war time. Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr. heads the Service club committee which is working with Miss Dorothy Collins, widely know interior decorator. As Mrs. Sims will leave today to spend the summer at the Sims' ranch in Michigan, she is handing her duties over to Mrs. Richard Culver, who will be assisted by Mrs. Earl Wagner and Miss Virginia Elwood.

The nursery will be opened the middle of July with an informal party. Staff workers from the Travelers Aid society will be on duty there.

The Midwest Alumnae association of the Emma Willard school in Troy, N. Y., will entertain at tea at 3 p. m. today in Mrs. Stuart Ball's Evanston home to welcome Miss Clemewell Lay, co-headmistress of the school. Tomorrow Miss Lay will meet prospective students of the school and their mothers at a tea at 3 p. m. in the Raymond C. Wieboldts' Evanston home. The Wieboldts' daughter, Mary Lou, was a 1941 graduate of the school. The association is headed by Mrs. Howard Grimes.

Wedding News

The chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church will be the scene of the marriage at 4:30 p. m. today of Miss Nancy E. Kochs and Eustace K. Shaw of the navy. Here for the ceremony, which will be attended only by members of the two families, are the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kennedy of Sterling, Ill.; Mr. Shaw's parents, the Robert E. Shaws of Dixon, Ill., and his grandmother, Mrs. E. E. Shaw, also of Dixon. The bride's grandparents, the August Kochs, will give the reception which will follow in the Woman's Athletic club. Mr. Shaw and his bride will be at home at the navy base in Memphis, Tenn., following a short wedding trip.

White Collar GIRL

That Career Girl Marriage

So now you've been married for three-fourths of a year. You've gone thru some skirmishes and a couple of major battles concerning in-laws, finances, and I-have-to-work-late-at-the-office-tonight-you-don't-mind-do-you-dear.

You have come to know each other, to appreciate more deeply and understandingly those qualities which first attracted you. . . . you've shared moments of sweetness so poignant your very soul expanded because of them.

But—with a job and a marriage on your hands you are tired—clear thru. Often in the past months you have thought wistfully of the honeymoon you didn't have. Now, however, you are going to have it! Some people might call it a vacation, but to you it's a honeymoon.

"But," your friends say when they hear where you're going, "there's absolutely nothing to do there . . . no cars . . . no bright lights . . . no excitement! How dull!"

Why argue? Why try to explain that a place with nothing to do, where you can be by yourselves, is all you care about? How make any one understand that the very thought of it spurs you on to don your white collar each morning?

You are counting the days—it won't be long until you can count them on the fingers of your two hands, and with each passing one, you feel anticipation racing thru your veins.

Is that dull? BAMBI

Young Learn Old Camp Joys at Algonquin

The Rangers rushed out of the woods and hit the beach, but before they could man the assault boats there was opposition from the rear, and they had to move the action away from the water until supper time when they quit—to eat spaghetti.

That was the opening yesterday of the 36th season—down in the special corner of Camp Algonquin's rolling, wooded 43 acres where the little boys 6 thru 11 years live.

The Rangers arrived yesterday, many with sisters and mothers and baby brothers, along with the 119 children and 31 mothers, at the camp on the Fox river, 47 miles northwest of Chicago. There they and many more of the city's underprivileged mothers and children will enjoy an outing and rest and recreation in the camp operated by United Charities with the generous help of Chicago Tribune readers.

Of yesterday's arrivals the Rangers made the best time. They checked in and hauled up their beds in a matter of minutes, then charged to the beach with the university girls, their counselors, close behind. Today the interest is expected to swing to the swimming pool which isn't so deep as the Fox river and more comfortable for counselors.

The campers arrived on a North Western train at Cary, Ill., to be met by Algonquin's truck, which, by reason of its lack of space, caused the first slight casualty. Four year old Ralph suffered an attack of heartbreak when left for the second load while his mother and three sisters went on ahead. An ice cream cone dried his tears. At the camp itself, the first casualty was a stomach ache.

Probably the happiest of all the campers were the mothers, relieved of the care of children for the moment, who wandered thru the shady paths drinking in rest and relaxation from the quietness and shadows. They included the young mother of five children, ages 15 months to 10 years, whose husband is in service in England; the mother of six, including a set of 4 year old twins, and several other mothers of as many as five children.

It was only the shank of the afternoon while Mrs. Astrid Save, camp director for 25 years, was checking over the arrivals and saying between times that she could still use an expert cook or dietitian for the season, that the telephone rang. The caller was Mrs. W., 23 year old Negro mother, reporting that she and her brood of seven children had missed the regular train but had boarded a later one and were at Fox River Grove station. Would somebody please come and get her, the youngsters, and the two suitcases? Somebody did—and got the family there in time for supper.

Chilly Rains Cut Crowd in Paddock Club

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE

One needed the patience of Job and the resilience of a water spaniel to enjoy thoroly the opening of the Arlington Park races yesterday afternoon at the Washington Park track. Evidently not many racing fans possessed this happy combination, for chilly rains that fell all morning, turning the track into a ribbon of mud for the first few races, kept the crowd of spectators far below the expected number.

Among the earliest to arrive for luncheon at the Post and Paddock, which had its 17th annual opening, were Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr. and Mrs. Newell Childs. Mrs. Armour shielded her navy and white pink silk suit with a practical trench coat, and her flower-crested halo of navy straw provided a cheering note for a dull day. Mrs. Childs' dress was printed all over in a romantic motto in blue and pink lettering.

The public address system's early rendition of "Old Man River" might have become the theme song of the day had not the sun appeared tardily just before the third race. By that time the club house boxes, which had been deserted at the first cry of "they're off," started to fill. Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr. and Mrs. John Mitchell Hutchins watched the races together. Seated in Maj. and Mrs. Ednyfed Williams' box with Mrs. Williams were Mrs. Frank C. Engelhart and her house guest, Mrs. Virgilio Fernandez of Mexico City. Mrs. Williams' romantic little sailor, worn with a gray suit, purple gloves, and striking diamond and ruby earrings, was crowned with purple violas and pink rosebuds.

Cheering John Marsch's horse, Frank's Choice, to first place in the opening race were Mr. and Mrs. Marsch, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Marsch, and Miss Betty Marsch, who shared a family box. Mrs. Grier Patterson's black straw cartwheel hat dotted with giant white daisies obviously was designed to keep off the sun which usually greets an Arlington opening instead of rain.

More suited to the day were the fur jackets worn by Mrs. Kenneth Beall and Mrs. Marcy T. Weeks, who were seated at a table with Mrs. Patterson's sister, Mrs. James R. Veeneman; her daughter, Patsy Patterson; Helen Bruns, and Capt. Ross Smith. Laurance Armour, president of the Post and Paddock, missed the opening, but his box was turned over for the afternoon to the Mitchell McKeowns and their party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cummings Parker arrived with the Abner Stilwells and Mrs. Andrew Berkey. Some of the other fans present included Gen. Roy D. Keehn, the Richard D. Jarnagins, the John B. Gallaghers, the Walter Keenans, the John D. Allens and their guests, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. David McCoach Jr.; Henry C. Bartholomay, and the Benjamin F. Lindheimers and their daughter, Marjorie.

LOOK FOR US ON NORCROSS
GREETING CARDS

Thru the Looking Glass

We were never one to admire the lacquered look to hair, and most lacquers gave the locks just the look we didn't like—stiff, gummy, and artificial.

However, there is a place on every woman's dressing table for something that will keep hair sleek when she wants it to be that way—and will do the trick without gumminess. We think we've found just the thing.

This is a California product, much used by the movie beauts, and while it is perfect for keeping those bothersome little back hairs from straggling, or keeping the pompadour smooth, it really contains no lacquer at all and doesn't act like one on the locks. It doesn't make the hair stiff and gummy; neither does it flake off. It dries quickly and isn't sticky. And one of its nicest features is that it comes with an atomizer.

Neither this nor any other hair preparation should be used on hair that's very soiled. On freshly shampooed or reasonably clean hair it works like a charm. In a jiffy the coiffure that's slipping can be straightened up beautifully, with that bandboxy crispness that looks as tho you'd just left the hairdresser's.

It's a grand thing to keep around if you wear your hair off your neck in back but are eternally annoyed by those short hairs that never seem to grow long enough to anchor. It's a good thing for the sleek look, too, whether hair is worn down or up. It gives body and manageableness, but it doesn't give that awful sticky, stiff look of separated strands.

Fearlessness of Child Calls for Watchfulness of Parent

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Many mothers are very nonchalant about the hazards that surround their very little children. When approached on the subject they reply, "O, I believe in making them independent," or, "Well, nothing's happened to them so far." From observation I know that the first retort isn't based on a matter of principle, really, but just on the easiest way. And the second result is not due to anything except very good luck, or the kind offices of other alert grownups on the spot.

Letting small children run unnecessary chances is not a way of making them independent. When little and unfamiliar with potential dangers, they must be watched and guarded.

Young children are agile, quick, and entirely unpredictable. Very small ones act entirely upon impulse, and it often leads them into danger. An adult must be always on the alert to promptly divert a child's attention or snatch him out of harm's way. This is especially necessary because children watch their grownups do things without catastrophe and they think they can do likewise.

With summer here, I must mention again that water is always a potential source of danger, especially if there's an undertow or if the land slopes off sharply. In a great many lakes and rivers wire netting entirely encloses the water space where it's safe for small children to play and splash about, but to my mind even then it's necessary to watch your small one for fear he may stumble and fall face down and not be able to pick himself up quickly.

In the country and in the woods, too, your runabout child needs vigilance. If the trees and underbrush are dense you may be able to see a child one minute; the next he'll be completely out of sight. Entirely friendly and trusting he'll touch anything he sees from an insect to an animal of any size without realizing the peril.

It's never safe to trust that some one else will watch your child unless that person has been especially designated to do so. Almost everybody at the seashore, in the mountains, or at a picnic has some child or children under his or her particular wing, and those who have not can scarcely be expected to pay much attention to what other people's children are doing, and would hesitate to interfere if they did.

I don't mean to imply by all this caution that your summer has to be one of constant apprehension and worry if you happen to be the parents of small children, but I do know that it is essential to be everlastingly [but unostentatiously] watchful to prevent unnecessary illnesses and accidents.

Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION

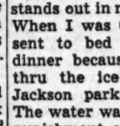
What was the worst punishment you received when you were a child, and what had you done to deserve it?

WHERE ASKED

Lyon & Healy building.

THE ANSWERS

Emmy Rosenquist, dancer, 225 W. 61st pl.—When I was playing outdoors at night I never wanted to come home and go to bed. I'd bring all the kids home with me so mother would let me stay up. I did this once too often and she sent my friends home, sent me to bed, and forbade me to bring them over again at night.



Ingrid Meisha, student, 4149 N. Troy st.—I had a teacher in one of my elementary grades whom I disliked terribly. I didn't like the subjects she taught, either. One day at recess I took my books out on the school yard, started a fire, and burned them. I was expelled from that school permanently and had to attend another.

Philip Reisman, student, 3631 Shakespeare av.—It's hard to remember the details of what I said, but I was rude to a girl about my age—10. I know she went home crying, and her mother called my mother. I had to go over and apologize to the girl. When I arrived to make the apology her whole family was waiting.

Dorothy Pavesich, student, 8421 Drexel av.—My parents rarely punished me more than to give me a scolding. However, one incident stands out in my mind. When I was 6, I was sent to bed without dinner because I fell thru the ice in the Jackson park lagoon. The water was so cold it was really punishment enough.

Bill O'Byrne, aviation radio technician 1st class, 4046 Cullerton st.—The only time I ever got a real whipping—with a razorstrop—was on the 4th of July. I wanted to shoot off the fireworks and my father thought I was too young. I started to cry. I wouldn't stop crying so he gave me something to cry about.

Alexander Kipnis and Ezio Pinza Star in Rival Albums of Moussorgsky's "Boris"

As if life weren't complicated enough, here are two albums of Moussorgsky's "Boris Godunoff" to plague the collector into making a careful choice. In older days you could buy some superb excerpts sung by the incomparable Chaliapin, and that was that. Now you have to choose between Alexander Kipnis and Ezio Pinza. Kipnis is starred in Victor's 1,000th Red Seal album [M-1000; five 12 inch records], with Ilya Tamarin, tenor, as Shuisky; an orchestra conducted by Nicolai Berezowsky, and chorus directed by Robert Shaw. Pinza is Columbia's rival attraction [M-564; five 12 inch records], with orchestra under the direction of Emil Cooper, and the Metropolitan Opera chorus trained by Giacomo Spadoni.

You can't cram the magic of an opera house into the contents of a record album, but you can hint at splendor and sometimes recapture the eloquence of incident. Both these sets achieve that goal. The Kipnis album has the supreme advantage of being sung in Russian, and to my taste Kipnis is the most authentic Boris since Chaliapin himself. He says he first heard Chaliapin sing the role when both were poker playing friends at the Chicago Opera. I remember those performances, with Chaliapin a giant, Polacco skilled and resourceful in the pit, Mojica a craftily obsequious Shuisky, Lazzari magnificent as Pimen the monk. Who could forget them?

But as to what is available on records today, here is the comparison. Altho both albums use the Rimsky-Korsakoff adaptation, the Kipnis set has a primitive quality, due in part to the Russian text, that seems less adulterated Moussorgsky. Chorus and orchestra are excellent, and the tenor is adequate as a singer, tho he gives no hint of Shuisky's convoluted character. Kipnis, of course, is superb. He knows his Boris. This album holds excerpts from the introduction and opening chorus, the clangorous brilliance of the coronation scene, Varlaam's song [sung by Kipnis], the monolog, the scene between Boris and Shuisky, the hallucination scene, the farewell to Feodor, the prayer and death of Boris. Some of the cuts are irritating, but the surfaces are silky smooth and the prayer has the haunting quality of actual performance.

The Pinza set, sung in Italian, is a vivid performance in Metropolitan Opera style, rather lyrical than formidable in treatment, with a great deal of brilliance and some flawed engineering. Cooper, who conducts, is the Russian who used to do "Boris" here in the days of Vanni-Marcoux. This set also holds the prologue, coronation scene, hallucination scene, monolog, farewell to the tsarevitch, and death of Boris, and when Pinza turns loose the velvet mezza voce of that wonderful voice, it melts in your ear. This set also holds the polonaise, which loses in recording the theater effect of approaching dancers whose dipping step later dies away in the operatic distance. Pinza sings Pimen's narrative, and it is beautiful to hear, tho it suggests little of the strange tale unfolded by the aged monk to the pretender, Dimitri.

Both albums carry notes on the opera and its composer, but Victor's extend to several illustrated pages prepared by Alice Berezowsky, wife of the conductor, who of course also is the well known composer of her "Duet with Nicky." These notes include English translations of the Russian text.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 25—If Columbia doesn't give Nina Foch good parts soon, they're not going to have her much longer, because Hal Wallis, for one, would sign her up tomorrow if she were free. Metro would like to sign Ann Miller, too. They're willing to give her a big build-up, such as they're now giving Christopher Simms, who used to be tied to David O. Selznick. Christopher is being tested in technicolor as well as black and white. She's beautiful, and now Metro has another Simms on the lot. . . . That swank car Cary Grant drives, with the fancy glass that makes him stare-proof from the public, was bought from Ted MacVickers. Ted's daughter, Martha Vickers, is in "Night and Day" with Cary. . . . Mark Stevens, "A Nobody from Somewhere," got a bit in a 20th B-minus "Within These Walls." Bobby soxers swooned at the preview and so the studio's rereading his contract. . . . Merle Oberon may do that wonderful part in "Razor's Edge" with Clifton Webb and Alexander Knox, if she finishes "As It Was Before" in time.

Her Guide Post and Mouthpiece

Emily Kimbrough read in my column that she was coming out to work on a picture for Deanna Durbin three days before Universal offered her the job. This time Emily brought along her twin girls, age 15—A and B—but left her dogs home. "I suppose you'll get both of them in the movies," said I. "I will if it will help them support their dear old mother," she answered. In the meantime, they were on the tennis court heckling William T. Tilden. They're wondering if perchance Sonja Henie can give them a few tips on skating. I asked about Cornelia Otis Skinner. Emily said, "Cornelia's recovering from a slight operation and envied me my trip to sunny California." What did she mean—sunny?

Showed 'em with a Shock

If Lt. Richardson could act as well as he fights, he'd get the lead in his own story, "American Guerrilla in the Philippines." While hiding on Leyte, he invented a shotgun made from two pieces of pipe, a piece of wood for a stock, and a nail for a trigger. He had the gun with him the day he lunched with big shots at 20th. One of the big boys questioned the gun's firing power. With a jerk of his wrist, Richardson aimed the gun above George Jessel's head and fired into the wall. Boy! There hasn't been so much excitement in that room since 20th lost $2,000,000 on "Brigham Young." . . . Soon as Fred MacMurray finished "Pardon My Past," he went to his ranch to herd sheep. His "Murder He Says" is being held over in many places, which proves to me that people will laugh at almost anything. I asked Fred how they turned him—and the animals—into a glow in the picture. "They used black lights on us instead of white," he replied.

Why Not?

Sterling Holloway has a friend who never lacks ideas. When he sees a picture he doesn't like, he re-writes it his way, and I'll be darned if he hasn't sold three original stories that way. Nor is he the first to do it. Many of our screen writers made a fortune that way. . . . Henry Daniell's off to New York and the Theater Guild for "A Winter's Tale" with Pauline Lord. . . . Louis Armstrong is here for a picture and personal appearances. . . . Paul Smith, brilliant young managing editor of San Francisco's Chronicle, enlisted in the navy, became a commander, refused to spend the war years behind a Washington desk, transferred to the marines, worked his way up from private to lieutenant. He's now back as a navy commander. After a short vacation in San Francisco, he returns to the South Pacific on Adm. Mitscher's staff.

'The Wicked Mrs. Steel'

By Roy Vickers

(Copyright: 1945: By Roy Vickers)

SYNOPSIS: Gillian Beynon comes to Tenstable as companion to Mrs. Steel, widow of the wealthy Mr. Steel. By the terms of his will she must leave her vast wealth to ONE of his relatives, otherwise the estate passes in trust to the township of Tenstable. Mr. Hanshew, manager of the Steel factory, warns Gillian against accepting the position. Gillian is surprised to learn her father was Andrew Steel's second cousin. Tho Gillian is angered that Mrs. Steel's preferences are adhered to when she selects an outfit, Mrs. Steel succeeds in placating her. A cross-current is again definitely felt by Gillian. She thinks of the man who warned her to leave. Mrs. Steel has designs on Ralph Hanshew but recognizes immediately the attraction between Ralph and Gillian. When Ruth, the housekeeper, finds Mrs. Steel has killed another canary, knowing it is because Gillian has crossed her path, she urges Gillian not to stay. Cunningly, Mrs. Steel makes plans to break up the romance.

INSTALMENT VIII.

INTENSE HATRED

First to arrive for the birthday party in the afternoon were the younger generation. Agnes Steel—daughter of Simon, Andrew's only brother—prim and mouselike, was a school teacher. She came with Valerie Weston, a pretty, vivacious blonde in the early 20s, who was a salesgirl in Babbinger's and expected eventually to become a buyer, if a certain young man should fail to seize his opportunity.

Then two brothers, Lyle and Dennis, also Westons; for two of Andrew's sisters had married into the same family. Both were widows; both suffered from asthma, which made them unwelcome at "the house." The young men, who were employed as clerks in the gasworks, were of similar appearance.

All four had appeared as children in the wedding group which Mrs. Steel had shown Gillian. All greeted her curtly and then ignored her, except Valerie who presently detached her from the others.

"You'll see the whole family today and you won't like us," she said. "We're dreadful when we're all together. We all grovel to Aunt Margaret.

"Except you," smiled Gillian.

The girl flashed a friendly glance. "As a matter of fact I rather like her—when she isn't being uppish."

Gillian wanted to hear more, but Simon Steel arrived with his wife. He was a large man and almost comically fat. Neither had saved a penny—for they had believed that Andrew would provide for them in his will.

He shook Mrs. Steel violently by the hand.

"Margaret, you grow younger with every birthday!" he said. Gillian could guess that he had rehearsed that little speech beforehand. To her surprise Mrs. Steel seemed to enjoy it.

"O Simon! When you say it like that I can almost believe it." Gillian knew that she was laughing at him—and thought it unkind of her. "You must meet Gillian Beynon. As you probably know she is a connection of ours."

Simon viewed her with frank alarm. He had an eye for women's dress and perceived that Gillian's frock was a careful echo of Mrs. Steel's—very careful, because the slight clash was in the elder woman's favor. At once he decided that Gillian was a clever girl and might put pressure on Margaret to make the will in her favor.

"Great pleasure, Miss Beynon—or may I say Gillian? A friend of Margaret's is a friend of mine—er—connection or not. You must let me show you round the town—show you a few things no one else has ever seen."

Last of the family came old Benjamin Steel, the night-watchman, a dignified figure in his shiny "blacks." He addressed his hostess as "m'am," Gillian as "miss," and everybody else by their first names.

First Lyle then Dennis sidled up to Gillian, with much the same approach. Each looked her over with a certain expert appreciation; each was astonished when she received their patronage with a paralyzing indifference.

Tea was served at occasional tables. Mrs. Steel for the first time spoke to the party as a whole.

"It's so nice seeing you all together again. And I do thank you all for your lovely flowers. Some unkind person started a rumor that I don't like flowers. I adore them. But the scent makes me feel faint, and Dr. Pasely told me only the other day that I must take special care of my heart or it might stop without the slightest warning."

And if her heart were to stop, one of those sitting in that room would become fabulously rich.

"Then for heaven's sake, my dear Margaret, take care of yourself!" said Simon Steel.

"I bet there's no real danger!" Valerie Weston had spoken. Less boldly she added: "Is there, Aunt Margaret?"

"I don't suppose so, dear," answered Mrs. Steel. "The only one who takes it seriously is old Mr. Tollerman."

At the mention of the solicitor the tension was renewed. This time Gillian perceived it—had the unpleasing impression that Mrs. Steel was keeping them all on tenterhooks and for some reason enjoying their discomfiture.

"He has been here twice in the last month trying to bully me into making a will," she continued. "Well, you know how my hands are tied and you must have guessed how awful it is for me when I'd much rather leave everything to be divided equally amongst you. After all, to pick on one of you would seem such an insult to the rest."

Again Gillian was aware of half hostile glances in her own direction. In the uneasy silence Valerie spoke again.

"And while you're making up your mind, Aunt Margaret, we'll all go on living in the same town hating each other and being catty whenever we meet." Her voice was high-pitched, on the edge of hysteria.

"What a dreadful thing to say!" shouted Agnes Steel, "I've never hated any one in my life."

"I should hope not," said Mrs. Steel. "If I believed you, Valerie, I would certainly make no will at all. I would rather the town had it all than that Andrew's money should stir up feelings like that."

"Valerie speaks for herself," grunted Lyle Weston.

"Don't take any notice of her, Margaret," implored Simon. "The girl has been overworking and needs a holiday."

"Maybe, Uncle Simon, but you know I'm talking sense. If Aunt Margaret would put all our names in a hat, draw one and tell us which it is, it would be much healthier all around."

"That's an absurd thing to say!" The prim, mouselike Agnes Steel spat the words out venomously. "You only say it because you think you have a chance yourself that way."

"It won't impress Aunt Margaret," sneered Lyle Weston.

"Hullo, Lyle! What are you going to spend the money on when you get it?" countered Valerie.

"Not on clothes—like you would," chipped in Dennis.

"Children, what will your Aunt Margaret think . . ." began Mrs. Simon, but was interrupted by a fresh outburst from Lyle. Benjamin Steel roused himself and called: "Order, please. Order there!"

Gillian looked in amazement from one angry face to another. Mrs. Steel caught the girl's glance and as she began to speak there was immediate silence.

"I'm afraid you're rather shocked, Gillian, but it's a subject that has to be discussed. You see, I am only allowed to leave the property to one of Andrew's relations, and I had hoped they would be able to decide which one ought to have it, but apparently they can't. What would you advise me to do, Gillian?"

If you're going to can cherries, do it now before it's too late. The cherry season is all too short. The sour cherry crop is just a great big disappointment this year, due to our nasty midwestern spring weather, but sweet cherries are abundant, and they make wonderful pies and canned sauce. They also make fine preserves and jams, but perhaps I'd better skip lightly over that subject, for few of us can afford the sugar for even a small batch this year.

The apple crop coming on is a skimpy one, but this disadvantage is compensated for by a flood of early arriving peaches. Central and eastern peach orchards were badly damaged by frost, but southern and western trees are bearing a bumper crop. We simply must can peaches this year, to take care of the big crop, and to provide ourselves with fruit for a winter which looks bleak in the fruit department.

The peaches are all early this year. The homemaker's favorite canning peach, the Elberta, will come to market right after the Fourth of July, according to present indications. Therefore we had better be ready with canning equipment.

Canning Peaches

Peaches are canned best by hot packing and processing in the boiling water bath. Work with small quantities to avoid discoloration of the fruit. Pour boiling water over a panful of peaches, let stand a minute to loosen skins, change water to cold, and skin peaches. Cut in halves and remove pits [some homemakers leave a pit in each quart jar of peaches for flavor]. Simmer peaches for six minutes in thin sirup [or water, if you have no sugar] and pack hot into sterilized jars, pit side down. Fill jars to within ½ inch of the top with boiling sirup or water, seal jars, and process in boiling water bath for 20 minutes.

Thin sirup is made by dissolving a cup of sugar in four or five cups of water and bringing to a boil. Have cooking kettle at least half full of sirup made in this proportion. The sirup may be extended with corn sirup, but it is better to use at least half sugar for the sake of flavor.

In sealing the fruit, remember that there is a difference in seal between the two and three piece covers. Metal lids with composition rims are adjusted tightly by means of the metal screwband, and should never be tightened after removal from the boiling water bath. Glass top lids with separate rubbers and screw bands are adjusted firmly, then turned back a quarter-turn before processing. After removing these jars from the water bath, the bands are tightened. After the canned fruit has stood for 24 hours, screw bands from both types of seal may be removed for re-use. If the lid should come off with the band, the fruit will have to be reprocessed for half the original time, but carefully sealed and processed fruit should stay sealed. Test for seal by lightly trying to lift the lid with the finger tips. A good seal sticks tightly.

Water should boil over the tops of the jars thruout the processing period.

Proper Food and Posture Figure Aids

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

An ounce of prevention is worth 10 pounds off your weight if you plan a sensible reducing diet and stick to it. Too many high school gals miss that smart and smooth trimness that comes from having an attractive figure simply because they are careless about posture and about what they eat. If you find yourself looking as broad as you are long or even if you have begun to look a little "soft" around the edges, take time out now to get yourself back in shape before the poundage becomes more permanent.

on the SOLID side

You might try a modified diet by yourself by accentuating the positive, using will power in eating only those foods which are healthful but not fattening. Eliminate, for six weeks at least, the extra starchy foods, candy bars, and hot fudge sundaes that make you happy but hippy. You can satisfy your appetite with green or yellow vegetables, salads, lean meat, fresh fruit, and milk. "To diet" does not mean "to be hungry." But remember that it is impossible to knock off 10 pounds by next week-end, and extensive dieting should be done slowly and with a doctor's advice.

Many young gals give an impression of lumpiness, not because they are overweight but simply because their figures are "badly arranged." They just haven't learned to appreciate the alert, slimming possibilities that lie in good posture. Stand straight and tall to keep the muscles of your body active and to eliminate those tired curves that show up in the wrong places. Try to imagine a stiff rod running from the back of your head right down to the backs of your knees and learn to sit, stand, and walk with the same erect posture. You will need food, energy, and plenty of sleep to keep you and your figure on the alert, but once good posture has become a habit, you can look lovely with no effort at all.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 heart	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, ace of spades.

We have on several recent occasions spoken words in defense of the "hit or miss" method of bidding slams on certain types of hands. The East of today's hand carried the splashing method to almost absurd extremes. But who am I to find fault with his technique? Didn't he bring home the very costly bacon?

South elected to open the ace of spades. While an ace is not one of the recommended leads against a slam unless you can visualize the possibility of a second trick, nevertheless against bidding such as this where the opposition is apparently shooting in the dark, it is frequently profitable to lead an ace in order to retain control of the hand and to await the appearance of the dummy for clues as to the proper continuation.

North played the four and East the deuce. It was obvious that South must shift, but to what suit? He took the lazy man's course and led the jack of clubs. This made it a "breeze" for the declarer and once more crime paid off. Every one at the table commiserated with South, who they maintained, was up against a difficult guess. "You couldn't reasonably be expected to lead from the king of hearts," they said.

To this view I do not subscribe. In my opinion the lead of a heart was proper. It was evident that the slam could not be defeated unless partner held an ace [since all dummy's spades were established and ready for discards]. The question arose, which ace was North more apt to have, the heart or the club. Since East blasted to a slam with a losing spade in his hand, it was inconceivable that he did not have the ace of clubs, since then he would have a losing spade and a losing club, neither of which there was any reason to expect partner to take care of. It was much more likely that declarer had control of the club suit and was gambling on partner's ability to take care of the suit he had bid.

Employment of the modern suit preference convention would have avoided this disaster. This convention provides that when a player makes an unnecessarily drastic signal, at a time when it is very evident that a shift is to be made, the size of the card he uses for a signal indicates the suit he desires led. In this case it is clear to every one that after the ace of spades is led a shift must be made. The play of the nine, an unnecessarily high card, would direct the shift to the higher ranking of the remaining suits. A heart lead would then become obligatory.

The bidding has proceeded:

Rustic Weave Effective for Summer Dress

BY REA SEEGER

Rustic weaves of cotton or specially woven rayon make ideal summer day time dresses for town or country. Some of the most effective summer suits are those made of coarse textured Guatemalan cotton, a fabric with a definite rustic, almost homespun, texture. This is the stuff that in stripes makes such smart two piece suits, using the stripes in angular or bias cut as the only trim or contrast. Most of the colors are soft pastels, with a lot of white or off-white background decorated in soft blue, raspberry-pink, almond, or lime green and some delicate mauves in two, three, and some times four color mixtures. Dresses as well as the suits are made of these effective South American cottons, and you can also buy it by the yard and make your own.

Coarse textured rayons are sensationally effective this year. Homespun weaves, the thick and thin threadlike weaves of heavy peasant linen, and the nubby, knotted looking stuff come in very lush colors for summer clothes and the popular street shades of copper, beige, gray, cypress-green, navy, very dark brown and dull black . . . all perfect for basic wear with unusual summer costume accessories. Jackets, blouses, those sleeveless vestee gilets, and wrap around brief blouses are of those rustic weave materials.

Rustic weave cottons in dull black make the smartest and most distinctive day time town dresses.

WAR CUTS SPEED OF U. S. AIR MAIL, TEST DISCLOSES

First Class Just as Fast in 350 Mile Radius

(This is the last article in a series showing the results of postal service tests conducted by The Tribune. Previous articles disclosed how the war has slowed the delivery of mails between Chicago and other major cities in the United States.)

BY EDWIN KENNEDY

The results of THE TRIBUNE mail test between Chicago and six midwest cities are shown in a table in another column. The cities are Minneapolis, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Des Moines, Ia.; Detroit, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind., and Green Bay, Wis. The table also shows the comparative elapsed time of deliveries of air and first class mail between Chicago and the other 14 cities in THE TRIBUNE test.

THE TRIBUNE test shows that air mail and first class mail are delivered in practically the same time to cities within a radius of 350 miles of Chicago. In some instances, first class mail is delivered faster than air mail both to those cities and to Chicago.

Overnight Delivery Usual

The test also shows that, with few exceptions, air and first class mail dispatched during business hours was delivered the next morning. In a few cases the mail was delivered the next afternoon.

The table also shows that first class mail is delivered faster to those cities than similar mail is delivered to Chicago. This was also the case in deliveries of first class mail to eastern and western cities. However, with the exception of Atlanta, first class mail to the southern cities was not delivered as fast as that kind of mail from those cities to Chicago.

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said that he is satisfied the results show that as a rule Chicago moves mail out faster than it is moved out of other cities.

Summing up the results of the test to the 20 cities, it can be concluded generally:

War Hits Air Mail Speed

That the delivery of air mail has suffered more from war conditions and does not come up to expectations;

That it takes less time to deliver air mail from Chicago to Miami, a distance of 1,312 miles, than it does to Des Moines, 306 miles distant, or Minneapolis, 356 miles distant.

Postmaster Kruetgen said that he believes that with the slackening of military needs and the return of many experienced postal employes, the mails will begin to show a gradual improvement.

He said that approximately 70 per cent of the air mail has been military. Furthermore, the government has taken over a large amount of equipment from the air transport companies. Air express priorities also have played a part in delaying air mail.

A committee of railway mail employes recently issued a report, charging that the railway mail service has not kept pace with the increase in volume of mail handled. The report stated that a sufficient number of railway mail employes has not been assigned and as a result some of the mail could not be worked on the trains, thereby delaying its delivery.

Postal Official Makes Reply

Another complaint was that space on railway mail trains was not sufficient to allow the proper handling of mail. The report, signed by R. A. Rice, R. D. Mateer, E. E. Miller, and D. H. Horn of the 6th division, Railway Mail association, has been sent to postal officials.

Arthur G. Cross, superintendent of railway mails for this area, made an answer to the report. He said 20 additional employes have been assigned to three railway mail lines in this division. He also said that 95 per cent of the mail is worked on trains, leaving 5 per cent to be worked at terminal postoffices. He admitted that this caused a delay in delivery of the 5 per cent not worked on the trains.

Supt. Cross said that there has been a falling off in the volume of mail handled in the last two months. According to the postal official, the method of handling out of town mail is undergoing some changes along with the streamlining and speeding up of trains and the discontinuance of many local trains.

Bill for Highway Service

A bill now pending in congress, he said, would establish a highway postoffice division in the postal service. The highway postoffice would deliver mail to small towns by truck or bus. The mail would be sorted on buses as it is on trains. Postal officials believe that this would speed up mails to small towns.

Supt. Cross said that such service is now in operation in three parts of the country on star routes. One route is in Indiana, from South Bend to Indianapolis, another is near San Francisco, and the third is in the area around Washington, D. C.

COURT STAYS MANDATE OVER WARD SEIZURE

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday ordered stayed until further notice its mandate of June 8 in the Montgomery Ward & Co. seizure dispute. On that day the Appeals court reversed a ruling by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan holding the government's seizure of Ward properties uncontitutional. The higher court's mandate sent the case back to Judge Sullivan with instructions to issue a judgment declaring the government's right to seize the properties.

A motion for a stay of mandate was requested by Ward attorneys to preserve the status quo of the army seizure pending an appeal by the company to the United States Supreme court from the Appeals court's ruling.

The army, however, since reversal of Judge Sullivan's ruling, has put into effect several of the war labor board directives.

AID TO MAYOR GIVEN SEVENTH TRANSIT POST

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he had appointed William McKenna, his assistant, as seventh member of the board which is to purchase, unify, and operate the surface and elevated lines in public ownership.

The city council is expected to confirm the appointment today. The mayor said McKenna will resign when a permanent choice is made. Complying wth the metropolitan transit authority act, McKenna surrendered his job as assistant to the mayor.

Prompt Organization Necessary

Completion of the board at once is necessary so that it may organize and start a test of its authority in the courts. Unless some hitch develops, the first meeting will be held Thursday afternoon in the offices of the city department of subways and super-highways.

McKenna takes the post that was offered to Martin H. Kennelly, wealthy storage firn executive Kennelly declined to serve. The other members are Philip Harrington, former Ald. Quinn [50th], and Irvin L. Porter, appointed by the mayor, and Philip W. Collins, George F. Getz Jr., and John Quincy Adams, named by Gov. Green. It is expected that Harrington, who is commissioner of subways, will be elected chairman of the traction board.

Financial Help Provided

The council finance committee recommended yesterday that $100,000 be granted the transit authority from the traction fund to help in its preliminary work. This recommendation will be acted on by the council today. The state legislature is expected to vote an additional $100,000 to the authority this week.

Both the "L" and surface lines are in bankruptcy, and the properties must be acquired at a sale by the federal District court. Today the court is to receive a petition asking that the surface lines be reorganized separately under private ownership. Charles B. Haffenberg, one of the attorneys who drafted the petition, said this plan would speed up purchase of the properties of the lines by the metropolitan authority.

ZACAPET TAKES FIRST ARLINGTON FEATURE

BY ARCH WARD

HUGH E. KEOUGH, founder of this column, wrote in THE TRIBUNE of March 19, 1910, after seeing Willie Hoppe defeat George Sutton, 500 to 228 in a championship balkline block in Orchestra hall: "The question of billiard supremacy no longer is open. The answer is Willie Hoppe. . . . This young man palpably is master of balkline in all its variations. . . . There is nobody in the foreground nor in the perspective who conveys a suggestion of classing with him. . . . He should be able to hold his own in front indefinitely. . . . His are the youth, the constitution, the nerve—and the billiards." . . . Keough died two years later. . . . Had he lived, he would have seen his prophecy more than substantiated by the brilliant master of the cue. . . . Jimmy Foxx, at 195 pounds, is in better condition than he has been for five years. . . . Elmer Kolberg, Oregon State full back from 1935 thru 1937, has been assigned to the Melville, R. I., PT boat base as an instructor. . . . Elmer had 18 months service with the fast little craft in the Solomons and Philippine areas and wears four battle stars. . . . Hank De Berry, Giant scout and former big league catcher, laughs at modern receivers who complain about the difficulty of catching knuckle ball pitchers. . . . "They should have been around in the days of the spitter," says Hank. "I used to have to catch Burleigh Grimes when he was tossing the spitball for the Brooklyn Dodgers; just trying to keep track of the ball and the battered fingers when you misjudged it was enough, but that wasn't all. . . . Burleigh was also a belligerent cuss. He fought with himself, the base runners, his catcher, and the entire opposition nine. . . . Catching Burleigh for nine innings left you limp as a rag." . . .

Pete Gray

Willie Hoppe

The New York Yankees, famed for years for their airtight defensive play, committed 70 errors in their first 48 games this season. . . . Bill Luther, 18 year old freshman right hander for the Penn State nine, won all three of his starts this season. . . . Possibly in the hope of attaining revenge for that 34 to 0 Cotton bowl beating, Texas Christian has scheduled a football game with the Oklahoma Aggies in Fort Worth for Oct. 27. . . . Another World War II. veteran who came back to baseball with a bang is 24 year old Pete Thomassie, outfielder for Memphis of the Southern association, who threatens to break some league batting records. . . . Pete is hitting .400. . . . Pete Gray, altho living up to his advance billing generally with the Browns, still is proving somewhat of a headache to Manager Luke Sewell. . . . There comes a time when, because the opposing pitcher is a southpaw or for other reasons, Luke feels called upon to remove Gray from the lineup. . . . Then the fans who have come from miles around to see the one-armed player perform, complain they have been gypped. . . . In New York, the sports writers, without asking Luke, announced that Pete would be in the outfield in Yankee stadium. . . . When he failed to appear, the fans, AND the scribes criticized Sewell. . . . Marine 1st Lt. Hugh Gallarneau Jr., former right half back on the Chicago Bears, has returned to Chicago to spend a 30 day leave here following 18 months in the Pacific. Lt. Gallarneau was last stationed in Okinawa. He will report for a refresher course in military tactics at a southern marine base following his leave.

Prevalent Obsession

O, there isn't any use for worry,
It only gets you frowns upon your brow,
What's the need of fretting for tomorrow
When all you have, for certain, is right now????

O, there isn't any use for worry,
It's just a waste of time and strength, I say,
It only hinders you in comprehending
The joys you have at present—now—today.

Throw worry in the ashcan, or the furnace,
Pin smiles upon your lips—defy the groan,
Tomorrow is countless lives away, friend,
Today, right now, is all you're sure you own.

OHIO STATE'S GOLFERS WIN COLLEGE MEET

N. U., Michigan Tie for Second

Columbus, O., June 25 (AP)—Neither rain, nor wind, nor lightning could slow Ohio State university's golf team today and the Buckeyes swept all honors in the first phase of the 48th annual National Collegiate Golf tournament.

They won the team title for the first time in history with a 19 stroke margin over Michigan and Northwestern, which tied for second, and Howard Baker took the individual qualifying medal with an even par 142 for 36 holes despite the fact he was knocked down when lightning struck a nearby tree during the afternoon round.

Baker; his caddy, Bob Edwards; Jack Atten of Northwestern's team, and his caddy, Donald Smith, were knocked down at the sixth hole by the bolt which came during a terrific rainstorm. None was hurt.

Gets Up and Birdies Two Holes

Baker, a serious minded lad who walks with a limp, bounced right up off the ground, birdied two holes in a row and finished with a four under par 68 which tied the amateur competitive course record.

His 36 hole total of 142 was seven strokes better than the 149 turned in by the next low individuals—Johnny Lorms of Ohio State and Robert Abrahams of Northwestern.

Ohio State's four man combination of Baker, Lorms, Bob Kampfer, and Dan Rocker finished the 36 holes with a team total of 602. Baker's 142 went with the 149 by Lorms, 155 by Kampfer, and 156 by Rocker.

Northwestern Rallies

Northwestern rallied in the afternoon rain and windstorm to equal Michigan's total of 621. Notre Dame's defending champions were next in line with 633, and Minnesota was last with 638.

The 16 low individual scorers today qualified for match play, beginning tomorrow, which will decide the individual title, and it took a score of 156 or better to get into the championship flight. The only exception was Louis Lick of Minnesota, the defending champion, who was qualified automatically despite a 157 today.

The battle for the individual championship will be virtually an all-midwestern affair—Lt. De Witt Nunn of West Point being the only qualifier from outside the corn belt.

Four Buckeyes in Match Play

Baker's 68 this afternoon was a masterpiece considering he played more than half his round over a course that was waterlogged. He hit the nine hole mark three under par, and barely missed setting a new course record when an eight foot putt on the home green failed to drop.

His round and Lorms' 69 in the forenoon were the only ones under 70.

Michigan salvaged some glory when Robert Ernst negotiated the back nine during the forenoon in a four under par 32, the best nine hole score of the day.

Ohio State will have four contestants in the match play competition; Michigan will have three, and Minnesota, Northwestern, and Notre Dame two each. The three other spots were divided among Detroit, Army, and Bradley Tech.

Howard Baker, Ohio State	74	68	142

That happy assignment will consist of the formal opening of the handsome pitch-and-putt course which the three co-sponsors of the program—the Chicago District Golf association, the Professional Golfers' Association of America, and the Cook County Council of the American Legion—will present to the hospitalized service men at Hines.

Nova K.O.'d in First Round by Mauriello

Boston, Mass., June 25 (AP)—Tami Mauriello, 197, of New York, knocked out Lou Nova, 203, of Los Angeles, Cal., in 2:47 of the first round of their scheduled 10 round bout tonight before 8,000 in Fenway park.

Mauriello, who scored a six round technical knockout over the Californian in their first bout in New York more than three years ago, didn't waste any opportunities in setting up the knockout.

Mauriello's first serious blow, a right to the head, opened a cut over Nova's left eye. Nova ran into a left hook a short time later and fell to the canvas, where he remained for a nine count. Nova tried to rally after regaining his feet, but Mauriello ignored a body battering as he closed in to rock his opponent's head with lefts and rights.

Nova came to grief as he tried to come off the ropes, after taking several stiff punches. His guard was down when Mauriello let fly with another right.

17 GAMES IN 12 DAYS ON CHART OF WHITE SOX

(The Cubs are scheduled to arrive in New York today and will open a four game series with the Dodgers in Brooklyn tomorrow night. Story on next page.)

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

James Dykes' White Sox are about to find out what it means to really work for a living. They began resting yesterday and, except for a brief workout this morning, will continue with their leisure until tomorrow evening when they'll start on a Comiskey park schedule that calls for 17 games in 12 days.

As very convincing proof that baseball has turned more than slightly daffy only 3 of the 17 games will be single affairs in the afternoon. Four will be under the lights, including the one of tomorrow, in which Boston's Red Sox will be in the guest rôle. The 10 others will be paired into double-headers and while the bargain loving fans may consider this a perfect setup, the Dykes' pitching staff is inclined to take a different slant.

Yankees to Follow Red Sox.

Boston, the first of the four eastern clubs due to do turns here, has in addition to tomorrow's night meeting, two single afternoon games. The next callers will be the Yankees who make their 1945 Comiskey park debut Saturday night under the lights. The Yanks also play double-headers Sunday and Monday. There's a night game July 3 with Washington followed by a Fourth of July double-header and a single July 5. The dizziness will terminate with a night game and Saturday and Sunday double-headers with the Athletics.

Dykes has a minimum of six starting pitchers despite the absence of Joe Haynes who is out with a broken ankle, so maybe the pressure between tomorrow and a week from next Sunday won't be as severe on the Sox as on the other teams scheduled to be in on the misery.

11 Victories in 15 Games.

When the Sox broke even at Cleveland Sunday they made their season's record with the Indians a choice 10 victories against 3 trimmings inflicted on them by Lou Boudreau's assortment. It also gave the Sox a record of 11 victories in their last 15 games.

GREENBERG WILL RETURN TO TIGER LINEUP SUNDAY

Detroit, Mich., June 25 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers came out today with the announcement that sent a thrill all around this sports loving town—Hank Greenberg will return to the lineup on Sunday. Once the bane of American league pitchers, the slugging star will be making his first appearance on a diamond of organized baseball since he entered the army four years ago.

The Tigers are going to give him back his old spot in left field, where he last was seen on May 6, 1941, the day of his farewell which he marked with two home runs.

FULL CRY IS 2D, SAMERON 3D IN SPOKANE PURSE

13,000 Turn Out and Wager $786,291

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The third war time coördinated meeting of the Arlington and Washington Park Jockey clubs, the richest they ever have presented, was launched yesterday on a sloppy track and under overcast skies. Cool weather, however, was no deterrent to some 13,000 patrons of the first of 64 days of racing at the Homewood track.

The inaugural feature, the $5,000 added Spokane handicap, was won by Mrs. H. J. Damm's Zacapet, a 6 year old brown colt which Jockey Georgie South guided to a two and one-half length victory over the Brolite farm's Full Cry. R. N. Lerner's Sameron was third in a field of six older horses at seven furlongs.

Juveniles Show Class

Zacapet broke in front from his No. 6 post position and stayed there, holding a four length lead over Full Cry on the far turn and then hanging on to win, but having little left. Sameron closed fast, but Martian, Signals Bloke, and Traffic Court never had a chance. The winner paid $5.20, $3.40, and $2.80 across the board. Full Cry returned $5.60 and 3.40, and Sameron paid $4 to show.

The mutuel handle for the afternoon was $786,291. Wagering on the first day of the 1944 meeting amounted to $824,805.

Smart fields faced the starter in a pair of juvenile events and the performances of the youngsters gave evidence of the high class competition which may be expected during the summer schedule which carries purses totaling nearly $2,000,000. Of this amount $650,000 has been set aside for 27 stake events, including several valuable affairs for the 2 year olds.

Marsch Colt Wins First Race

These are highlighted by the $30,000 Washington Park and Arlington Park Futurities and the $15,000 added Hyde Park which is slated for next Saturday, and John Marsch, the Chicago contractor who has had a virtual monopoly on futurities for the last three years, put in a bid yesterday with a youngster called Frank's Choice. The bay son of Petrose-Galla, ridden by Joe Wagner, scored a five length victory in the first race which brought out a band of 11 juveniles.

Warren Wright's Calumet farm countered with another young speedster in the fourth race which drew nine juveniles. The Ben Jones trained High Shine, a bay son of Bull Lea-Lady Highgloss, won going away as Jockey Doug Dodson let him have his head down the long stretch.

May Meet in Futurities

Both Frank's Choice and High Shine are eligible for the two futurities as are several of the horses they beat. Frank's Choice whipped, among others, Leon Tikulski's Bobs Pick, which was second, and Walmac Farm's Kings River, the show horse, as Calumet's 4 to 5 favorite, Jezros, came in eighth. High Shine was followed in by Inroc and Breezy Louise, a pair of good performers.

Marsch also showed off his fleet 3 year old, Art Roi, in the $3,000 Wildair purse, the secondary feature. Art Roi, with Kempton Knott up, beat Herbert M. Woolf's Devastating by four lengths at six furlongs as Mrs. R. O. Burris' After Eight took the show.

Frank's Choice returned $9.20 for a $2 ticket and with Frank Culotta's Goose Berry in the second race accounted for a $57.20 daily double.

Occupy Tops Clang Entries

John Marsch's Occupy, winner of the 1943 Washington Park and Belmont Futurities, has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds for the $10,000 Clang handicap tomorrow, a six furlong sprint for 3 year olds and upward which has drawn 21 nominations.

The Woolford farm's Signator is next in line with 120 pounds and has been entered with Adulator and Silvestra.

Howard Wells, owner and trainer of the old campaigner, Equifox, said yesterday that the son of Equipoise will run in the $25,000 Equipoise mile, feature event on the Fourth of July program next week. Equifox was the winner of the first running of the race which commemorates the world record performance of his sire. Equipoise's mile in 1:34 2-5 at Arlington Park in 1932 stands as the fastest ever run by a thorobred.

Avoid the 50-yard line rush

In a short time now there will be a great clamoring for seats on the 50-yard line at the 12th annual All-Star football game in Soldiers' field Aug. 30 between the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football league, and the College All-Stars, standouts in the nation's collegiate ranks. Soldiers' field is no different than any other football stadium in that only a small percentage of the seats are in midfield, so, to avoid the 50-yard line rush, send in your orders today.

Applications will be accepted by mail only. Checks or money orders should be made out to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and directed to All-Star Football Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Applicants are asked to enclose a return self-addressed envelope. The prices, including tax, are:

LITTLE IS HEARD BY CONGRESS AT DUCK HEARING

Only Four States Urge Use of Live Decoys

BY BOB BECKER

The congressional committee on wild life resources which recently concluded a hearing in Washington, D. C., on a bill which might permit hunters to use live decoys and a special method of feeding made news for water fowl shooters in Illinois and other middle western states. One of our scouts who attended this hearing, called by Congressman Willis A. Robertson, chairman of the wild life committee, of Virginia, tells us that:

1. The meeting was pretty sad.

2. Only a few states interested in bringing back the use of live decoys were officially represented.

Hunters Are Dubious

3. The United States Fish and Wild Life service was criticized for the timing of its release of the report that there are about 20 million ducks missing in the latest census of our water fowl, a report which many hunters can't take very seriously.

Only North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and New Jersey were interested enough to send official representatives to the hearing. Illinois wasn't represented there nor was Missouri, which has been clamoring for the use of live decoys. Our scout tells us that one of the most interesting things that happened at the hearing was the explanation offered by the Fish and Wild Life service for the alleged and mysterious disappearance of some 20 million ducks.

Advance Three Reasons

Three possible reasons for this paper shortage in quackers were advanced at the hearing. First, many birds may have wintered in Mexico last year, so the checkers couldn't count them, and maybe there was a larger kill last fall because 25,000 more duck stamps were sold in 1944 than in 1943, and perhaps the census takers missed a lot of ducks with their adding machines. One of the men who counted ducks last winter admitted that he believed large flocks of birds went across the Mexican border, and thus were not officially counted.

Cubs, Dodgers Ready to Open 4 Game Series

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Cubs will arrive in New York this morning, linger long enough to put down their satchels, then grab buses for Mitchell Field, where they will play a service team this afternoon as a tuner-upper for their series with the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

4 Games with Dodgers

The Cub-Dodgers set will involve four contests, the first tomorrow night, when Paul Derringer will make his second try for his ninth victory.

The fifth placers will use the same lineup that split a double header with the Cardinals before 43,103 in Wrigley Field Sunday—but there may be shakeups if things do not go well in Brooklyn.

4 Hits In 12 Games

Such a shakeup might involve Bill Nicholson, who failed to get a hit in the four game series and has made only four safe ones in his last 12 games, during which span he went to bat 43 times. Two of the four hits were successive singles, so he has had a total of two hits in 11 of his last 12 games. He has been at bat 200 times this season, and has a mark of 98 points under the .353 average of Phil Cavarretta, who succeeded him as Cub cleanup hitter.

Ebbets Field, home of the Dodgers, is Nick's favorite park, and it is expected Nick will snap out of his slump while there.

MATCH CORP. AND GARY SOFTBALL TEAMS DIVIDE

The Match Corporation of America and Gary teams split a double header in the Major Metropolitan Softball league last night in Shewbridge field. Earl Sheldon pitched the Chicago champions to a 3 to 0 victory in the first game and John Harlow, star of the Hoosiers' pitching staff, held the Matches to one hit as Gary took the second encounter, 1 to 0.

Match Corporation is to face the powerful Kenosha [Wis.] softball team tonight in Parichy stadium, Harlem av. and Harrison st. The Match Jrs. will play Baby Valet of Oak Park in a 7 o'clock preliminary game.

JACKIE BOYD IS RULED RING PRO BY A. A. U. GROUP

BY FRANK MASTRO

Jackie Boyd, 1945 Chicagoland Golden Gloves flyweight champion, was ruled a professional by the Central A. A. U. boxing committee at a meeting yesterday in the Illinois Athletic club.

The action was taken after Johnny Coyle, promoter of weekly shows in the West Side Boxing club at 10 S. California av., appeared at the session and denied paying Boyd $25, as charged by two A. A. U. inspectors, for competing in a five round bout in the West Side arena last Wednesday night against Fred Latson, St. Louis featherweight.

Coyle Is Suspended

The inspectors are Edwin Parkes, who also is secretary of the committee, and Paul Staff, who handled the show for the A. A. U. Coyle was the only one to testify yesterday. He claimed he gave Boyd only $5 for his efforts, the limit allowed a local boy by the A. A. U. for legitimate expenses.

Despite Coyle's denials, the committee suspended him indefinitely and barred Boyd from further competition as an amateur. Parkes said the committee arrived at its decision as a result of his [Parkes'] allegation that Coyle admitted to him during an inquiry on Friday that he paid Boyd an excessive amount of expense money.

Last night Coyle again denied the accusation.

Decision Is Unanimous

Parkes said the committee's decision was unanimous. Members at yesterday's meeting included Tommy Thomas, Herman Fischer, Lou Radziends, Nicholas Malloy, Alexander Baim, Chris Davis, Leonard Sterling, Robert Mackie, Paul Staff, and Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman.

Thomas was a guest referee at last Wednesday's show in the West Side arena. Baim is co-promoter with Walter Buescher of programs in Madison-Cicero outdoor arena. Bob Howard, who is Baim's matchmaker, seconded Boyd against Latson. Boyd also represented the Madison A. C.

Outfielder Johnny Hopp of the St. Louis Cardinals, struck on the head by a pitched ball in a game with the Chicago Cubs Sunday, was reported "greatly improved" last night at Illinois Masonic hospital.

His physician, Dr. L. Braun, said X-ray examination failed to show any evidence of a skull fracture but that Hopp probably would remain under observation at the hospital for another 48 hours.

RILEY AND HOOD BOX TO DRAW IN MARIGOLD RING

Odell Riley, Detroit heavyweight, survived a first round knockdown to hold Hubert Hood, former Golden Gloves champion, to a draw in a hard eight round bout in Marigold outdoor arena last night.

A couple of low punches he landed before flooring Riley in the first round cost Hood the decision, it was disclosed in the dressing room after the fight by Referee Bernard [Sonny] Weissman.

Foul Punches Costly

Referee Weissman and Judge Rube Metz called the bout a draw, but Frank Clark, the other judge, gave his vote to Hood, 41 to 39. However, the referee gave the first round to Hood, six points to four, whereas the other two officials gave him the round by a 7 to 3 margin, which ordinarily is the correct point score when a knockdown occurs.

The referee explained his failure to give Hood a 7 to 3 margin because of the foul punches with which Hubert connected prior to the knockdown. The official's failure to apprise the judges of his action was criticized by Pete Miller, Illinois athletic commission secretary.

Hood weighed 194 pounds, and Riley, 181.

Four Knockouts Scored

Each of the four supporting matches ended in knockouts, winners being Luther Brent, Chicago, 162 pounds; Roy Lewis, Muncie, Ind., 140 pounds; Art Brown, Chicago, 148 pounds, and Gene Roberts, Danville, Ill., 123 pounds.

Brent stopped Willie Jeeters, Detroit, in the first round; Lewis knocked out Herman Mills, also in the first; Brown stopped Eddie Callahan, Detroit, in the fourth, and Roberts knocked out Charles Johnson in the second round.

A crowd of 2,227 contributed to a gross gate of $4,595.

OFFER TO RUN LAKE AIRPORT IS WITHDRAWN

St. Louis Accepts Proffer of Aviation Group

The National Aviation Trades association of Kansas City, Mo., has withdrawn its offer to Chicago to operate an air strip which it suggested be built on Northerly Island, south of the Shedd aquarium.

In a letter received yesterday by Merrill C. Meigs, chairman of the Chicago Aero commission, C. R. Mooney, executive director of the aviation trades association, indicated that an offer by St. Louis to provide landing facilities near the downtown section of that city will be accepted.

Offer Made A Year Ago

The association a year ago proposed that Chicago construct an air strip on Northerly island for the use of chartered and private planes, to be operated under the supervision and jurisdiction of the association.

The group then, and in its letter to Meigs, said that the island would provide an ideal site for an air strip. Landing facilities could be constructed with a small amount of grading, and perhaps a minor fill into the lake, it was said. An adjacent lagoon would provide ample facilities for seaplanes, the association said.

Altho considerable discussion of the proposal has taken place the city failed to take any action. At one time a suggestion that a substitute site be located off Montrose av. was discussed.

Delay Is Criticized

The city's delay with the proposal was criticized by civic and aviation organizations, which pointed out that the interest of the aviation trades association would result in spurring flying and plane manufacturing activities.

Northerly Island is owned by the park district and the air strip proposal has been steadfastly opposed by the district's president, Robert J. Dunham. He argued that the island's proximity to the Chicago Natural History [Field] museum, Soldiers' field, and the Shedd aquarium would present a hazard. Planes might crash into them, he contended.

Mooney's letter said that while the association has withdrawn its offer, it still urged the city to go ahead and build the air strip, and operate it municipally.

STEEL QUOTAS TERMED KEY TO '45 CAR OUTPUT

Olds, Fairless Say WPB Has Control

BY THOMAS FURLONG

Whether auto makers and other manufacturers get enough steel to fill recently authorized civilian production quotas depends on the allocations made by the war production board, officials of the United States Steel corporation said yesterday.

Benjamin F. Fairless

Chairman Irving S. Olds and President Benjamin F. Fairless offered no assurance that steel would be available to complete the civilian automobile program.

"It is entirely in the hands of the government," said Fairless. "We do not presume to tell how much steel will be available for civilian use. Under present conditions we are producing all the steel we can and the government tells us to whom we may sell it."

Sufficient Steel Inferred

Olds added that he thought it it reasonable to infer that the WPB believed that steel will be avaiable for the auto program and other reconversion authorizations recently made. Otherwise, he said, it is doubtful that the program would have been authorized.

Fairless was not optimistic that production can be increased. Asked about the statement of WPB Chairman Krug that new civilian demand might stimulate production, he replied that United States Steel is producing its maximum under present man-power conditions and other limitations.

Fairless, Olds and other directors of the corporation spent the day in the Chicago district on an inspection tour. They visited the Joliet works of the American Steel and Wire company, a subsidiary. Today the board will hold its regular meeting at the company offices, 208 S. La Salle st. Two Chicagoans, Sewell L. Avery and Philip R. Clark, are members.

May Junk Some Plants

In reply to questions Chairman Olds implied that the company is planning to junk certain facilities in the Pittsburgh area if it is successful in buying from the government the big war constructed Geneva plant at Provo, Utah. It is the largest steel plant in the western part of the country. Both the corporation and Henry C. Kaiser, west coast industrialist, have announced they will negotiate to buy the plant from the Defense Plant corporation after the war.

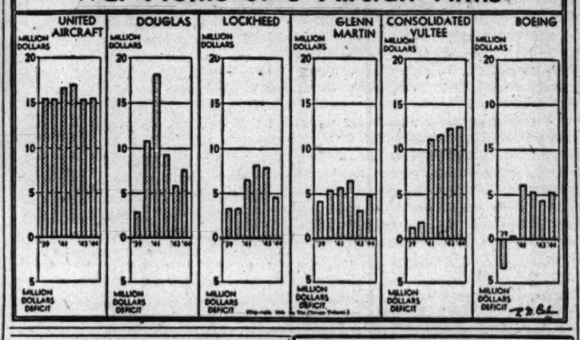
Olds and Fairless said that the corporation has no specific plan for expanding the South Works in Chicago. Officials of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, a subsidiary, had discussed with Chicago city officials the purchase of 80 acres of submerged land near the South plant. These discussions, officials said, were directed only toward providing for future contingencies. The corporation recently announced plans for extensive plant expenditures at Gary after the war.

Propose to Follow Market

The guiding principle of the corporation in its post-war building, Olds said, will be to "follow the market." As the market for steel shifts the corporation will shift facilities. As new facilities are needed they will be located near the market. Older facilities whose location was determined by conditions existing years ago will be junked. In such shifts, he implied, the trend will be away from the eastern part of the country.

Fairless said that the company will absorb all employes now in military service on their return. Approximately 100,000 former employes of the corporation and its subsidiaries are in military service. This is about one third of the normal pay roll of 300,000.

War Profits of 6 Aircraft Firms



Carriers Lead Stock Market in Broad Rise

New York, June 25 (AP)—Rails led the stock market higher today as favorites rose 1 to 3 points to peaks for eight years or longer. Buying again was based on the urge to employ idle cash, discount inflation and favorable post-war business prospects.

Low quoted motors and utilities appeared in large blocks from the opening and this popularity of the lower priced issues was viewed by some as a possible signal for caution. Buying rotated among rubbers, liquors, and aviations as split-up talk again boosted several climbers. Apprehension over a technical reaction and anti-speculation moves was a handicap. Dealings were liveliest in the forenoon, tapering in the final hour when some top marks were shaded. Transfers totaled 1,890,000 shares, compared with 1,850,000 Friday.

RAIL BONDS EDGE HIGHER

New York, June 25 (AP)—Most railroad bonds edged higher today and a few rose several points. Sales were $8,260,000, compared with $11,410,000 Friday. Industrial and utility obligations generally were firm.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE

Prices closed higher in turnover of 36,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Most actively traded issues included New York Central, up 1; General-American Transportation, up ½, and Chicago corporation common, Commonwealth Edison, and Kellogg Switchboard, all unchanged.

16 AIR LINES END '44 WITHOUT ONE FATAL ACCIDENT

Sixteen American air lines closed 1944 without a fatal accident, the National Safety council said yesterday in announcing its 1944 aviation safety awards.

United Air Lines was the group winner among the larger air lines, those flying more than 100 million passenger miles last year. In this group, Eastern Air Lines and Northwest Airlines also had no fatality records, but these lines had flown fewer passenger miles than United since their last fatality.

Braniff Airways was the winner among the group flying 10 to 100 million passenger miles. Other perfect records in this group were made by Pensylvania-Central Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Western Air Lines, Chicago and Southern, Continental Air Lines, Mid-Continent Air Lines, Northeast Airlines, Pan American Airways [Atlantic division], Hawaiian Airlines, and Colonial Airlines.

United won the council's special distinguished service to safety award for operating more than 1 billion passenger miles without a fatal accident.

DPC to Boost Aluminum Output at Reynolds Plant

New York, June 25 (AP)—Defense Plant corporation will expand and modernize its aluminum extrusion plant in Louisville, Ky., at a cost of 2 million dollars, Reynolds Metals company, operator of the plant, said today. R. S. Reynolds, president, said the action was taken to speed production of extruded aluminum, still on the critical list because of its urgent need in the Pacific war.

PULLMAN DEVELOPS LOUNGE THAT SHIFTS TO DRESSING ROOMS

Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company has designed a luxurious coach with a lounge that can be turned into two dressing rooms for morning and night use. This was announced yesterday by Ellis W. Test, assistant to the president, in charge of engineering and research.

The lounge will have living room comforts and clublike facilities for smoking and relaxation, and will contain restful chairs, broad windows, and mirrored walls that create the illusion of even more spaciousness, Test explained.

"We have achieved this extra luxury without sacrificing any of the seating capacity of coaches built just before the war," he said.

The lounge can be converted into morning and evening dressing rooms for men and women by closing a sliding partition that bisects the room. In each section a bank of three wash basins, concealed against the wall, can be raised into position below six foot wide mirrors.

OFFER EVIDENCE A. & P. OPERATED STORES AT LOSS

Danville, Ill., June 25 (AP)—United States prosecutors today introduced documentary evidence purporting to prove the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company conducted its own price wars and operated stores at a loss in its New England division. The evidence was offered in a federal District court trial of the A. & P. and 28 officers and subsidiaries on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust act by conspiring to restrain trade and gain a monopoly.

Earl Jinkinson, special assistant to the attorney general, introduced minutes from executive and advisory board meetings in the New England division showing a number of stores operated at a loss. The records also showed plans for a special campaign in 1931 in the New Haven, Conn., unit, to increase volume thru reduced prices.

William Acton, defense attorney, reading from the same minutes, contended that A. & P. closed unprofitable stores, moving profit making meat departments to other areas. Acton charged that special campaigns were made to regain business lost thru excessively high gross profit rate.

CARRIER IN EAST BECOMES FIRST ALL-DIESEL LINE

Schenectady, N. Y., June 25 (AP)—The New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad has become the first American railroad to be equipped completely with diesel-electric locomotion, the General Electric company said tonight.

Announcing delivery of the last of 16 diesel-electric locomotives to the company, G. E. said the conversion would save an estimated $400,000 a year for the line.

The new locomotives, built by G. E. and American Locomotive company, will make faster schedules and the handling of increased traffic possible, the electric company said.

The New York, Susquehanna and Western operates out of New York city thru parts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

General Mills Charts Broad Finance Plans

General Mills will issue next fall 100,000 shares of $100 par convertible preferred as a part of a financing program, James F. Bell, chairman, and Harry A. Bullis, president, said yesterday.

Harry A. Bullis

The program also involves a split of common stock on a three for one basis, a proposal that will be submitted to stockholders at the annual meeting Aug. 21. No change in capital or surplus would result from this action.

Offer Shares to Owners

Present plans provide for offering the new preferred to common stockholders on the basis of holdings. Any unsubscribed shares would be underwritten by a group headed by Dillon Read & Co.

The additional capital would be used to finance possible post-war plant expansion and changes, future plant acquisitions and maintenance of inventories, to increase working capital, and provide for other general corporate purposes.

E. R. Squibb & Sons authorized an issue of 150,000 no par shares of $4 cumulative preferred. The company plans to offer 98,906 shares in exchange for holdings of serial preferred on a share for share basis plus a cash adjustment of dividends.

Call Unexchanged Shares

It also proposes to sell to underwriters for public distribution any shares not exchanged, together with the 51,094 remaining. All unexchanged shares will be called for redemption Aug. 1. Proceeds will be invested in government securities and will be available for tax payments or to provide funds for general corporate purposes.

Thirteen million dollars of 3 per cent debentures and 100,000 shares of no par cumulative preferred were registered with the securities and exchange commission by Champion Paper and Fibre company, Hamilton, O. Holders of 6 per cent cumulative preferred will receive the new preferred at an exchange rate to be determined later. Proceeds will be used for redemption of 3¾ per cent first mortgage bonds and to prepay 2¾ per cent promissory notes.

Stockholders of Hamilton Watch company approved a plan to call 6 per cent cumulative preferred at $105 and accrued dividends, and to issue and sell to common stockholders 35,000 shares of $100 par 4 per cent convertible preferred.

Authorization Approved

Union Oil Company of California stockholders approved authorization of 500,000 shares of preferred stock in connection with financing plans before the SEC. The company plans to sell in July an initial series of 250,000 shares of $3.75 cumulative preferred and a 25 million dollar issue of 25 year 2¾ per cent debentures. Proceeds will be used to redeem $25,600,000 of 3s due 1959, to pay 12 millions of bank loans and to strengthen capital position by about 16 millions.

Idaho Power company plans to complete application to sell the remaining 39,413 authorized, but unissued shares of $100 par 4 per cent preferred.

AVERT STRIKE SPREAD TO 300 DETROIT PLANTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Representatives of CIO maintenance workers in Detroit last night accepted conditionally a proposed agreement with AFL building trade unions, averting immediate danger of a spread of a jurisdictional dispute to about 300 Detroit area factories. The dispute over which union should do reconversion work already had made idle nearly 30,000 workers, including 22,000 at the Packard Motor Car company and 7,500 at the Budd Wheel company. Details of the proposed pact were not disclosed.

Strikes elsewhere thruout the country brought the total of idle to about 78,000 persons.

In Akron, O., CIO United Rubber Workers voted for the third time in five days to continue their strike which began June 9 at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company where 18,000 are idle. In defying urgent appeals by the army, navy, WLB, and Gov. Lausche, the union was reported to have voted unanimously.

BANKS SUPPORT CURRENCY FUND —WITH CHANGES

Shift from Position of Flat Rejection

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—The American Bankers association, shifting from an earlier position, today endorsed the Bretton Woods monetary agreements with a proviso for certain changes. Previously it had opposed portions of the plan outright.

W. Randolph Burgess, A. B. A. president, suggested to the senate banking committee that the same board of directors should govern both the proposed 8 billion 800 million dollar international stabilization fund and the 9 billion 100 million international bank for reconstruction and rehabilitation.

Burgess, who initially had presented to the house banking committee A. B. A. opposition to the fund, center of most of the opposition to the agreements, conceded that it as well as the bank would be feasible with some modifications.

Insists on "Clarifications"

Asserting that the "short-term character of advances" from the fund needed clarification, he suggested a requirement that member nations purchasing exchange be required to show they can make repayments within 18 months and that they agree beforehand to do so.

Burgess praised changes made in the plan by the house, which already has voted its approval, but said the senate should make the additional "clarifications" he outlined and insist upon them as conditions of United States membership in both fund and bank.

W. L. Hemingway, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust company of St. Louis, told the committee the United States should extend credit to Britain to tide her thru the transition period from war to peace. He did not suggest the amount.

Payments in Silver Urged

Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.] appeared to advocate two amendments, one to authorize the treasury to mint $35 gold coins and the other to permit the United States to use surplus silver as part payment of her subscription to the proposed fund.

The gold coin, containing an ounce of gold, need only be theoretical rather than be in actual circulation, said the leader of the senate silver bloc. He urged his amendments to keep the nation "on a sound, metallic monetary basis rather than on a managed paper currency."

The committee recessed hearings until later in the week, planning to receive testimony then from Harry D. White, assistant secretary of the treasury, as a final witness.

CHARGE $289,990 FRAUD ON U.S. BY MOTOR DEALER

Irwin Sabin Braud, 2609 E. 68th st., principal owner and operating executive of the Braud Motor sales, 6647 S. Western av., was charged with defrauding the government of $289,990 in an indictment returned yesterday before Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court.

Braud held government contracts totaling $3,711,656 to supply motor vehicles to the United States army engineers for use in constructing the Alcan highway. He was accused in the indictment prepared by United States Atty. Woll and an assistant, Bernard Sokol, of defrauding the government by filing "false and misleading reports" on his profits when the contracts were renegotiated.

On his total transactions Braud reported a gross profit of $311,350 while investigation showed a real profit of $601,340, or $289,990 in excess of that reported, the indictment charged.

Chrysler Sends Big Bomb Order to Evansville Plant

Detroit, Mich., June 25 (AP)—Chrysler corporation today announced that a contract for more than 7½ million incendiary bombs for use against Japan has been assigned to the Evansville, Ind., Ordnance plant. Approximately 3,000 workers, mostly women, will be engaged in the program.

Committee in Surprise Move Votes Money to End FEPC

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—The house appropriations committee today approved a $125,000 fund for liquidation of the fair employment practices committee.

The committee's surprise action, if approved by congress, means that operations of the FEPC, long the center of a congressional controversy, will be limited to liquidation after July 1.

Committee members said the fund would permit FEPC to wind up its affairs in three months. The amount represents one-fourth of the sum the President had requested to permit the agency to operate for a full year.

Legislation Stalemated

Legislation to make the agency permanent has been stalemated in congress and no funds for its continuance after June 30 had been approved.

Chairman Ross of the FEPC told of the committee's action, said FEPC is considering voluntary operation if it receives no government funds. At the same news conference, Milton Webster, Negro member of FEPC, said members of his race plan a demonstration if congress denies operating funds.

Webster, president of the AFL Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said the demonstration would be "more dramatic than a march on Washington," but that he could not discuss the plan in detail yet.

A new attack on the office of price administration—thru its pocketbook—was planned today by opponents after the appropriations committee recommended $174,500,000 for the agency for the year beginning July 1. Foes said privately they will try to cut it deeply.

3 Billions Involved

The OPA fund, $6,000,000 below budget estimates, was included in a $3,134,031,456 deficiency supply bill which also contained $1,975,000,000 for lend-lease, $753,769,000 for the navy, and $16,654,860 to finance a treasury department drive against tax dodgers. The entire bill is $17,404,173 below budget estimates.

The committee approved funds to enable the government owned Rubber Reserve company to construct four additional mills to process guayule from the emergency rubber project in California.

The mills will cost $2,500,000 for construction and $1,666,666 for operation from October, 1945, thru March, 1947.

Cuba Rejects U.S. Offer for Sugar in 1946

BY GUSTAVO RENO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 25—Cuba today rejected a United States offer for her total 1946 sugar output, estimated at 4 million tons, at 3.45 cents a pound. The offer was made by Earl Wilson, chairman of the sugar purchasing division of the Commodity Credit corporation, during his visit here last week.

The Cuban government will demand 4½ cents plus several important concessions.

Rejected by Planters, Mills

The National Sugar Mill Owners association and the National Association of Cane Planters notified President Grau San Martin of their unanimous rejection of Wilson's offer, which required Cuba to pledge not to sell more than 25,000 tons to other countries and to limit home consumption to 250,000 tons.

Cuba's demands as voiced by the organizations are:

1. The United States must guarantee to purchase 85 per cent of Cuba's sugar output for 1946 thru 1950 at a price equal to that paid Puerto Rico producers.

Demand Post-War Market

2. The United States must guarantee Cuba permanent post-war participation in the American sugar market of not less than 3 million tons a year.

3. Assurances that the present prices paid by Cuba for American rice, lard, jam, bacon, pork, corn meal, wheat flour, shoes, lumber, and machinery will not be increased.

4. Assurances that Washington will help at once in expansion of Cuba's sugar industry, rushing much needed chemical fertilizers and agricultural implements, mill machinery and repair parts.

5. Signing of a purchase and sales pact for the 1946 output before Dec. 31, 1945.

FILIPINOS HELP HAWAII HARVEST SUGAR FOR U. S.

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—Gov. Stainback of Hawaii said today at a news conference that he had approved the importation of 6,000 Filipino sugar field workers to harvest Hawaiian cane. He estimated that 75,000 tons of sugar which otherwise would have been lost will be made available to the United States market.

The laborers will be imported under an agreement which will provide that they will be returned to their islands either at the end of three years of when the emergency situation ceases to exist.

SERVICES INTRODUCE CONTRACT ENDING ON COMPANY-WIDE BASIS

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—The war and navy departments today announced a program for permitting direct settlement of war contracts on a company-wide basis, with one unit negotiating termination agreements for subsidiary and subcontract companies.

Under the joint termination procedure, contractors having war contracts with numerous agencies and customers may apply to the army or navy for direct settlement of their terminated contracts. The application then is reviewed by a joint committee of the two services and the office of contract settlement.

The program will expedite settlement in situations made complex by many subcontracts the announcement said. The contractor deals with one office instead of many customers, bureaus and services.

Rheem Manufacturing Calls 5 Pct. Preferred

Rheem Manufacturing company yesterday called for redemption on Aug. 1, at $27.50 plus accrued dividends its remaining 43,496 shares of 5 per cent convertible preferred. Conversion rights expire July 22.

Clayton Tells Blows to Kill Intrigue

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 25—Germany is being systematically stripped of use of technological equipment, processes, and inventions by a group of American and British industrial experts, Assistant Secretary of State Clayton told a senate military subcommittee today.

William L. Clayton

Unfolding the state department's program for "destroying the economic basis of German aggression," he said another necessary step was to end German economic penetration of Latin America, particularly in Argentina.

A primary object of the Anglo-American mission in Germany was to acquire information which can be used in the war against Japan, but Clayton hinted the group was not limiting its search to purely military apparatus.

Obtained for Broad Use

"It is well known that the extent and scope of modern war are such that almost all technological inventions are relevant to its successful prosecution," he said. "We may, therefore, anticipate that the joint mission will acquire most of the important technological inventions made by our enemy during the war."

Clayton Describes Blows to Kill World Intrigue

have tentatively agreed that technological information acquired in enemy territory can be legitimately used for post-war civilian purposes as well as in the war against Japan.

Documents Clayton presented to the subcommittee, which is studying the possibility of Germany's waging a third World war, showed that Argentina has failed to eliminate a single German company doing business in that country. Of 104 suspected firms only four are "in process of elimination."

Other Latins Fail to Act

Other Latin nations failing to act against German companies as requested by the state department were listed as Uruguay with 27 firms, Paraguay with five, and Chile and Colombia with 10 each, but Chile so far has eliminated 22 and Colombia four. Brazil, on the other hand, was reported to have completely eliminated 48 companies and to be in the process of eliminating 70 more.

Elimination was defined to mean that the company had been either seized or liquidated or its operation turned over to non-German interests. Because many of the German companies were essential parts of the economy of Latin countries, the United States has coöperated in building new enterprises to take their places.

Clayton revealed that British censors had intercepted letters from the Bayer subsidiary of Farbenindustrie to its home office in 1943 which disclosed not only the penetration of the German drug combine in Latin America, but that American efforts already were hampering operations.

Evidence Abundant on Plans

The state department has "abundant evidence" that German industrialists had planned to export capital and develop businesses in foreign countries so that Germany could make an economic comeback after the war. Clayton said the department, in coöperation with the treasury and the foreign economic administration, was working on a program to render the German plans ineffective.

"It is expected that rapid and substantial progress will be made in isolating Germans from the economic power they have sought to maintain thru illegal movements in neutral countries," he said.

The hearing will continue tomorrow with Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley as the main witness.

MENGEL $2.50 PREFERRED

What is the conversion privilege of Mengel company's $2.50 cumulative preferred stock? How well is the dividend protected?—H. T.

The first preferred is convertible at the holder's option into common shares in the ratio of three common for one preferred. It is callable at $55 a share. Three shares of common at the year's highest prices were worth more than $60, but the present common dividend at the indicated rate of 40 cents a year is too small to encourage conversions.

Altho the $2.50 first preferred dividend has had satisfactory earnings coverage during the war, with net income from 1940 on averaging about $12.50 a share, the pre-war earnings record was unfavorable. Net losses were reported in seven years of the 1930s. In 1939 earnings were only 51 cents a share on the first preferred, and in that year the dividend on that stock, issued in 1937, was omitted. The arrearage was cleared in 1941.

Mengel's post-war prospects are believed to have been improved by its joint plywood marketing agreement in 1943 with United States Plywood corporation. Mengel's hardwood operations cover the full range from cutting timber to production of many finished products.

Outstanding at the close of 1944 were $2,323,000 of 3¾ per cent debentures, 65,040 first preferred shares, 96 $7 preferred shares, and 417,681 common shares. Net working capital was $5,032,000, exclusive of $1,250,000 government securities held for plant expansion.

OPA INSTALLS ZONE PLAN FOR POULTRY PRICES

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—OPA today installed a new zone system for the pricing of poultry, incorporating the recently announced 1.26 cents a pound average increase in young chicken prices. The new ceilings, covering all poultry except ducks, become effective July 1. They do not alter the general level of prices except for young birds.

The zone system replaces the basing-point procedure under which prices in each city were figured on a complicated system of major market prices and freight rates. The old system was "generally unsatisfactory under war conditions where rapid population shifts and fluctuating military demands are not covered by adequate increases in local poultry population," OPA said.

The new prices give cents a pound ceilings within each zone. Two price tables are provided, one for turkeys and a second for other poultry, with the zones differing because of varying geographic practices in production and distribution.

WPB Orders Chair Maker to Reduce Use of Wood

Great Northern Chair company, 2500 Ogden av., was ordered by the WPB yesterday to reduce use of wood by 178,893 board feet from July 1 to April 1 as a result of violation of WPB limitations on the use of scarce materials in the manufacture of bent wood and metal furniture. The order cited the company for having used in three quarters of 1943, metal parts valued at $3,768 in excess of quotas, and for having obtained an apparent quota for the use of wood on the basis of metal use.

GRAINS UNEVEN AT CLOSE AFTER EARLY DECLINES

Grain futures prices were mostly uneven yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat closed ¼ cent a bushel higher to ⅛ lower, corn ¼ to ⅛ higher, oats ⅛ to 1⅛ higher, rye ⅝ higher to ⅛ lower, and barley ¼ higher to 1¼ lower.

Hedging sales in wheat futures depressed the market in the early trading along with selling on reports that Kansas City cash wheat was unchanged to 4 cents lower. An increased movement of new winter wheat was expected. Houses with southwestern connections were active buyers of futures, regarded as against sales of flour, and the market rallied quickly.

Shortage of corn at terminal markets is becoming more acute despite efforts by government agencies to speed the movement. The Pekin, Ill., plant of the Corn Products Refining company has been forced to shut down temporarily because of a lack of supplies. Other processors are operating, using reserve supplies.

Curb on Imported Cane Alcohol in Liquor Ended

Washington, D. C., June 25 (AP)—The WPB today revoked its order forbidding the processing of imported cane alcohol for beverage purposes. The control was imposed in May to prevent diversion of cane spirits into liquor.
